Hitler Orders Ten Day Fete as Armies Cease Firing.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25, Tuesday.—Germany's war against France ended early today with the historic command: "Cease firing!" These two words spelled victory for Adolf Hitler, who, in his hour of triumph, thanked God "for His blessing."

With the strains of "Deutschland Uber Alles" filling the air, Germany prepared at once to turn its vaunted war machine against Great Britain, the sole remaining enemy.

"We sail against England!" sang jubilant German choruses over the radio. The singing of this fighting song was preceded by three minutes of silence thruout Germany.

Predict Fierce Onslaught.

Authoritative sources said the onslaught on Britain "will be like nothing the world has ever seen."

The order to the German, Italian, and French armies to cease firing was issued at 1:35 a. m. [6:35 p. m. Monday, Chicago time]. The glad tidings were pealed by bells. The sound of the pealing bells was picked up by radio in Germany and in conquered Paris, Amsterdam, Warsaw, Copenhagen, Prague, Oslo, and Brussels.

A proclamation praising Hitler and declaring the victory over France surpassed the highest expectations was read over the radio in German and then in all other principal languages of the world.

Hitler Issues Proclamation.

After it was announced that France had accepted Italian armistice terms, after having yielded to those of Germany on Saturday and that hostilities would end six hours later, Hitler issued this formal proclamation:

"German people! Your soldiers in barely six weeks in a heroic fight against a brave enemy have brought to end the war in the west. Their deeds will go down in history as the most glorious victory of all time.

"In humility we thank God for His blessing.

"I order the display of flags in the reich for 10 days and the ringing of bells for seven."

To Restore Ruined Homes.

The Fuehrer ordered 100,000 Germans who had been removed from their homes near the Siegfried line to return. He promised them the government would restore damaged or destroyed houses.

The cease firing order brought to an end a 46 day campaign. In that time France was beaten. More than half of the republic's soil was occupied by German troops. In addition the Nazi flag flew over the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxemburg.

Germany has obtained possession of the Atlantic coast from the arctic regions to Spain in 78 days, namely, since the beginning of the Scandinavian campaign on April 9.

Last Minute Preparations.

Nazis predicted that the next blitzkrieg—that against England—will completely overshadow the war against France. It was said that Hitler's army, navy, and air force were making last minute preparations for the "great attack." However, there was no indication as to when this offensive would start.

The admiralty announced that Gen. Admiral Erich H. A. Raeder, commander of the German navy, had convinced himself of the preparedness of ships, naval bases, and coastal batteries in a five day inspection tour.

Meanwhile U-boat activity against British shipping continues unabated, the German high command announced.

Complete details of a pending peace conference of continental powers—Germany, its axis partner, Italy, and France, Belgium, and the Netherlands—were expected to be issued in the near future and after the Germans have decided where it is to be held.

22,000 French Surrender.

The French, it was disclosed, resisted the German army up until the last minute of the war. The high command announced that 22,000 French surrendered in the Vosges mountains. One army corps commander, 3 divisional commanders, and 36 batteries of artillery, half of them motorized, were captured. On the Atlantic coast the Germans occupied the mouth of the Gironde river, including the port of Rochefort. Southeast of Lyons the Germans reached the vicinity of Chambery, in the Savoy Alps.

England Rushes Its Defense; Hopes for French Rebel Aid.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25 Tuesday.—Air raid warnings early today sent thousands of London night workers to public shelters and basements in office buildings. Sirens shrilled as the British government feverishly moved to salvage as much as possible of the wreck of France as an active ally and to organize Great Britain's defense against Germany.

The air raid warnings sounded while Nazi planes dropped many bombs in southeast and southwest England. The bombers sped over Wales and went as far as northwest England. The raids were of the widest extent in any one day since the war began last Sept. 3.

Three civilians were killed in a town in the southwest of England and elsewhere six civilians were injured, the air ministry announced. No serious damage was done to property, it was said.

Hear Drone of Planes.

There were no immediate reports of bombings in London. Great searchlights swept the sky and picked out one enemy plane. No sound of antiaircraft fire penetrated the heart of the capital. However, heavy antiaircraft fire was reported in distant districts.

The drone of plane engines was heard in the southwest before the London alarms were sounded. The bombers were high and speeding northward.

London had air raid warnings the day war was declared and again on Sept. 4 and Oct. 10, but no planes were sighted and the last alarm admittedly was an error.

Says Fleet Will Not Give Up.

The raids came after Gen. Charles de Gaulle, French undersecretary for war in Paul Reynaud's government, who, after being removed from command by the Bordeaux government, delivered these three announcements:

FIRST—The French fleet will not surrender to the enemy.

SECOND—Commanders of French troops in Morocco, Syria, and Indo-China telegraphed him that they were continuing the war on Britain's side.

THIRD—As proof that the French government which is being organized in England "really" represents the French people, such men as Reynaud; Georges Mandel, former minister of interior, and Cesar Campinchi, minister of marine, are on their way to London to collaborate in the "fight for the honor and salvation of France."

Refuses to Give Reasons.

De Gaulle refused to comment on the reasons which induced him to state that the French fleet is not surrendering. However, it is known that as far as the fleet is concerned the British are not leaving all activity to diplomats.

De Gaulle declared that organization of a new French government probably would not occur in England "but somewhere on French soil." He declined to indicate in what French colony or island the government intends to function.

The British, in preparing to meet Adolf Hitler's legions in battle, were cheered by the arrival in England from France of a wandering Polish army.

Arrival of the Polish forces was disclosed by Gen. Wladyslaf Sikorski, the Polish prime minister.

Hints at Size of Army.

Sikorski mentioned two Polish divisions as having been in action near the Maginot line and "part of the armored division of Gen. Maczek." In addition he spoke of the "highland brigade of Gen Szysko-Bohusz" which had fought in Norway.

British defense forces are massing all possible equipment and men to resist any conceivable move by the enemy.

Besides British troops that survived the catastrophe in France and the Canadians who had arrived in England previously, England has been further strengthened by diversion to Britain of Australian and New Zealand troops who were originally destined for the near east.

Nevertheless, military authorities here consider it unlikely that Britain's front line troops number more than 300,000 with 1,000,000 others in various stages of training and waiting for industry to produce arms before they can be classed as first line fighters.

Sale of Naval Ships Halted by Roosevelt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 24.—The administration's attempt to sell 20 naval vessels to the British was called off by President Roosevelt late today after he was informed by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson that the transaction would be illegal.

The proposed release of the vessels, which are uncompleted motor torpedo [mosquito] boats, was exposed last week by THE TRIBUNE. This exposé aroused a storm of controversy in the senate, and now is followed by Mr. Roosevelt's action in calling off the deal.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Lewis Compton had told of the proposal in testimony before the senate naval affairs committee.

Calls Deal a Violation.

After the matter was made public, Representative Francis Case [R., S. D.] declared that the proposed deal would violate provisions of the espionage act of June 15, 1917, which carries penalties of up to a $10,000 fine and/or imprisonment of five years for violation.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, then asserted that if the espionage act still is in force "the courts should take jurisdiction and proceed to enforce it."

Mr. Roosevelt thru his secretary admitted approval of the deal on the "recommendation" of the treasury and navy departments, and requested an opinion from Attorney General Jackson. That opinion was the one on which today's decision was based.

Orders Negotiations Ended.

Upon this confirmation of the charge that the boat transfer would be illegal, the President ordered Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison and Assistant Secretary Compton to break off negotiations which were being conducted with the Electric Boat company.

Edison, in his last press conference before retiring today to run for governor of New Jersey, disclosed that the British had failed in efforts to purchase destroyers here. Pressure was brought on the navy to sell 111 world war destroyers, he said, but declared none was sold.

KEYNOTE REKINDLES FAITH IN FUTURE; 40 CONGRESSMEN FIGHT WILLKIE BOOM

Three Sided Battle with Dewey and Taft Shapes Up.

Two Picture Pages

Turn to the back page and page 6 for two full pages of pictures on the opening of the Republican national convention in Philadelphia. Many of the pictures were taken by Tribune cameramen and sent to Chicago by Tribune-AP wirephoto and chartered airplane.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—The battle between the adherents and opponents of Wendell L. Willkie, business men's candidate for the Republican nomination for President, raged thruout the first day of the G. O. P. national convention and far into the night.

Two score western congressmen who organized the drive against Willkie with the cry that the nomination of the utility executive would split the party were confident tonight they had succeeded in stopping the Willkie boom.

The Willkie managers were no less confident that the effort to stop their candidate had failed. They were claiming gains in a score or more of states, representing inroads chiefly into the strength of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and were predicting the nomination of Willkie on the third or fourth ballot.

Shares Interest with Keynote.

This extraordinary struggle over the presidential aspiration of a man who was not accounted a serious contender a month ago vied in interest with the speech tonight of Temporary Chairman Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota striking the keynote of the Republican bid for restoration to power in the national government.

The Willkie managers claimed tonight that the Massachusetts delegation of 34 would go to the utility man on the second ballot. Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., Republican leader of the house and No. 1 delegate from the Bay state, snorted with unconcealed disgust that he guessed the report was true.

Likewise from the Willkie camp came the claim that Pennsylvania's 72 votes will break from Favorite Son Gov. Arthur H. James on the third or fourth ballot and plump for Willkie. Joe Pew, the oil magnate who is reputed to control the Pennsylvanians, has been subjected to intense pressure by scores of big business concerns numbered among his customers to get in line for Willkie.

Seek Support from Ford.

The Willkie high command was concentrating late today on efforts to get Henry Ford to declare for the utility man. There was a long distance telephone conversation between Ford and Willkie this afternoon.

From all sides came evidence of the marvelous organization behind the Willkie boom. This organization, directed from Wall street, where the Willkie boom originated, has cast over the country a vast network of wires that are being pulled to influence delegates. It is a business men's mobilization of business influence for the business candidate.

An illustration of the operation of the huge Willkie lobby was supplied by more than 1,000 telegrams received today by the Texas delegation from banks, oil companies, insurance companies, manufacturers, utilities, retail and wholesale merchants, and numerous other business concerns asking votes for Willkie. An Indiana delegate who is a lawyer said that a dozen of his corporation clients had wired him urgent pleas to support the power magnate.

Expect Three Cornered Fight.

An Ohio delegate said that the president of the bank in which he carries his account had requested his support of Willkie as a favor. Other delegates told of similar requests emanating from the heads of concerns in which they are stockholders, from stockbrokers, and from other business connections and associates.

Altogether a three cornered fight among Dewey, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and Willkie is in pros-

ILLINOIS PEACE PLANK A MODEL FOR CONVENTION

The Illinois Plank.

"The Republican party stands for Americanism and peace. The Democratic party stands for internationalism and war.

"We demand, as we have demanded, an adequate national defense to protect the United States against invasion, but we insist that not one drop of blood of American youth shall be spilled on a foreign shore for the purpose of interfering in any European or Asiatic conflict."—Adopted by Illinois state Republican convention in Springfield, June 14, 1940.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Intense discussion of an antiwar plank at a meeting of the Illinois delegation to the Republican convention tonight was cut short abruptly by a telephone call from Wayland Brooks, the state's representative on the convention committee on resolutions, to Dwight Green, chairman of the delegation.

Later both declined to reveal what was said, but the resultant sudden termination of the caucus was believed a definite indication that the national antiwar plank may be modeled after the plank on that subject in the Illinois Republican state platform adopted at Springfield on June 14, which appears above.

Seek Vigorous Declaration.

Green's call for the resumption of the caucus recessed Sunday after the election of Werner W. Schroeder as national committeeman and the filling of other offices was issued late in the afternoon as the result of pleas from many of his associates that a formal demand be made for the adoption of a vigorous declaration on foreign relations in the platform here. Brooks had agreed to the call, but he was absent at the meeting hour and it was explained that he was kept away by his resolutions committee duties.

Green explained the purpose of the second meeting in an energetic way.

"I have called you together again," he said, "to present for your consideration the platform adopted at the Illinois state convention. That platform was adopted without a dissenting voice and with enthusiastic approval by a most harmonious state convention in which every group of our party was represented.

Grave Issues Considered.

"That convention considered seriously the grave national and international issues facing the American people, considered with only one thought—what is best for America.

"The world is aflame! Every citizen in America expects both parties to state their position on the most Build Defense, Walk in Peace, Stassen Tells Convention.

The complete text of Gov. Stassen's keynote address appears on page 4.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—The Republican national convention got under way tonight with an inspiring keynote address from one of the youngest leaders of the party, Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota. He is 33 years old.

Fresh from a visit to Independence Square, where the muted tones of the Liberty Bell were sounded for their benefit and where they visited the scene of the foundations of this republic, the delegates were well attuned to the plea in the opening address of their convention. They were urged to do as well in this situation as their forefathers had done in 1776.

Once more, Gov. Stassen reminded them, the black shadow of despotism falls over the world, and it remains for the American people to keep alight the great lighthouse of liberty erected by our forefathers.

Stassen Commands Attention.

Gov. Stassen was escorted to the platform at 9:20 o'clock. He was presented by Chairman John Hamilton, who introduced him as the youngest man who ever gave the keynote address in the 22 conventions of the party. Seven years of hard work in the party have brought him, Hamilton said, to the governorship of Minnesota.

Stassen's voice rang thruout the convention hall. His tall, blue clad figure, his earnest manner, commanded attention.

"The press and the radio on this very day," he said, "have brought to us added news of the horrors and tragedies of the war across the sea as ruthless rulers crush free men."

He drew a dark picture of the present day world, here and abroad, and then brought applause as he said:

"This would be a dark picture if we did not also see the great potentialities of a free people, talented sons and daughters of every nation in the world, having in their possession natural resources unequaled by any other nation.

"Let us announce here and now that we have faith in the future of this nation and its way of life."

Responsibility on Every Citizen.

Every citizen, Stassen said, faces now the responsibility of supporting his government and the duty of deciding who shall exercise leadership in the next four years.

Criticism at this hour, said Stassen, is evidence that democracy still is working here. He said it was a patriotic duty to analyze the leadership which this country has and that which it should have.

The convention applauded the four major fronts which Stassen emphasized as the next advance for this nation. These are national preparedness, defense against the fifth column, domestic economic welfare, and governmental effectiveness and integrity.

Marked applause followed his analysis of the preparedness front and his analysis of the failure of the present administration in this regard.

New Leadership Demanded.

"Shall this leadership in the tremendous task of preparedness be with the men who for seven years have been in complete charge of our country, using the Democratic label?" he asked.

"No!" cried the delegates.

Stassen took apart the President's fireside chat about preparedness, declaring that an effort was made to give the people a false impression.

"By the politically timed appointment on the eve of this convention," he said, "of two men of our party to two cabinet posts, the President has made an eleventh hour failure in the national defense administration. We are pleased that the prospect of our convention caused this sudden improvement over New Deal incompetence, and it is only regrettable that we cannot change the entire cabinet and the man who heads it with equal abruptness."

This view of the appointment of Republicans to the cabinet led to a wild burst of applause.

Stassen denounced as a dangerous example of the wrong way to prepare the proposal of the President that all boys and girls be compelled to enter government training camps.

This is not the American way, Stassen declared. The convention stood and applauded when he said he would rather leave it to the church, the school, and the home to teach Americanism than the discipline of an army camp—the Hitler way.

His analysis of the fifth column defense aroused another standing cheer from the delegates.

"First and foremost," said Stassen, "there must be the determination that no one supporting communism, Nazism, or Fascism shall be permitted upon the public pay rolls of this nation."

He attacked the New Deal government as giving aid and leadership to fifth column activities, and pictured the New Dealers as patting the flanks of the Trojan horse.

Hold on to Democracy.

After analyzing the domestic front and finding tragic failure to lead to the more abundant life Stassen brought up the challenge to democracy to make itself more effective without surrendering its basic principles.

"The inefficiency of our government is a travesty," he said, "in a land that has developed such magnificent efficiency in private endeavor."

As to foreign policy, Stassen said "we can neither fully anticipate these problems nor can we tie our hands before meeting them."

Our interests, he declared, lie in this hemisphere and we cannot permit an armed force, aggressive in nature, with a philosophy foreign to ours, to establish itself upon this hemisphere.

"It is the responsibility of government in its foreign policy to endeavor in every honorable way to create and nurture a world environment in which its people can proceed along life's path in peace," he said.

Raps Third Term Ambitions.

At the close of his address, which lasted an hour, Stassen said that democracy within the Democratic party has been destroyed. He said the saddest chapter of the last four years has been that the national administration, instead of keeping its eyes on the welfare of the people, has turned its political gaze upon a third term.

"Fellow delegates," he concluded, "if we could reverse the magic of the radio tonight, if we could turn our microphone into a receiving set, we would hear an overwhelming message sweeping in upon us. It would be a cry for leadership to make America strong and our way of life secure.

"Let us proceed with our deliberations here in the historic city of Philadelphia. Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God."

The delegates applauded for two minutes at the conclusion of the address and a motion was carried to adjourn until morning.

CROWD IN NOISY MOOD

The night session, following formal organization in the morning, was scheduled for 9:30 p. m., but it was 10 o'clock before Chairman Hamilton was able to reduce the gathering to a semblance of order.

The invocation was given by Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, whose red cap and black gown added a high touch of color to the brilliant convention scene.

The prelate prayed:

"Almighty and merciful God, we come to thee as children to their father; and beseech thee to help us, above all in these sad days, when so great a part of the world is laid in ruins, and when danger and sorrow hang like a black pall over millions of thy creatures.

"Inspire this assembly to proclaim to the world a high resolve to preserve the peace of our land, promote national happiness and perpetuate the blessings of equal liberty, based on justice and right."

A new song, The Ballad for America, which has something of the strength and beauty of a Negro spiritual, was sung with the aid of chorus and band. Its final heights brought applause from the hall, which was packed in the evening session to the highest gallery seat.

IN EUROPE'S SHADOW

The morning session opened formally at 11:45 o'clock. Music and lights heralded the gathering of delegates from all the states and territories of the union—a weaving human pattern out of which a new program and a voice for America would arise.

The atmosphere of the gathering had something unusual about it, altho it would be hard to define. Over the bright scenes—where new and familiar faces mingled, where tradition was strong, where things seemed marked with the smiling, cheerful stability of the old days—there was a shadow.

It was cast from every headline, the shadow of Europe. It was voiced in the confidences of delegates, in their wondering what would happen and who would lead them out of a dark place, in the belief that something new was happening in American politics—and must happen.

Former Chicagoan Prays.

It was heard in the address of welcome by Robert E. Lamberton, Republican mayor of Philadelphia, and was voiced in prayer and song in this opening hour.

After the singing of America the convention was led in prayer by the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian church of Washington, formerly a Chicago pastor.

"Standing here in this solemn hour of world tragedy," he said, "reverently before Almighty God and humbly before our fellow countrymen, may this office of religion be no empty concession to established custom, but may it articulate our sense of utter dependence upon a higher counsel and a more commanding leadership than man himself has to offer.

"Once in an hour of national peril the prophet Isaiah rallied his bewildered countrymen with a tremendous declaration of faith. Said he, 'when the enemy shall come in like a flood, the spirit of the Lord shall lift up a standard against him.' This declaration is one we need to hear today, and about that standard the freemen of the earth must gather.

Republicans Replace Democrats.

In the time of the Democratic national convention in Philadelphia four years ago, a Democratic mayor and governor were in the welcoming van. Now times have changed and there is a Republican governor, Arthur James, as well as a Republican mayor.

After welcoming the delegates and telling them of the city, Mayor Lamberton said:

"You have returned to the city where the first national convention of the Republican party was held in 1856. The nation needed the Republican party then. The Republican party saved the union. There are many of us who feel that the nation needs the Republican party even more today, in order that the American system of government may be saved. There is a heavy responsibility resting on your shoulders. You have a great patriotic duty to perform. May God give you strength and wisdom in your deliberations."

Secretary Reads Call.

After this the Adelphi quartet sang "God Bless America" and then the call for the convention was read by Harold W. Mason of Vermont, secretary of the national committee.

Then came the temporary roll call and election of temporary officers. On motion of Wayland Brooks, delegate from Illinois and candidate for senator from that state, the selections of the national committee in these offices was approved without debate. In this way Gov. Stassen learned officially that he was to take charge of the evening session and deliver the keynote speech.

Committee appointments were announced and the committees were set to work.

One of the familiar faces on the platform was that of Horace H. Bancroft of Jacksonville, a reading clerk who has a voice that booms out like that of a sea captain in a storm. All troubles with hearing are over when Bancroft reads resolutions. He has been practicing for two months in a barn at home, delivering speeches from the Old Testament, in order to get into his accustomed good shape.

Elephants Join in Festivities.

Republican traditions were served by the arrival of three big lumbering elephants in front of the convention hall. The animals—named Babe, Boob, and Juno—were sent to the gathering by Dr. P. A. Bernard of Nyack, N. Y., who has a hobby of raising pachyderms. The elephants locked their trunks and marched up and down the sidewalk, much to the enjoyment of hundreds of children as well as the G. O. P. delegates.

Shortly before the convening hour, a marching unit of 120 from the Uncle Sam's Republican club of Erie county [Buffalo, N. Y.] pranced up to the hall. Dressed in snappy Uncle Sam costumes of red peppermint striped trousers, blue coats, white vests, and grey topper hats, the unit distributed literature extolling Tom Dewey's candidacy.

In the vestibule were a number of displays assailing the Roosevelt administration for hidden taxes, government spending and broken promises. On one of these a hand whizzed around the face of a clock and a sign read "One fourth of every working day you labor to pay the tax collector."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—John Hamilton, his lantern jaws glistening in the heat, his hair in crisp, symmetrical waves, gave five great knocks with his gavel and roared for seated silence, but the women kept on talking.

The lady delegate from Wyoming, a sensational, if awkward, figure in fringed buckskin breeches and jacket, black felt hat, and black leather boots, descended in sorrow from the altitude at which she had perched to brandish a toy cap pistol. Resigning herself to a namby-pamby flourish of a paper fan marked "Fan for Van," she cried, "I'm a cow girl!" She is Mrs. Mary L. Muir of Rock Spring, Wyo., middle aged and secretive about her vote.

Her First Convention.

The lady delegate from Alaska, Mrs. Ann Robertson of Juneau, resmoothed her white bobbed hair and gazed raptly toward the big black eagle on the wall. This is her first convention, and she is somewhat abashed at the noise, the tumult, and the variety of candidates. She has one of Alaska's three votes, but she hasn't decided what to do with it.

The lady delegates from Massachusetts sit in imposing, tremendous array. They are radiant with glee. Massachusetts, with 80,000 more women than men, at last has a delegation almost half feminine. "The men have to talk to us whether they want to or not," one cries. They all are for Willkie.

The opening session is too dull for general attention. The women content themselves with ogling about for celebrities. They find most of them behind the rostrum, in the rows reserved for people of importance.

Wears a Salad Bowl Hat.

Up there, Gov. Stassen of Minnesota escorts his young wife to a vantage seat. Only her hat, an inverted salad bowl, is visible. Across a mile of seats sits Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts, now in her eighth term in congress. Her friendly, intelligent face sparkles under a wide red hat, and she pauses, on her way to make a brief radio speech, to say a word to gamin-faced Joe Martin of the house, the bachelor among the big names of the convention.

Joe wears two red carnations, but gallantly gives one to Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal, retiring committeewoman from Arizona, who turns a serious ear to the convention proceedings.

Mrs. Taft Breaks Precedents.

Up a few dozen rows sits Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wearing red hat and red carnation and blithely breaking a few dozen precedents to come. "Why not?" she asks. "I wanted to, and Bob can't." She has attended every convention since her marriage to Bob Taft in 1914, and she worried two hours for fear she couldn't get into this one; no one had given her a ticket. When she did arrive, she stumbled and tore the knee out of her stocking. Three of the four Taft boys are in the gallery.

One white haired Philadelphia dowager, august in purple, is there with her maid. Mrs. George Wyeth, a beautiful committeewoman from Missouri, can't hear; she borrows an earphone from a nearby radio set and holds it under her floppy yellow hat to hear the broadcast. Landon, titular head of the party, poses with a Kansas sign. Some one asks for Mrs. Landon. "She's here—this time," he says. "But not at the hall yet."

Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday. Cook county youths will get 2,014 of the jobs, the others being allotted downstate. GIRL HIT BY STRAY BULLET.

Miss Elizabeth Bergott, 16 years old, 1482 Huron street, was struck in the left shoulder by a stray bullet last night as she was walking in front of 710 Bishop street on her way home. The wound was treated at a physician's office. Police were unable to learn who had fired the bullet.

INDICATE G. O. P. LEANS TO ILLINOIS ANTI-WAR PLANK

important issue of all—foreign affairs. Illinois has spoken, spoken in a way that voices the true spirit of the nation. Here in Philadelphia we find delegation after delegation taking up our battle cry: 'The Democratic party is the war party. The Republican party is the antiwar party.'

"Illinois' platform is bound to be the textbook for those drawing up the national platform. Illinois wants this nation to stay out of war. Illinois wants no entangling alliances. We are here to carry out the Illinois platform and it is our duty to reaffirm the stand taken at Springfield."

Motion Made by Judge Nelson.

Green declared that he would entertain a motion authorizing the officers of the Illinois delegation to place in the hands of every delegate in the national convention a copy of the Illinois antiwar plank.

That motion was made by Judge Oscar F. Nelson of Chicago, an alternate sitting for a delegate at large. Then Judge Nelson went on to hint at what probably was the subject of the later telephone conversation between Green and Brooks.

"I left Wayland Brooks half an hour ago," said Nelson, "and he told me that when he attended a meeting of the resolutions committee he had no hesitation in saying that he was very much disappointed with the plank submitted by the unofficial drafting committee.

Brooks' Views Sought.

"But he was told that a new drafting committee had been appointed to rewrite the plank and he was asked for his views. Therefore, I include in my motion an additional provision that Illinois' representative on the resolutions committee be instructed to put up a vigorous fight to have the Illinois antiwar plank adopted here."

Judge Daniel P. Trude suggested that the delegation should not demand the exact terminology used at Springfield if the national plank were made fully as strong as the state declaration. To that Judge Nelson agreed. Richard J. Lyons, delegate at large, read to the delegation parts of a ringing antiwar appeal he delivered at the state convention.

Illinoisans to Hear Dewey.

At this point, Green announced that Brooks was calling him on a telephone in an adjoining room and left the chair. He returned to say, in effect, that perhaps distribution of copies of the Illinois plank might not be necessary, but Judge Nelson's motion was passed and the meeting adjourned with the question of distribution of the copies left open until later because no copy of the Springfield text was available immediately.

Green announced that he will give a breakfast to the delegates and the alternates tomorrow morning. Delegate Leonard C. Reid, Illinois manager for Thomas E. Dewey, asked whether that presidential candidate might take the occasion to express his appreciation of the big vote given him in Illinois on April 9. Green, after consulting with Brooks later in the evening, said he had included Dewey on his invitation list and that the New Yorker will sit between him and Brooks at the breakfast table."

Convention Notes

Philadelphia, Pa., June 24 (AP).—Excluding votes, the most important equipment a delegate should bring to a national political convention is a pair of shin guards and an old-fashioned baseball chest protector. Life can be awful without this equipment.

At the Republican convention there isn't an elevator that doesn't look like a massmeeting. A man got in one wiping his forehead and had to ride six floors before he could lower his handkerchief. A pair of white shoes doesn't have a chance.

The opening session of the convention today turned out to be a scramble for seats rather than for anybody's bandwagon. There were 7,000 vacant chairs in the galleries, but the floor was so crowded that a California alternate had to sit in the lap of a delegate. The alternate was a blonde.

The delegates who did find seats were forced to make a hard decision. Heaped into every chair before meeting time were a Taft carnation, a copy of the Star Spangled Banner, a fan, and four assorted pieces of convention literature. Some delegates held onto everything. Some sat on it all. The Californian who had the blonde in his lap made her hold the gifts.

Gov. Harold E. Stassen had trouble getting onto the floor. Arriving late, he appeared at one of the entrances.

"Got a badge, bud?" asked the guard.

The Minnesota governor, the convention keynoter, fumbled in his pocket.

"That's the convention keynoter!" shouted a friend.

"Sorry, sir," said the guard, "I just look at badges, not faces."

A man who was born in Puerto Rico charged the delegate section. A guard met his rush with a well aimed block.

"Where's your badge?" asked the guard.

"I have none."

"Then you can't get in."

"Very well," said the intruder haughtily, "I'll go home and get my citizenship papers."

TAFT'S BACKERS PROPHESY FINAL VICTORY FOR HIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Headquarters for Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio issued several claims today to support their contention that the Republican national convention will eventually turn to their candidate as the presidential nominee.

Delegates from more than 20 states have been in conference with the senator within the last 24 hours, these claims read, and the stream continues today. Ohio's 52 delegates reaffirmed their support for their favorite son, it was asserted, and the 26 votes from Texas were pledged under the leadership of R. B. Creager, national committeeman and Taft floor manager.

Senator Taft, in an interview with Mrs. Arthur D. Lynn of Springfield, Mass., national president of the Mothers of American Sons, declared that he stood, and would continue to stand, squarely against intervention in the European war. The senator subscribed, he said, to "a maximum of defense for this hemisphere, not only in a military way but also against any subversive activities which are trying to overthrow our form of government."

U. S. FLEET UNITS QUIT HAWAII; MAY GO TO CANAL ZONE

HONOLULU, June 24 (AP).—Several units of the United States fleet, including an aircraft carrier, steamed away today, disappearing around Diamond Head on the steamship channel to the mainland amid unconfirmed reports they were enroute to the Panama canal. The navy department refused to confirm or deny the reports.

The cruiser Indianapolis, flagship of Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Hawaiian detachment, remained in Pearl Harbor. It was reported the detachment, consisting of about 30 vessels, would continue on duty in Hawaiian waters.

The fleet has been concentrated here since the completion two months ago of the annual tactical exercises.

LIBERTY BELL, AS IN 1776, RINGS ITS CALL TO FREEDOM

Republicans Pledge Faith at Historic Scene.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 23.—The Liberty Bell pealed forth its historic message of freedom in Independence hall late today to 3,500 Republicans who then in a reverent silence rededicated themselves to American principles of government.

The bell's muted tones rang out thirteen times in honor of the thirteen original states. Each call emphasized the warnings of preceding speakers that with individual liberty vanishing from much of the world this nation must fight to keep the representative form of government written into our constitution here 153 years ago.

Speaks Anew of Freedom.

It was on the morning of July 8, 1776, that the Liberty Bell first spoke for freedom. Then it called together Philadelphians to hear read the Declaration of Independence. Today it spoke to the Republicans who had assembled on the walnut shaded greensward for a patriotic session of their national convention.

A heavy downpour had cleared the air. Flags flew from the speaker's pavilion. Patriotic songs were sung by a chorus, with the audience rising to sing "America" and also joining in with "God Bless America." It was a setting of peace from which the speakers—George Wharton Pepper, former United States senator from Pennsylvania and John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee — drew the theme that present liberties are in danger and must be guarded by continual vigilance.

Franklin's Words Recalled.

Pepper recalled a remark made by Benjamin Franklin when he was asked after a closed session of the constitution convention of 1787: "Well, doctor, what have we got—a republic or a monarchy?" Franklin's reply was: "A republic, if you can keep it."

"For 144 years," said Pepper, amid applause, "we did keep it a republic—most of the time as a matter of course. Within the last seven years, however, we have come to realize more clearly than ever before why wise old Dr. Franklin issued the solemn warning implied in his big 'if.'

"During these seven years we have seen at Washington a peacetime centralization of government almost as great as anything we have known in war—and this is not as a momentary concession to a passing emergency, but as a pattern of government commended to us for all future time.

Deplores Government Trends.

"We have watched an unprecedented development of executive power until the point has been reached at which it is scarcely an exaggeration to say that it is the President who must be asked if one want to know what the congress is going to do and what the court is going to decide.

"We have seen the power of life and death over American enterprise lodged in the hands of men and women who not only have never themselves been elected to office, but who would not dare to appear before any American electorate. We have watched the quenching of American business initiative.

"The failure of the Democratic administration in time of peace is a poor passport to public confidence in time of peril. That administration has poured out our money like water; we must not allow it to do the like with the blood of our sons."

Warns Against Complacency.

Hamilton asked whether citizens of the United States have not been failing to uphold republican principles of government.

"We begin to see that we have been to complacent," he said. "We have felt too secure, taken too much for granted—both hard earned liberties and the bounties of nature which we inherited. Individual liberty and opportunity are gone in much of the world; the rights of man, slowly built up over a thousand years, are vanishing today.

"Our exercises here today are conducted under the title Americanism and patriotism. It is an inspiring combination. In the light of history, and in the spirit of the great convention which is enjoying the hospitality of this historic city, permit me to make our theme a natural trinity—Americanism, patriotism, and Republicanism."

Girl, 11, Sounds Bell.

A descendant of Benjamin Franklin sounded the liberty bell for the Republicans today. She is 11 year old Marguretta Sergeant Large Duane, of Rosemont, Pa., a granddaughter five times removed. The peals rang out with increasing fervor as the struck liberty bell with the hard rubber mallet used to prevent injury to it.

ORDER U. S. WARSHIP TO STAY IN URUGUAY; NAZI PROBE UNDER WAY

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, June 24—(AP).—The United States cruiser Quincy, scheduled to leave Montevideo tomorrow after a "good will" visit at a time when Uruguay is investigating alleged pro-Nazi plots to occupy the country, received unexpected orders tonight from Washington, D. C., to remain "for a few more days."

In addition, it was learned, the flagship Wichita of the seventh cruiser squadron, has left Rio de Janeiro for Montevideo and is expected to arrive on June 29.

Observers here took the presence of a United States warship in Montevideo harbor as an indication that the United States would back up the Uruguay government in its actions against foreign-dictated plots.

The chamber of deputies tonight turned the report of a special commission named to investigate Nazi activities over to the department of administration and justice with instructions to draw up measures to safeguard against subversive activities.

MILKMEN'S WAGE ARBITRATION TO START JULY 15

The question of wages for milk wagon drivers will be submitted to a board of arbitration on July 15. Under the agreement between the Associated Milk Dealers and the Milk Wagon Drivers' union a decision must be reached by August 23.

Members of the board are Msgr. Dennis J. Dunne, pastor of Holy Cross church; Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, and Thomas Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the union.

Under the terms of the truce which ended the drivers' strike May 26, failure of negotiation placed the matter in the hands of the arbitration board, final court of appeal.

City's Red Cross Relief Fund Reaches $1,126,508

Contributions received by the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross in its campaign for war relief funds reached $1,126,508 yesterday. The chapter's minimum quota had been set at $1,000,000, but James B. Forgan, president, said that the continued effort of volunteer canvassers would send the final total much higher. New contributions included $3,210 from the First National bank, $1,105 from the Illinois Agriculture association, and $1,000 from the Evanston chapter.

DEWEY REMAINS CONFIDENT HE'LL BE QUICK WINNER

Expects Victory Early as Second Ballot.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Emerging for a moment from a whirl of conferences with state delegations and Republican big wigs from all sections of the country, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York today predicted he would win the Republican presidential nomination on the second or third ballot at the national convention here.

On the first ballot, the New York prosecutor confidently declared, he would receive between 370 and 420 votes from the 1,000 accredited delegates. There would be pluses and minuses on the second tally, but the end result would be a substantial net increase, according to Dewey.

Dewey revealed he had been able to snatch only 8 hours sleep out of the 46 hours since he came to Philadelphia but he looked and talked his usual chipper self at an afternoon press conference. Some one asked him whether he would make an immediate acceptance speech if nominated.

No Speech; No Plane.

"I haven't written a line of that speech," he retorted. "Besides I couldn't use an airplane here."

This sally was a reference to the President's dramatic flight to the Chicago Democratic convention which nominated Mr. Roosevelt in 1932.

One reason for Dewey's optimism was said to be the report his campaign managers carried to him that the tide for Wendell L. Willkie, public utility executive, was ebbing. Willkie's surge to the front gave the Dewey camp some concern last night but today the feeling was that the peak had been reached.

This feeling was reflected in Dewey's reply to a question on the announcement last night that Connecticut's 16 votes would go to Willkie.

"I think it's well to have the lines formed in advance instead of later," he said.

Denies "Stop Willkie" Activity.

Dewey insisted that neither he nor his organization had taken part in a "Stop Willkie" movement. He acknowledged there had been a great deal of talk about Willkie, but did not believe it had been translated into delegate strength. Dewey also denied having conducted any negotiations with Senator Robert A. Taft, another leading contender.

Turning to a discussion of preparedness, Dewey expressed the opinion the President was attempting another pump priming experiment in the building of armaments, judging from his mention of "jobs" in the recent White House fireside chat.

"You can't support a people on armaments," observed Dewey. "The people support the armaments thru taxation."

Dewey headquarters announced tonight that William E. King of Chicago, Negro delegate, former Illinois state senator and Republican nominee for congress, would make a seconding speech for the New York prosecutor. John Lord O'Brian, Buffalo lawyer, will deliver the nominating address for Dewey.

MRS. WILLKIE STAYS OUT OF THE PUBLIC EYE

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24 [Special].—Edith Willkie is as inconspicuous here this week as her husband is conspicuous. She is here, but more or less in seclusion.

She made one of her rare public appearances today when she attended a women's tea given by the Philadelphia chapter of the American Association of University Women. Even there she was reticent.

In a short interview she smilingly said nothing. She made it clear that she not only was reluctant to discuss either politics or herself, but that she didn't intend to. Her interests, she said, are "my home and family."

She and Mr. Willkie have one son, Philip, who is 20 years old.

BIDDLE ORDERED TO TRAIL EXILED POLISH REGIME

Washington, D. C., June 24 (AP).—The United States withdrew its chief diplomatic representative from Bordeaux today in a move which raised questions as to present and future relations with the Petain ministry in France.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced that Anthony J. Drexel Biddle had been ordered to leave the temporary French capital and resume in London his duties as ambassador to the exiled Polish government.

The secretary said that Biddle's departure for London had nothing to do with the question of possible withdrawal of recognition of the Petain government in favor of the newly-formed French national committee in London which is seeking to organize continued French resistance in the war. The United States destroyer Dickerson is waiting at Bilbao, Spain, to take Biddle and his staff to London.

Indications were that any decision on continued recognition of the French government would await further evidence of French colonial and other support for the new London committee.

India Announces Loss of 661 Ton Patrol Vessel

SIMLA, India, June 24 (AP).—The Indian government today announced the loss of the 661 ton patrol vessel Pathan of the royal Indian navy. Two officers, a petty officer, and two enlisted men were killed, and an officer and seven men wounded.

SPINACH! WILLKIE SNORTS AT RISING TIDE AGAINST HIM

Undaunted by Opposition of Congress Group.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—"That's a lot of spinach!" snorted Wendell L. Willkie today when informed that a group of Republican congressmen representing 20 states had repudiated his presidential candidacy as that of a newly reformed New Deal Democrat whose foreign and domestic policies are subject to suspicion.

The utility head refused to be daunted by the strength of the movement to kill his prospects of obtaining the Republican nomination. His confidence, amounting to cockiness, was bolstered by the demonstrations he received every time he appeared in public and by a constant flow of visitors to his headquarters.

Told of Congressional Letter.

He was passing through the barroom of the Bellevue Stratford hotel on his way to an exit when cornered by a reporter who gave him the bad news that the Republican congressional group had spurned him as a handicap to the ticket who would insure defeat in the middle west and spoil the present excellent chances that the house of representatives will go Republican in the fall.

Hemmed in by a crowd of the curious, jostled and pushed as he fought his way along, Willkie kept a grin on his sweat beaded face. At first, he refused to believe the report. He had heard a rumor, he said, but he had not heard that the names of any congressmen were attached to the open letter to all delegates calling for the nomination of a candidate whose views were in harmony with the Republican record in congress.

Reaffirms His Confidence.

Told that eight house leaders had signed the document, Willkie shrugged off the importance of the development with his "spinach" quip. He had every reason to believe, he said, that the swing to him had not weakened but was growing.

With typical audacity, Willkie started the day by invading a breakfast given in honor of Gov. Arthur H. James, the favorite son candidate of Pennsylvania. He received loud applause which somewhat discomfited the James backers.

From that point on, a constant stream of callers poured into Willkie headquarters in the Benjamin Franklin hotel. Delegates from Arizona, New York, New Jersey, Vermont, Mississippi, Indiana, California, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, Alabana, and Kentucky were among visitors.

Expect to Get 100 Votes.

The assurances of support from many of these delegates caused the Willkie forces to agree with former Senator Daniel Hastings of Delaware that the utility head would receive not less than 100 votes on the first ballot and that his strength would grow steadily on successive ballots.

Because of the uncertainty concerning Willkie's position in relation to European wars, interest was expressed in his war record. According to his publicity staff, Willkie, a young attorney at the time, enlisted the day after war was declared by the United States against Germany in 1917. He earned his commission at an officers' training camp and served in France as a captain in the 325th Field artillery. He did not return from France until 1919.

DEFENSE DWARFS OTHER ISSUES IN PLATFORM TALKS

Labor and Tariff Planks Next in Importance.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Three controversial planks—on national defense and foreign policy, on labor and on the tariff—were before the resolutions committee today at the end of its first session. The platform builders will meet again in the morning in closed session to hammer out the party's 1940 declaration of principles.

There was no night session; no agreement was reached on the debatable points. The program calls for submission of the resolutions to the convention Tuesday night.

Overshadowing all other issues in the deliberations of the committee is that of defense. The tentative plan prepared by the subcommittee, of which former Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas is chairman, throws emphasis on peace and preparedness and avoids the phrase "aid to the allies."

Denounces New Deal Neglect.

Instead it expresses sympathy with "oppressed people struggling for liberty" and favors the giving of aid that will not conflict with national and international laws and that will not impair America's own defenses.

It declares that neglect of national defense has been a vital defect of the New Deal government in recent years. It denounces the Roosevelt administration for making threats with nothing to back them up and for failure to build up defense, altho it has known the situation for two years or more.

The plank contains these other proposals:

Rejection of the Roosevelt plan for conscription of youth for labor in industries.

A pledge to guard the Monroe doctrine.

Keep the United States out of involvement in foreign wars and politics.

National defense adequate to protect America from any war of invasion.

All Factions Satisfied.

The declaration of foreign policy is said to satisfy the noninterventionists. The organized interventionists threw up the sponge yesterday. Fearing defeat in the convention, they urged that "aid to the allies" be kept out. The plank framers then adopted the words "oppressed peoples."

The full committee met soon after its appointment by the convention. It made the temporary officers of last week permanent—Herbert K. Hyde of Oklahoma, chairman, and O. Glenn Saxon of Connecticut, secretary.

The drafting subcommittee, of which former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania is chairman, is to get to work in the morning as fast as the full committee decides the moot questions.

Divided Over Labor Plank.

On labor there is a division of opinion among members of the committee on how strong the plank should be on the Wagner act and the national labor relations board.

As it stands, subject to change, the tentative plank expresses dissatisfaction with the administrative work of the labor relations board. In 1937—the first year the board operated—it points out that there were 4,470 strikes, involving 1,860,000 workers, which was more strikes than had occurred in any single year in the nation's history.

The plank recognizes the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively. It says the labor board has built a wall between employers and employés. It says the judicial and administrative functions of the board should be separated, and that the present board has contributed neither to the reduction of industrial strife nor to a reduction of unemployment.

On the tariff the debatable question is how far the plank shall go in criticism of the reciprocal trade agreements.

CHURCH GROUP ASSAILS PLANS TO DRAFT YOUTH

Opposition to President Roosevelt's proposal for a conscription of American youth was voiced in a telegram to the President from the national council of Methodist youth yesterday. The message, signed by Herman Will Jr., 4955 North Lowell avenue, president of the council, said the proposal is a step toward dictatorship.

"Youth does not want to be conscripted," the message declared. "Peacetime enrollment for national discipline is a step toward dictatorship. It is not a defense measure, but a method of escape from domestic problems like unemployment. It is the same method which Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin have used. We will refuse to submit to European methods."

Copies of the message were sent to senators, congressmen, and to the committee on resolutions of the Republican national convention.

SEN. B. K. WHEELER TO TALK HERE IN ANTI-WAR DRIVE

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, and O. K. Armstrong, world war veteran and writer for American Legion publications, will address an American antiwar crusade massmeeting Sunday night in the Auditorium theater. This was announced yesterday by William Ayer McKinney, who will be chairman of the meeting.

McKinney stated that the massmeeting, sponsored jointly by seven national peace organizations, will be held under auspices of a committee composed of business, educational, and religious leaders opposed to the entry of the United States into any foreign war.

Harold E. Stassen, Youthful Governor of Minnesota, Sounds Keynote for Republican National Convention

Cheerful Crush Follows Keynote Speech

A milling, cheering crowd of delegates carrying state standards rallied around Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota (arrow) after his keynote address at the convention last night.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Following is the text of the keynote address tonight before the Republican national convention by Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, temporary chairman:

"Our forefathers erected here a great lighthouse of liberty.

"They showed a new way for men to live. At least men and women could stand erect. They were free—free to think for themselves, to speak and to work and to worship for themselves. Free to use their hands and their brains to build homes for themselves. And free to choose from among themselves their own rulers.

"When those founders of our nation met in this historic city a century and a half ago, the dark shadow of despotic government covered most of the earth. The wealth, the traditions, and the power of the old world all were arrayed against them.

"Yet they succeeded. The framework for a government of free men which they drafted here became a beacon of liberty and progress for the entire world. The people of 13 struggling states adopted their work, and made of it the living constitution of these United States. The people took from their number a great leader and made him, George Washington, their first President.

"Their task was well done. Let us strive to do as well in this our time of crisis.

Shadow of Despotism.

"For once again the black shadow of despotism falls over the world. Fellow Republican delegates, even as we meet, lights are going out in Europe. Blackouts of dictators take the place of lighthouses of free men. It is our grave responsibility to keep burning brightly the light of liberty.

"If we meet that responsibility well, the people of this great nation of 48 states will make the program and principles that we here set forth their program and their principles next November.

"If we meet the challenge before us, we will here nominate a man the people of these United States will make their President next November.

"The challenge of the hour clearly calls for our Republican party to rise above narrow partisanship. Ours is the high duty to place the future of this nation above all other considerations, including our own desire to win.

"Let us face, with calm courage, the task that is before us.

Faith in Future.

"The press and the radio on this very day have brought to us added news of the horrors and tragedies of the war across the sea as ruthless rulers crush free men. Our army staff reports a tragic lack of preparedness for our own defense. All about us moves the discouraged evidence that we still have 10 million unemployed men and women. A heavy blanket of 45 billions of indebtedness weighs down over all of our people. Back on the farms millions of rural families face their burdens with shrunken incomes.

"This would indeed be a dark picture if we did not also see the great potentialities of a free people, talented sons and daughters of every nation in the world, having in their possession natural resources unequaled by any other nation.

"Let us announce here and now that we have faith in the future of this nation and its way of life.

"It is for us realistically to take inventory, to draw heavily from the lessons of the past, and resolutely to turn our eyes to the future. Our first task is to cut thru the clouds of confusion and of petty superficial political issues, and present to the people, crystal clear, the great underlying problems and principles upon which our real future progress must be made. We must brush aside the brambles of prejudice, bitterness, and hatred and lead thru to national unity based upon understanding, tolerance, and confidence.

2 GREAT RESPONSIBILITIES

Support of Government and Right to Change It

"Every citizen of this nation, regardless of his station in life, his political party, his nationality background, his creed or his race, faces two great responsibilities during these next months.

"First he faces the responsibility of supporting his government, as now constituted, in every measure for the public good. So long as the now President of these United States is in the White House, so long as the now senators and representatives are in the capitol, they are our President and our congress, and when they together take action of vital public concern they are entitled to have and they will have the support of all men and women, including in full measure the support of the Republicans of this nation.

"But there is a second and even greater responsibility facing every man and woman of this country. That is the duty of deciding quietly and calmly who shall exercise the leadership of this nation in the next four years of its existence. Then in keeping with that decision each citizen should go to his ballot box next November and cast his precious vote.

"These two responsibilities are both of major importance, and each is distinct and separate. He who would confuse them and would withhold support of such action now because of the conviction that there should be a change in November, is guilty of a disservice to the future of this country. And he who seeks to claim that support now must carry with it the surrender of the right to change in November is equally guilty of a disservice to the future of this nation.

Criticism of Officials.

"It is not a pleasant task to criticize those in positions of governmental authority. Yet it is absolutely essential to the functioning of democracy. It was not easy for the people of England to criticize their prewar government, yet how essential—in fact, how belated—was their change. It was not easy for the people of France to criticize their prewar government or their prewar generals, yet how necessary and how fatally delayed was their change. When democracies face a crisis their first step must be an extremely frank and fair analysis of their leadership as they prepare to meet their hours of peril.

"I consider it to be the patriotic duty of my party to analyze frankly and fairly, from the facts and the records, the leadership this country now has and that which it should have.

"Let nothing that this convention may do or say be construed or distorted by the enemies of democracies as a reflection upon our form of government. The constructive criticism in which we must indulge, the vigorous debate in which we propose to engage, the severe condemnation we intend deliberately to visit upon those who deserve it—these are not the signs that democracy is not working. They are the living evidence that here, in the last refuge of liberal government, democracy still is working.

FOUR MAJOR FRONTS.

What America Needs to Be Strong and Secure

"As we face the future we see plainly that if this nation is to fulfill its high destiny, if we are to make America strong and our way of life secure, whether the next years be years of peace or of conflict, we must advance with a decisive and determined step upon four major fronts:

"The front of national preparedness.

"The front of fifth column defense.

"The front of domestic economic welfare.

"The front of governmental effectiveness and integrity.

"What shall be the salients of our advance? What shall be the character of our leadership? These are the questions, the answer to which our Republican party must suggest and our people must decide.

"Every one recognizes the vital necessity for this nation to advance rapidly and effectively upon the front of national preparedness. We need more than millions of men and women willing to spring to the defense of our country. We need the physical and mechanical means of answering the challenge of those who seek to turn the great benefits of machine development into a mechanical Frankenstein of destruction.

"We must develop our air force to take its place beside the army and the navy. We need large quantities of the most modern airplanes and antiaircraft guns, the most modern tanks and antitank guns, the most modern ships and coast defense. We need highly mobile trained fighting units with bases for air, water, and land defense strategically located in this hemisphere. These bases must be protected as far as the ingenuity of man can do so against destruction from the air. We must be constantly alert in research and invention of the means of defense against new weapons of aggression.

"To accomplish these ends we must fully utilize our mass production system, we must marshal and conserve our great credit resources, we must have executive direction and responsibility, we must cut thru red tape and burocratic delays.

People Must Be United.

"We must have a united people, with each citizen willing to make sacrifices and ready to stand shoulder to shoulder in the interests of national defense. We need that pioneering spirit that characterized the days of the covered wagon.

"And what shall be our leadership as we move forward upon this tremendous task? Shall it be that group of men who for seven years have been in complete charge of our government, using the Democratic label? Let us examine their record. For seven years they have had not only the presidency and cabinet but strong majorities in both houses of congress. They have had complete authority and they must take full responsibility for what has happened so far as government is concerned during these past seven years.

"During these seven years ruthless dictators in other lands built the diabolical machines of destruction now crushing Europe. During these seven years cruel acts of aggression occurred in rapid succession. With full knowledge of these dangerous developments what did our national leadership do to meet the threats?

"It is a fact today, well known by the heads of every other government in the world, and belatedly coming to the knowledge of the people of this nation, that we are tragically unprepared. We are too woefully weak to give the allies that material assistance this nation wants to give them. We are sadly wanting in the state of our defenses of this hemisphere.

"The army chief of staff and the chief of the air force have testified to this serious lack of modern equipment for our defense. They have specifically stated that we lack almost entirely the mechanical means vital to our security.

CLEVER BUT DECEPTIVE

Describes President's Speech to Nation on Defense

"As this news swept across the country, the President went on the radio and in an extremely clever but dangerously deceptive manner lumped together the equipment that was 'on hand' and 'on order' in an effort to smooth over the failure to fulfill the trust that the American people placed in his administration. The cold facts are that in many instances the totals the President gave 'on hand' and 'on order' were about one-fifth 'on hand' and four-fifths 'on order' and those orders sadly delayed in their fulfilment.

"Even then he tried to give the American people the impression that they need not sacrifice, that they could move along with a shrug of the shoulders and that he would take care of things 'on order.'

"He first placed some of the bungling members of his administration in charge of the vital problem of production.

"We can be thankful today that the overwhelming demand of the people drove him, begrudgingly, to turn some portions of the task over to tried and experienced men of industry who gladly stepped forward to aid their country. But he has still failed to put a single competent, experienced man in charge of the entire job of production for defense. He insists upon maintaining an unwieldy board of seven with himself in charge. No man, fulfilling the responsibilities of the position of the presidency, can in addition direct the diverse and highly important work of this committee.

Weakness of Administration.

"This failure to understand executive responsibility and coördination, and the primary rules of production and of getting a job done, has been one of the greatest weaknesses of this administration. It is a terrific indictment that for many crucial months the important war department has been disrupted by a tragic conflict of authority, with a secretary of war and an assistant secretary hardly on speaking terms with one another, each conferring with the President, each playing his favorites within the department.

"And during the same crisis the navy department has been adrift without a real head, first headed by a man physically unable to carry on his task, and then by a secretary who was submerged in a political campaign for the governorship of one of our states.

"By the politically timed appointment on the eve of this convention of two men of our party to these two cabinet posts, the President made an eleventh hour confession of failure in his national defense administration. We are pleased that the prospect of our convention caused this sudden improvement over New Deal incompetence, and it is only regrettable that we cannot change the entire cabinet and the man who heads it with equal abruptness.

Method of Dictators.

"The most dangerous example of the wrong way to prepare was the startling proposal of the President last week that all boys and girls in this country between the ages of 18 and 20 be compelled by the government to enter Federal training camps.

"That was the method of Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin. It is not the American way. We need more skilled and trained mechanics and technicians, but the American way to get them is thru the vocational training system of this country and thru private industry. The federal government should furnish the funds for the immediate expansion of these skilled training and apprentice programs. We should repeal the restrictions that make it almost impossible for industry to train young men. This part of our preparedness program should be coördinated under the officers of the army and navy and directed by a man who has had practical experience in training skilled men. It should be kept away from the impractical dreamers.

"Give our young men and our young women the chance to train themselves for the opportunities and duties that are opening up and you will not have to herd them by compulsion to a government camp.

"When we need more men in our armed forces, we should secure them in accordance with the program of the army and navy officials and we should not turn this task over to the New Deal experimenters.

"The President said these camps would teach discipline and keep these young people away from foreignisms. I would much rather trust our churches, our schools, and our homes to teach discipline and love of America than I would a compulsory government camp.

Facing these facts dare this nation continue for the next four years under such leadership? For too long a time industry has been hobbled by burocratic interference and dreamy eyed governmental delays at every turn while the army and navy pleaded in vain for the release of restrictions so they can speed up defense. They seriously disrupted and retarded the entire aircraft industry by the ill considered cancellation of the air mail contracts, and army pilots crashed to the earth just when every encouragement should have been given to build up our air industry. It is hardly believable but it is true that because of New Deal restrictions our aircraft manufacturers have turned to foreign financial centers speedily to secure new capital for plant expansion while idle capital and idle men are all about us.

"For too long a time we have wasted millions and millions of dollars on Passamaquoddies and Florida canals while neglecting needed defenses.

"For too long a time our leaders have strutted down the avenues of the world jauntily knocking chips off shoulders without even preparing to raise our arms in self-defense. For too long a time we have talked boldly of quarantining aggressors in order to protect other nations and now find we are not even prepared to protect ourselves. For too long a time our foreign policy has been one of a big noise and a little stick, and even that little stick 'on order.' We need again a calm, resolute voice and a big stick.

Challenge to Republicans.

"It is one of the primary challenges to the Republican party today to furnish the leadership for the calm, determined, rapid advance of this nation on the front of national preparedness.

"Our citizens also know that we must defend ourselves against the fifth column. They have heard and read the almost unbelievable stories of boring from within, of treachery and of treason in one nation after another. They have seen how this fifth column of traitors within has joined hands with enemies from without, to cause the speedy downfall and ruthless destruction of sturdy little nations. They have observed how men have taken advantage of the liberties of democracy to aid in cutting out the very heart of freedom itself.

"We must prepare our defense against similar actions here, carefully and vigorously but without any ill-considered witch hunts. We should take determined steps thru our democratic processes to keep these borers from within away from the pillars of our capitol.

Four Fold Action Outlined.

"First and foremost there must be the determination that no one supporting communism, Naziism or Fascism shall be permitted upon the public pay rolls of this nation.

"Second, we must encourage the great trade union movement manned as it is by loyal American citizens, to divest its organizations, in its own way, of all officers and organizers who are sympathetic to either Fascism, communism or Naziism.

"Third, we must unmask and expose those un-American organizations that are parading under false fronts.

"Fourth, we must proceed vigorously to seek out and to punish by due process every violation of law committed by the fifth columnists.

"And above all, by a sound and progressive advance, fair and friendly to labor, we must open new opportunities, correct maladjustments in our social and economic structure, and take away the grounds of discontent upon which these fifth columnists seek to flourish.

"And to whom shall this nation advancing upon this front look for leadership? To those now in charge of our government? Certainly not. Under their leadership these past seven years we have seen manifold examples of fifth column activities in time of peace within this nation. These subversive elements have incited hatred between groups of our people. They have thrown the first stone, causing outbreaks of violence in labor disputes. They have split the ranks of organized labor. They have encouraged the destruction of agricultural products. They have advocated loose fiscal policies. They have stirred up and led relief demonstrations on full stomachs. They have sabotaged and stopped in many ways our great productive organization.

PROTESTS TO NO AVAIL

Objections from Many Quarters Bring No Relief, Speaker Says

"Sincere leaders of labor have made many protests. The clergy of our churches have sounded many alarms. Men of industry have made many pleas for help. Public spirited men and women of all walks of life have cried out against them. Committees of congress have brought out clear evidence of their activities.

"And yet, so far as our present national leadership has been concerned, these cries have all been of no avail. In fact, as these protests arose, the New Dealers just smiled and reached over and patted the flanks of the Trojan horse.

"Members of the Democratic party itself cried out against these subversive activities, only to find themselves derided and belittled from the highest places and to find directed at them a vicious purge, ruthlessly using all the peacetime weapons of a powerful administration in endeavoring to line them up against the wall of political oblivion.

"No, the New Deal cannot lead our advance upon this front. It is a responsibility and a challenge to the Republican party to furnish the leadership and the program to defend this nation that we cherish against the borers from within.

Domestic Economic Welfare.

"What of our advance upon the front of domestic economic welfare? First, let us make clear the general features of this advance. No one shall suffer for want of food, shelter, or clothing. The needs of that portion of our population who have no other means of livelihood shall be met by society as a whole acting thru its government. But it must be equally clear that this is not the answer to our problem.

"After meeting the immediate need, the great challenge before the nation shall be to furnish more real jobs for the unemployed in private industry. We must recognize that in a free economy, government in meeting the need of its people who are unemployed is not solving a problem but is only temporarily easing the consequences of an unsolved problem.

"We must recognize that the answer to all of our problems of a domestic nature is not to shrug our shoulders and say 'Let the government do it.' The rôle of government must be that of an aid to private enterprise, and not of a substitute for it. More and better jobs, better housing and improved living conditions, can best be secured thru recognition of this principle.

"There has been talk to the nation of a more abundant life. In a vain attempt to secure it they have gone from a greedy contest over the division of past accumulations of production to an irresponsible squandering of mortgages on the future.

HEALTHY REVENUE POLICY

Minimum of Restriction and Maximum of Encouragement

"Those great revenues which our government must raise, to be financially sound, should be raised in that manner which shall to the least degree restrict and hamper the flow of idle money into the creation of new products and new jobs for idle men. Incentive taxes must take the place of punitive taxes. We must exercise to the least possible degree the powers of government to meet definite abuses rather than using abuses as an excuse for the government to reach out and grab all the power in the name of regulation.

"Those powers which government takes must be clearly divided as to legislative, executive, and judicial. There is hardly any greater deterrent to private capital in its desire to develop more jobs than the morass of uncertainty which arises when great autocratic powers to be rulemaker and investigator, witness and prosecutor, judge and jury are all lodged in the same burocratic hands.

"For too long a time American enterprise has been subjected to the strafing of dive bombing demagogs.

"To advance upon the domestic field we must unite our forces. The flames of industrial warfare, of strikes and lockouts and violence have levied the staggering roll of 80 million days of labor in the last five years.

"The loss doubled in 1939 over 1938.

Helped Stoke Flames.

"The New Deal has helped to stoke these flames of industrial warfare. The present rôle of government in industrial disputes must be revised. Instead of cracking down here, there, and everywhere it should exercise as little arbitrary power as possible. Its chief aim should be to aid the working out of peaceful solutions of these difficulties around the conference table before they break out in strikes and lockouts. Placing in the hands of any governmental agency the power to decide who was wrong after the loss has occurred is not a solution.

"We should draw lessons from the railway labor act, adopted in 1926, which we in Minnesota have used as a model, with its waiting periods and emphasis upon conciliation before strikes and lockouts occur, and its protection of the basic rights of labor. These simple principles have met with marked success wherever used. They are in keeping with the fundamental principles of the relationship of a democratic government to a free economy.

BACKBONE OF AMERICA

Agriculture Is Bulwark of Liberties and Prosperity

"We must recognize further on the domestic front that the farmers are the very backbone of America. We must raise their income and their buying power. The maintenance of millions of free farm families living on soil that they can call their own is one of the greatest bulwarks for future freedom. When, as now, with extremely low agricultural prices, the natural economic processes do not permit them to maintain their status on the farm they must be aided. This should be as a reward for their production of the food supplies for the nation and as an incentive to their conservation of the soil upon which they live.

"These aids again must not be looked upon as a solution to the agricultural problem, but only as a temporary expedient to ease the maladjustment that exists. We must seek real solutions in keeping with the natural economic forces that are involved in our system. We must step by step take out of production marginal land that it is economically unsound to cultivate and that only adds to surpluses. We must increase the acreage in woodlots and timber tracts, we must aggressively market surpluses at home and abroad. Millions of European refugees should be fed with our surplus agricultural products.

"Thru development of more jobs and more purchasing power for our consuming public we must expand the domestic market. We must advance in research and discovery of new uses for agricultural products. We must furnish new jobs for the excess population upon our lands so that instead of being a burden upon agriculture they become production portions of our population and new units of consumption. We must preserve as far as it is economically sound to do so our own markets for our own farmers.

Youth Without Jobs.

"The tragic unemployment of the young men and young women of our nation has been one of the very great losses of this depression. They have not wanted the dole. They have not wanted aimless month by month subsistence. They want opportunities to prepare for a life of productive activity.

"The great productive processes of a free people under a system of individual enterprise have made this nation the great power that it is. It has given to our people the highest standard of living in the world. This system has been and will be subject to its depressions and its recessions, its maladjustments and readjustments as the years roll by.

"We must recognize that government should furnish a cushion against the sharper fluctuations of this economic system, but that it cannot successfully furnish a bed upon which society can go to sleep. We must recognize that we gain together and we lose together. We must continuously work to readjust and correct injustices and inequalities that are present and that will arise. Then we can have faith that this system will rise again and make ever greater progress in the interests of all of our people.

"For the advance on this domestic front, can we entrust the leadership to those who have been in charge for the last seven years? No. For seven years jobs for the unemployed and parity for agriculture have been on order. And tonight after billions of our substance have been scattered to the winds, jobs and parity are still not on hand but on order.

Making Democracy Work.

"Here again is a challenge to the Republican party to furnish the leadership and the program for a sound, sincere, step by step advance in keeping with the great basic principles of American economy.

"What of our fourth front? Events at home and abroad bring forcefully to our attention the challenge to democracy to make itself more efficient and effective without surrendering its own basic principles. The delays and confusion of yards and yards and yards of red tape, the waste and inefficiency of overlapping, stumbling boards, bureaus, departments, divisions and agencies, the lack of effective lines of executive authority, the intermingling of powers that are legislative, executive and judicial and the proper performance of none, the incessant conflict between governments on different levels—federal, state, and local—these are the things by which Lilliputians are restraining the slumbering giant of democracy and free enterprise and making him ineffective.

"The inefficiency of our government is a travesty in a land that has developed such magnificent efficiency in private endeavor. There is need of a sweeping, decisive reorganization of our government. A real reorganization that streamlines our government, simplifies our procedures, consolidates and eliminates useless and overlapping boards, bureaus and agencies, establishes simple and effective lines of executive responsibility, and separates the powers that are legislative, executive and judicial. We need in public office servants of the people selected for their merit instead of corporals of a political army enlisted at a patronage pie counter.

LOCAL RESPONSIBILITY

Keep Administration Details Nearer the People

"Actual administrative details should be kept on as low a local level of government as possible. Relief, welfare and farm programs should be administered locally in the counties, towns, cities and villages. The state and federal governments should exercise only general powers of supervision and audit of their expenditures. Needless governmental functions must be cast off. We must trim our sails for government action in keeping with the tempo of the times.

"This will not only save millions of dollars of needless expenditures, but it will build up the respect and confidence of the people for their government and will give us a fair chance to keep our liberty and still compete in a world of totalitarian states.

"To whom shall we entrust the leadership on this front? Shall it be to those who have added almost 400,000 men and women to the public pay rolls of their political army but have added only a few thousand to the pay rolls of our regular army? Or to those who tried to pack the Supreme court of these United States? No! The Republican party must furnish the leadership and the program to give to this great democracy of ours clear, decisive government.

Problems of Foreign Policy.

"As we advance upon these fronts many overshadowing problems of foreign policies will require decision. Let us frankly state to the people that we can neither fully anticipate these problems nor can we tie our hands before meeting them. As they are reached they must be faced and the people of this nation must be made aware of what they mean so that informed public opinion may find expression in the policies of the government.

"It is clear that the first responsibility must be the future welfare of the people of this nation and their way of life, but it is also clear that that future welfare cannot best be served by simply burying our heads in the sand. The world is constantly changing. Modern inventions, developments of communication and travel, the flow of trade in a highly industrialized world, all these increase the impact of what happens in one part of the world upon the rest of the world.

"Let us determine and define where our interests lie. Clearly in the first instance they lie in this hemisphere. We cannot permit an armed force, aggressive in nature, with a philosopsy foreign to ours to establish itself upon this hemisphere. Neither can we allow subversive elements linked to alien aggressors to undermine government anywhere on this hemisphere. It is essential that we plan in advance and take decisive steps to establish hemisphere defense.

"It is a sad commentary that in the last seven years, which led right up to the outbreak of war, we have given the aid of our inventive genius, of our raw materials and of our productive ability to those with philosophies foreign to ours as well as to those with philosophies similar to ours. We have thus aided the manufacture of the implements of destruction that Russia used upon Finland, that Germany uses against the allies, that Japan uses against China, that Italy uses against France. How belated is our now exclusive assistance to the allies!

"It is the responsibility of government in its foreign policy to endeavor in every honorable way to create and nurture a world environment in which its people can proceed along life's path in peace, expanding their material well being and developing their way of life. It is thus also clear that our interests lie with the encouragement of freedom and progress for all mankind and the development of order between nations based upon eternal moral and spiritual laws, rather than upon lawless force of economic strangulation.

"Failing in the creation of that environment it is the clear duty of government to make its people strong in their own defense, to so prepare them that other portions of the world may not stamp out their way of life and may not encroach upon their well-being.

RECORD OF FAILURE

Foreign Policy of Administration Found Wanting

"Measured by these guides, what can our verdict be of the foreign policies of this administration? We do not judge harshly and yet our judgment must be that it has failed.

"What has this administration done to bring about a better world environment? Was it in its recognition of Russia? Was it in its torpedoing of the London economic conference? Was it in its failure to advise the people of this nation of the facts that it knew from the capitals of Europe? Was it in its announced attitude that this nation was no longer dynamic, and was not pressing forward upon new frontiers? Was it in its continued sales of the means of warfare to those very nations who threatened to be aggressors? No, nor was it in its appointment of wealthy playboys as foreign ministers and ambassadors.

"Clearly failing in its first responsibility, neither did it meet its second duty of national preparedness. This nation has had the shifting foreign policy of the politicians, unwilling to present hard facts to the people of the nation.

"The great need for our future foreign policy is a leadership that is frank and fair with the people. The people must have confidence that their leaders place the nation's welfare above their own political future. The people must know that their leaders while resolute in support of these basic policies, nevertheless have the earnest hope to keep this nation out of war.

Third Term Efforts.

"Have we been too harsh in our judgment? No; in fact we have not even referred to the strong self indictment of the obvious effort to break down one of our bulwarks of freedom by violating the third term tradition. The saddest chapter of the last four years has been that the national administration instead of keeping its eyes, statesmanlike, upon the welfare of the people of this nation, has turned its political gaze upon a third term.

"This un-American desire for a third term completely undermines their forthrightness in meeting all of our issues. It has destroyed statesmanship. Cleverly and surreptitiously they have strengthened the iron handed control of the President over the Democratic party. Building upon the corrupt political machines of Kelly and Nash and Hague and their kind, they have erected as a superstructure a political machine such as this country has never before seen. Democracy within the Democratic party has been destroyed.

"With this background they move on towards their convention, tossing aside the traditions of Washington and of Jefferson.

"Let us fully recognize that this very situation is an added challenge to our party. With the Democratic party's right of free choice of leadership denied to them, we must furnish the leadership for the men and women of all parties. To do so we must make our party truly representative of the people, independent of domination by any group, and fair to all.

Cry for Leadership.

"Fellow delegates, if we could reverse the magic of radio tonight, if we could turn the millions of radio receiving sets throut this land into microphones and if we could turn our microphone here in this great convention hall into a receiving set we would hear an overwhelming message sweeping in upon it. It would be a cry for a statesmanlike leadership to make America strong and our way of life secure. Shall we rise to meet this challenge? Let us proceed with our deliberations here in this historic city of Philadelphia.

"Let us present to the people of this nation a program worthy of their support. Let us nominate a man to carry out that program, a man the people will elect the next President of these United States.

"Let us remember the words George Washington spoke in this very city: 'If to please the people we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God.'"

40 CONGRESSMEN UNITE IN ATTACK ON WILLKIE BOOM

Expect 3 Cornered Fight with Dewey and Taft.

pect when the balloting begins on Thursday. That is, unless some new development changes the picture. Admirers of former President Herbert Hoover, for example, are more confident than ever that he will stampede the convention into nominating him after the delegates hear the speech he will make tomorrow night.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan predicted both Dewey and Taft would be eliminated in the early balloting and that the convention then would turn to him for first place on the ticket.

Anti-Willkie Drive Opens.

The disclosure yesterday of the extent to which sentiment favorable to Willkie had penetrated the delegations was a sensation, upsetting all calculations of the outcome of the battle and causing great anxiety in the Taft and Dewey camps. It was called a Willkie blitzkrieg.

Scarcely had the convention assembled this forenoon, however, when the anti-Willkie blitzkrieg made its appearance. It emanated chiefly from western delegations that are strongly antagonistic to Willkie because he favors the Roosevelt-Hull reciprocal tariff agreements which have revised the tariff downward on many farm products. Prominent figures in the Willkie opposition were members of congress who argued that if the power executive should be nominated the Republicans would be unable to carry the house.

Utility Connection Attacked.

In addition to his tariff views, the opposition stressed as political liabilities of Willkie his position as head of one of the great utilities, the Commonwealth and Southern Power company, and his indorsement at one time, at least, of the Roosevelt war intervention policy. Recently Willkie took a noninterventionist stand, but his opponents refuse to be convinced he has modified his attitude.

Forty Republican congressmen and four or five senators representing twenty states met at the Sylvania hotel to organize the stop Willkie movement.

"The Republican party cannot carry the vital mid-western states with Willkie heading the ticket," said Representative Frank B. Keefe of Wisconsin. "And certainly we need those midwestern states to insure a national victory. Speaking for Wisconsin, I believe we are morally pledged by the primary vote to vote for Dewey until he releases us."

Midwest States Represented.

States represented at the meeting, it was announced, included Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Ohio, Minnesota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Kentucky, New Hampshire, Idaho, Oregon, Montana, North Dakota, Kansas, New York, California, Nebraska, and Maine.

Among those at the meeting were Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, Senator John Thomas of Idaho, and Representatives Ralph Brewster of Maine, Harold Knutson of Minnesota, Carroll B. Reece of Tennessee, John M. Robsion of Kentucky, Leo E. Allen of Illinois, Leonard W. Hall of New York, Arthur Jenks of New Hampshire, Henry Dvorshak of Idaho, Ben Jensen of Iowa, George Jennings of Tennessee, Daniel A. Reed of New York, Forrest Harness of Indiana, Francis Case of South Dakota, Henry Engelbrecht of California, James V. Oliver of Maine, Carl Curtis of Nebraska, Usher Burdick of North Dakota, Roy O. Woodruff of Michigan, Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, Cliff Clevenger of Ohio, Stephen Bolles of Wisconsin, Earl R. Lewis of Ohio, and George G. Gillie of Indiana.

The congressmen adopted a resolution calling on the convention to name a man whose personal views and public statements are such that he can run on a platform in harmony with the Republican record in congress.

Senator Threatens Bolt.

Senator Thomas of Idaho, one of those attending the meeting, blasted the Willkie candidacy as fatal to Republican party interests and asserted he would not be a candidate for reëlection if Willkie is made the Republican nominee.

"The public utilities have done enough damage to the Republican party in the last 15 years without them wishing their man Willkie on us as a presidential candidate, with his indorsement of Roosevelt's war intervention policy and reciprocal tariffs," Thomas declared. "I cannot support him if he is nominated. I will not be a candidate for the United States senate if he is nominated."

The resolution adopted by the representatives of the 20 states was transmitted to all delegates in a letter signed by a committee of eight congressmen — Woodruff, Knutson, Keefe, Mundt, Clevenger, Bolles, Lewis, and Gillie.

[The text of the congressmen's resolution and the accompanying letter will be found in columns 4 and 5 on this page.]

Delaware Support Promised.

Former Senator Daniel Hastings of Delaware, after being closeted with Willkie for a short period, announced that three of Delaware's six votes would go to Willkie on the first ballot. He predicted that the utility head would receive 100 or more votes on the first ballot.

Representative Knutson, one of the signers of the stop-Willkie letter to all delegates, said he represented the views of all except one of his state's 22 delegates when he denounced Willkie as a New Deal Democrat at heart who was assuming a Republican veneer to gain his ends.

"Republicans in congress who have labored hard and faithfully to keep alive the torch of sound Republicanism during the enervating era of the New Deal," said Knutson, "call upon this convention to nominate for President a man who can win in November.

Points to Qualifications.

"Such a candidate must be a Republican in heart as in speech. To win this fall, we will need as a standard bearer one who is not an interventionist. He must stand for adequate protection for the American farmer and laboring man. He must not be tainted with New Dealism now or in the past."

Representative Keefe said there are two questions on which Willkie ought to make his stand clear. Willkie ought to state his position regarding Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program, he declared, and also state whether he approves of the interventionist policies upheld by President Roosevelt's recent Republican appointments to his cabinet—Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox.

"Willkie has made several statements on the subject of his foreign policy views which are subject to varying interpretations," Keefe remarked. "We in the middle west especially would like to know exactly how he stands on the war or peace issue."

McNary Joins in Attack.

Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader of the senate, said "the west will not stand for Mr. Willkie, who represents the big interests that damaged the Republican party during the last decade."

Congressman Bolles asserted that if Willkie were the nominee the Republicans would lose Wisconsin by 50,000 to 100,000 votes. He thought it "unbelievable that the party would name a man who stands for the big interests as does Willkie."

FOUR ACCUSED OF RAPING TWO SISTERS, 15 AND 18

Four men were seized yesterday by Homewood county highway police on charges of raping two sisters, one 15 years old and the other 18. A fourth man is being sought.

The prisoners, who denied the accusations, are Thomas Reichert, 24 years old, Wesley Christiano, alias Jake Rhobok, 23, and William Zdziarek, 28, all of 1218 Wentworth avenue, Chicago Heights, and Anthony Zarenti, of 1135 Wentworth avenue, Chicago Heights.

Lieut. Morton Leviton of the highway police said the older sister knew Christiano and she and her sister went for a ride Sunday night with him and his three companions. The four allegedly drove them to a secluded spot in Will county and attacked them.

FIND PHARMACY PARTNER DEAD IN FLOSSMOOR

Alex George Pradin, 27 years old, was found dead yesterday in his room in the Flossmoor Civic Center building. The body, face down and clad in pajamas, was discovered on the floor by Pradin's roommate, Harry Sweeney, a night factory worker just returning home. Pradin and his brother, Paul, were partners in the Flossmoor pharmacy. Alex was first believed to have died of a heart attack. A coroner's physician, Dr. S. S. Snyder, however, reserved decision until he could have a laboratory examination made of the contents of Pradin's stomach.

ROBBED BY MASKED BANDIT.

Anti-Willkie Stand Set Forth

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—The text of a resolution adopted by a group of Republican congressmen and senators opposed to the nomination of Wendell L. Willkie for President follows:

"A canvass reveals that a majority of the Republican members of congress from 20 states are of the opinion that the Republican party can best serve the nation at this time by nominating a candidate for President whose personal views will present an opportunity for a clearcut vote on foreign and domestic issues in harmony with the Republican record in congress. We call upon the convention to name such a man.

"The Republican party will win in November if it selects from its ranks a leader with a past record consistently supporting Republican policies and principles and whose recognized position and recent pronouncements are a guarantee to the American people that he will not lead the nation into a foreign war."

Letter Accompanies Statement.

Following is the text of a letter, signed by eight congressmen, which was sent, together with the foregoing resolution, to all delegates to the Republican national convention:

"It has occurred to Republican members of congress that the delegates to the national Republican convention would be interested in the sentiments of your members of congress who by the nature of their positions are in constant touch with the rank and file voters of their districts. For that reason we are herewith transmittting to you the attached news release which was issued to the press today and which is a factual and faithful report of the meeting therein reported.

"Since the Republican members of congress are going to run for reëlection on the platform adopted and with the candidates chosen by this convention, and since it is to be our responsibility to campaign steadily for the Republican ticket, we are of course vitally interested in the selection of a winning and serviceable ticket.

Purpose Is Set Forth.

"The meeting reported in the accompanying news release was a strikingly spontaneous affair—it was not a meeting to 'boom any candidate' or to 'stop any candidate'; it was a meeting for the precise and only purpose of canvassing the sentiment of Republican members of congress and making the results of said canvass available to convention delegates who, equally with us, are interested in the future of America and the victory of the Republican party next November.

"Our committee was selected to release the attached statement and to convey it to you with this letter of transmitttal. It is our sincere hope that you will give its content your studied consideration."

4 WOMEN IN PANEL AT TRIAL OF FOUR FOR JURY FIXING

The first panel of a jury was selected yesterday before Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court in the trial of Attorney George M. Crane and three co-defendants charged with bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice. The case is an outgrowth of the alleged fixing of a jury which acquitted Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci of vote fraud charges last Dec. 20.

The first four jurors selected were all women. They are Mrs. Lottie H. Downs, 24 years old, of 1542 North Ashland avenue; Mrs. Bessie E. Linhart, 49, of 1436 South Wenonah avenue, Berwyn; Mrs. Katherine E. Walsh, 59, of 4200 North Hermitage avenue, and Miss Constance T. Argeson, 29, of 911 Buena avenue. Assistant states attorneys Gordon Nash, Thomas Bugan, and Robert Wright exercised five peremptory challenges and William Scott Stewart, of defense counsel, six. Judge Fardy refused Wright's motion to have the jury locked up.

Stewart's attempt to obtain a separate trial for Crane by waiving a jury failed when Judge Fardy denied the motion. Other defendants are James Creed, superintendent of city dumps; John Howe Jr., discharged state policeman who is under sentence of from one year to life for robbery, and Orlando, a Democratic official in the 11th ward. Judge John F. Bolton meanwhile allowed a stay of mittimus granted Howe on his conviction for robbery to stand until July 15.

C. I. O. Union Is Defeated in Packing Company Vote

The Packinghouse Workers' Organizing committee, a branch of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was defeated yesterday in an election supervised by the National Labor Relations board on the issue of whether it should be recognized as bargaining agency for employés of the Superior Packing company, 4119 Union avenue. Sixteen workers voted for the C. I. O. unit, 21 against it, and 7 votes were contested.

CARPENTER DIES AT 98.

Holland, Mich., June 24 [Special].—John A. Worsford, 98 years old, died today at the Grand Haven home of his son, Charles. He was a native of England, but had lived in Canada and Michigan since two years of age. He was a carpenter and furniture man in his active years.

WIFE, THREE CHILDREN ARE HANGED AT FARM; HUSBAND IS JAILED

Norfolk, Va., June 24 (AP). — Mrs. Louise Gertrude Sanderlin, 28 years old, and her three small children were found dead today, dangling from ropes in a chicken house on their Norfolk county farm.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Wilson reported that Coroner L. C. Ferebee had found the deaths resulted from strangulation. C. C. Sanderlin, 64 years old, the husband and father, told police he had been ill in bed and last saw his wife at 9:30 a. m., five hours before he said he discovered the bodies. He was jailed for "investigation."

The mother and two older children, Charles C. Jr., 7, and Louise, 5½, were hanging from the rafters. Joalice, 6 months old, was hanging from the end of a rope wound about the mother's right arm.

MURDER-SUICIDE LAID TO BROKEN TROTH OF COUPLE

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the deaths of John R. Martin Jr., 22, of 1539 East 72d street, and his fiancée, Miss Doris Edna Mason, 19, of 5310 Lowe avenue. The two were found shot to death in an automobile near Lake Calumet at 130th street and Stony Island avenue.

The jury concluded that Martin, believing the automobile ride to be his last date with Miss Mason, whose parents had been urging the girl to break their engagement, shot the girl and then turned the gun on himself. An engagement ring was found in her purse.

Mrs. Mabel Martin, the young man's mother, testified that he also had been depressed because of a deformed foot.

WILLKIE'S EFFORT LOST ON MICHIGAN DELEGATION OF 38

All Remain in Line for Vandenberg.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Michigan's delegation of 38 to the Republican national convention here today repulsed efforts to swing some or all of them behind the presidential candidacy of Wendell Willkie, utilities executive. They remained steadfast in line with their instructions to vote for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Reports received by Howard C. Lawrence, Grand Rapids, vice chairman of the delegation, were that many of the Michigan people had been buttonholed individually by Willkie's backers. His checkup showed, however, he said, that none had been swayed away from the Vandenberg candidacy.

Convinced Vandenberg Can Win.

Leaders of the group say further that they are giving no consideration to where else their votes might go, being convinced that Vandenberg can win the nomination. His headquarters are in the Adelphia hotel, where most of the Michiganders are housed, and is a rallying point for them.

Not a member of the delegation but seen frequently wherever Michigan people congregate is Harry Kipke, former football star and coach and since Jan. 1 a regent of the University of Michigan. He is "rooting," he said, for Thomas E. Dewey. Kipke was a Junior during Dewey's last year at school in Ann Arbor.

Strong Backer of Dewey.

"I'm anxious to see Dewey get the nomination," Kipke said. "He is an excellent vote getter and would make a good candidate. Vandenberg also would make a good candidate."

This is the first national political convention that he has attended, Kipke said, and added that besides his interest in the Dewey candidacy, curiosity as to the procedure and workings of a convention brought him here. He will stay until a candidate has been nominated.

FINDS PROMISES FULFILLED BY 18 G.O.P. GOVERNORS

Magazine Blasts Broken New Deal Pledges.

New York, June 24 [Special].—The current issue of Guide, publication of the Women's National Republican club, today lists 18 Republican governors who fulfilled promises made in the last election to cut the cost of government and to balance their budgets. In contrast, the magazine lists three New Deal promises of economy and a summary showing that they were broken.

The magazine quotes President Roosevelt as having promised in an address on Oct. 19, 1932, to "approach the problem of carrying out the plain precept of our party, which is to reduce the cost of current federal government operations by 25 per cent." Then it declares:

"From 1934 to 1939, the general expenditures of the federal government increased 2 billion 647 million dollars or 98.7 per cent."

Finds Increase in Employés.

A second Roosevelt promise, the publication says, was: "To make savings by reorganization of existing departments, by eliminating functions, by abolishing many of these innumerable boards and those commissions which, over a long period of years have grown up as a fungus growth on American government."

Under the heading "Performance," the magazine summarizes the result. "The increase of the employés in new federal agencies alone is more than 90,413," it states. "The total number of persons on the federal pay rolls has increased 67.7 per cent since 1933."

Quotes Baltimore Speech.

A third broken promise, according to Guide, is contained in these words spoken by Roosevelt April 13, 1936, at Baltimore, Md.: "Some people tell you that even with a completely restored prosperity there will be a vast permanent army of unemployed. I do not accept that. No man who is sensitive to human values dares to accept it."

His performance on this score, the publication asserts, is that despite "pump priming, budget juggling, tax boosting," the unemployment rolls have decreased only 500,000 from the 11,000,000 estimated persons out of work in 1932.

18 Who Kept Promises.

The 18 Republican governors who kept their promises are listed by the Guide—along with some of their achievements—as follows:

Ralph L. Carr of Colorado, met a deficit of $8,800,000 with a single new tax and put the state on a pay-as-you-go plan.

Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, effected a saving of $5,000,000 and balanced his state's budget for the first time in years.

C. A. Bottolfsen or Idaho, cut state costs $10,000 a month on the first of the year and reduced administrative costs in 1939 by $70,000.

Payne H. Ratner of Kansas, found that a $100,000 savings in the traveling expenses of state officials was one way to reduce governmental costs.

George A. Wilson of Iowa, cut $1,100,000 in his highway commission's budget and saved $650,000 additional in other ways.

Lewis O. Barrows of Maine, eliminated a $2,000,000 deficit.

Saltonstall Cuts Cost.

Leverett P. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, reduced the cost of governing his state for the first time since 1930 by cutting $11,000,000 from biennial items.

Luren D. Dickinson of Michigan, wiped out a $30,000,000 deficit and established a pay-as-you-go policy without increasing taxes.

Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota saved $1,200,000 in the fiscal year which will end July 1.

Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire, decreased the state debt $892,811.

John W. Bricker of Ohio, balanced the state budget ,ended 1939 with a surplus of $3,000,000 and turned over to local communities $12,869,000 more than they received in such subsidies in 1938 without imposing any new taxes.

Oregon Pudget Balanced.

Charles A. Sprague of Oregon, balanced the state budget and estimated the reduction in administrative expenses for 1940 at $354,000.

Arthur L. James of Pennsylvania, absorbed a $50,000,000 deficit left by the Democrats and reduced the cost of government.

William H. Vanderbilt of Rhode Island, balanced the state budget for the first time in six years and reduced costs by 9 per cent.

Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota, abolished the state tax on real estate, balanced the budget and saved $1,500,000 in administrative expenses.

George D. Aiken of Vermont, continued the pay-as-you-go policy of former Republican governors and built up a surplus.

Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin, reduced the state budget by $3,779,000.

Nels H. Smith of Wyoming, reduced taxes, balanced his budget and had a surplus at the end of the year.

Plans for a wedding trip were shelved because of the frail health of Senator Glass, who has been ill recently.

FIND PLAN TO END G. O. P. DELEGATE 'ABUSES IN SOUTH

Rules Committee Acts in Cleanup Fight.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 24 (AP).—A 25 year fight to clean up the Republican delegate situation in the south was all but won tonight by party leaders who declared their aim was to build a two party system in Dixie.

By unanimous vote, the convention rules committee approved a recommendation that congressional districts be denied delegates to future national conventions if they have failed to poll 1,000 votes for Republican candidates in prior national and state elections.

Leaders predicted the convention will approve the restriction tomorrow despite estimates that the south might possibly lose 75 delegates by the conditional ban.

One southern committeeman said the change will prevent "buying" of delegates, a practice charged to southern leaders in the past, while Arthur M. Curtis, Missouri committeeman, declared it represented "one of the finest things we have done."

Aim to Build Real Party.

Curtis said the party had wanted for 25 years to clean up the situation, but it remained for Former Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware to hit upon an agreeable amendment at a cocktail party the other night.

"Which goes to show some good can come out of a cocktail party," Curtis added.

It was explained that the rule would be an incentive to create real party strength by getting out the vote.

Under present rules, each congressional district is allowed a delegate even if it casts no Republican vote in a preceding election, and an additional delegate if it casts 10,000 votes.

Bonus Rule Amended.

Also, under existing rules, each state is permitted four delegates at large and a bonus of three more if it returns a majority for the Republican presidential ticket. A change approved today would extend this bonus to off-year elections.

Another change, approved for future conventions, raises from two to three the number of delegates from Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

WOMAN QUIZZED IN GREEN DRAGON DOPE GANG DEATH

Lie detector tests were given to two persons yesterday as the police pressed their investigation of the murder of Gerald [Jerry] Siegel, who was under indictment as a member of a nation-wide chain of dope smugglers and peddlers known as the Green Dragon gang. Siegel, 27 years old, was shot to death early Sunday as he left an automobile in front of the Royal Beach hotel, at 5523 Kenmore avenue. An inquest was opened yesterday, but was continued to July 2, pending further investigation.

Miss Mary Beck, who told police she lived with Siegel in the hotel and who was with him when he was shot, was one of the two persons given the tests. The other was Thomas Stobble, 3026 Wells street, one of several suspects rounded up by police and narcotic agents. Stobble is said to be a former dope peddler.

Lieut. Michael Ahearn said that Siegel, who was arrested on May 23, had agreed to be a government witness in the trial of members of the gang, which is to begin in Fort Worth, Tex., on July 1.

TOUL CATHEDRAL DAMAGED; NAZIS ACCUSE FRENCH

BERLIN, June 24.—The cathedral of Toul, fortress town in Lorraine, was admitted by German quarters today to have been damaged during the heavy fighting for possession of the town last week. It was asserted that most of the damage to the cathedral was done by heavy French bombardment on June 20 and 22. Fire broke out in the nave, it was stated, while the façades also were extensively damaged. German troops were said to have fought the fire as best they could and succeeded in saving some of the interior furnishings. Pews and the organ, however, were completely destroyed. The left tower of the edifice, which was in danger of collapsing, has been propped up and strengthened by German engineers, it was said.

VANDENBERG NOT MAD AT ANYBODY AND IS CONFIDENT

Praises Delegates for High Ideals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan remained calm and optimistic today as the contest over the Republican presidential nomination reached the boiling point.

Michigan's favorite son at the national convention said he was staying away from any trick mathematics —"I've had enough of that in the last seven years"—but felt his chances of obtaining the nomination on about the sixth ballot remained good. Then he enumerated the delegations which had been to see him at his hotel today.

No Talk About Votes.

"Tennessee was here, in full," he began, and ticked it off on one finger. "Then Washington, then North Carolina, and Missouri just left. Illinois is on its way, and Montana and Nebraska have been here, too."

"Did they all promise you support?" the senator was asked.

"O, we never talk about votes," was the reply, accompanied by a smile. "We just discuss the state of the nation."

"What do they have to say about Willkie?" was the next question.

"We haven't psychoanalyzed anybody," the senator said. "Everybody is mad at everybody else around here, except me. I'm not mad at anybody.

Praises Spirit of Delegates.

"But seriously," he added, "I've been in every Republican national convention since 1912, and never have I seen one in which the delegates were so earnestly in pursuit of the right answer, as they are here in 1940; they want to do the best job they can."

Senator Vandenberg said he had just received a visit from Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, "who thinks I ought to be nominated."

Some one facetiously asked when the senator thought the convention would reach the "smoke filled room stage?"

"There will be only one smoke filled room this year," he replied. "That will be at the Democratic convention in Chicago and all the smoke will come from one long cigaret holder. We Republicans are insulated so far as deals are concerned."

BIOFF ASKS WRIT FOR FREEDOM IN PANDERING CASE

Walker Butler, attorney for Willie Bioff, Hollywood union boss now serving a six months' sentence in the Bridewell for pandering, appeared yesterday before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court with an application for a writ of habeas corpus. He alleged that the original information on which the conviction was based was void because of varied legal technicalities. Judge Prystalski set Friday for hearing on the application.

Bioff was convicted in the Municipal court in February, 1922, and committed to the Bridewell. A few days later he was released pending an appeal. The sentence was affirmed several months later, and Bioff was ordered returned to jail. This order was carried out in April. His term ends Sept. 20.

$230,842 IN G. O. P. ACCOUNT, PARTY TREASURER SAYS

Debts of $1,250,000 Paid Since '36

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

C. B. Goodspeed.

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican national committee, reported today on party finances as follows:

"I am submitting herewith a balance sheet which shows that as of June 19, 1940, the committee had cash in bank amounting to $230,842, and an excess of assets over all liabilities amounting to $36,587. With the exception of the period of the 1936 campaign the committee has operated without a deficit, has raised sufficient funds to support the work of the congressional and senatorial committees and has liquidated the accounts payable of the 1936 campaign, which on Nov. 4, 1936, amounted to approximately $1,250,000.

Gives Credit to Hamilton.

"I believe the chairman, Mr. [John] Hamilton, is entitled to a great deal of credit for the excellent condition of the committee's finances. During this period the national committee has for the first time maintained and expanded its headquarters and staff to enable the Republican party to function as a real opposition party.

"The committee is greatly indebted to the special committee which was organized last winter under the chairmanship of ex-Senator George Wharton Pepper [of Pennsylvania], for the purpose of raising funds to liquidate the remaining unpaid bills of the 1936 campaign.

$632,055 Is Subscribed.

"In approximately two months this committee obtained subscriptions amounting to $632,055. It was due to their efforts that we enter the 1940 campaign without a deficit.

"A finance committee, under E. T. Weir as chairman, has been organized for raising funds for the 1940 campaign. This committee has now completed its organization in many of the states and I am sure that it is the most effective fund raising organization that the national committee has ever had at the beginning of a campaign."

TAILOR DEAD AT FOOT OF STAIRS; SON QUESTIONED

Joseph Simo, 63 years old, a tailor, was found dead last evening at the bottom of the rear stairway of his home at 5151 Newburg avenue. There were indications heart disease may have caused death, altho there were bruises on his head.

Jefferson Park police arrested his son, Walter, 38, for questioning. Walter, police said, was released only last Saturday from the Chicago State hospital at Dunning after eight weeks treatment for alcoholism.

According to police several boys said they saw Walter and his father tussling. Walter denied this, saying his father accidentally fell down the stairs. He admitted however, police said, that they had been quarreling because of his father's refusal to permit him to go to Brooklyn to search for work as an electrician.

FOOD RUNS OUT AT BIG LUNCHEON FOR WOMEN VISITORS

Nobody Minds Much; It's a Gay Convention Affair.

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 24.—The women's hospitality committee for the Republican national convention gave a fine, big luncheon for women visitors at the Academy of Music today. The flowers were beautiful, girls in Quaker costume served, and about 450 women turned out for it, but the food gave out.

It wasn't so bad. No one seemed to mind eating two plates of brick ice cream when the plate luncheons were gone. No one minded being stranded, hungry, by the rain. It was just a gay, starving interval, and many women of consequence came.

Unperturbed at All Times.

Completely unperturbed at all times was Mrs. Worthington Scranton, Pennsylvania's committeewoman and official hostess.

It was as informal as a hay field, with everyone discussing her troubles. Mrs. Dobson-Altemus, was a case in point. White haired and regal, with a sheaf of orchids rambling down her dress, she said, "I'm head of the distinguished guest committee, and I've been grinning for days. My mouth is worn out. . . . No," aside to a reporter, "don't list me as Mrs. Bessie. It sounds as if you're calling the cows."

Mrs. Baur Shows Her 'Kerchief.

Mrs. Bertha Baur, who last night was started "by acclamation" on her fourth term as Illinois committeewoman, unknotted her chiffon kerchief to show the women. "My own design," she said proudly, shaking it out to reveal a red elephant surrounded by a Baur poem, "Plan your work, work your plan; if you work, win you can."

She spies Elizabeth Arden, who strives to beautify the world, in a corner and hurries over. "I'm Bertha Baur who rides a flower," she cried. Miss Arden confides that she is at the convention "against all the powers that be." She felt she had to come, tho, for "this year is so votal," she said. "We don't want to be lost."

Air of Gay Excitement.

In general, there is an air of gay excitement. Women crowd around Mrs. D. S. Humespon of Albia, Iowa, an alternate delegate, to see the contents of her little white box. It turns out to be a campaign badge, pictures of Grant and Henry Wilson fastened in a metal star on a faded silk ribbon, which her grandfather wore at the Republican convention in 1872 when Grant was nominated.

Mrs. Frank Gannett, wife of the New York presidential aspirant, chats vivaciously, a patriotic bag in her lap. Mary Berkemeier Quinn, Chicago attorney who is sergeant at arms at the convention, tells Mrs. Robert Taft she studied law at Yale under the late President Taft and in the same class with Robert's brother, Charley.

Mrs. Ernest B. Griffin of Grand Park, Ill., new vice chairman of the Illinois Republican women's division, sits and sighs over her home state. "We women have 53 per cent of the vote in Illinois, and have only one delegate," she says in disgust.

WPA STARTS ILLINOIS DRIVE AGAINST REDS AND BUND MEMBERS

The Work Projects administration drive against communists, Nazi bund members, and aliens got under way yesterday with the distribution of 185,000 printed affidavits to the five district offices in Illinois. All WPA employés will be required to sign the affidavits, stating they are not members of subversive groups or aliens and that they will not join communist or bund organizations while employed on the WPA.

Signing of the affidavits will not begin until President Roosevelt signs the new relief bill, which provides for the elimination of subversive groups from the WPA, Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, announced.

A penalty of one year's imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 is provided for false statement. Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, ordered preparations made thruout the country for the purge when the new relief bill was sent to the White House on Saturday.

NAZIS TO GET BIG ADDITION TO NAVY IN FRENCH YARDS

Many Warships Are Near Completion.

BY GUY MURCHIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—Regardless of what happens to the French navy, it is virtually certain that the German conquerors of France will make an important naval gain by their seizure of French shipyards.

Altho some French warships under construction will not be finished for a long time, others are nearing completion and could be made ready for sea this summer.

The choicest of these new warships, from Adolf Hitler's viewpoint, are the 35,000 ton, 30 knot battleships of the Richelieu class.

[Four ships of the Richelieu class have been under construction. The Germans reported last week they took two of them, the Clemenceau and the Richelieu, when Brest fell. The Jean Bart and the Gascogne were being built at St. Nazaire, where the Nazis said they captured enormous booty. A Washington, D. C., report said the Jean Bart was towed to England. While terms of the armistice provided that the French fleet shall be interned, nothing was said about uncompleted warships.]

Carry Eight 15 Inch Guns.

These ships are not only fast and well armored, but powerfully gunned, mounting eight 15 inch guns in two turrets; fifteen 6 inch guns, eight 37 millimeter antiaircraft guns, and ten 13 millimeter antiaircraft guns. Construction undoubtedly had been speeded up during the war and most of the ships must be considerably nearer completion than available reports would indicate.

Two vessels of the Richelieu class were so nearly completed that they were in the water. If Hitler should complete them, they would be valuable supplements to his two 35,000 tonners, the Von Tirpitz and the Bismarck, which are nearing completion in Germany and will mount 15 inch guns.

These four new battleships would give Hitler four 15 inch gun ships that would be able to outspeed everything the British have except the battle cruiser Hood, which also has 15 inch guns, but lacks the heavy armor of battleships. New British battleships, some of which should soon be ready to put to sea, will match them in size and speed and armor, but will mount only 14 inch guns.

2 Aircraft Carriers Building.

There are two French aircraft carriers, the Joffre and the Painleve, of 18,000 tons, which should be well toward completion. Designed for a speed of 32 knots, these should be useful additions to the German and Italian fleets, as would the three De Grasse class, 8,000 ton, 6 inch gun cruisers originally planned for completion in 1941 and 1942 and probably now many months ahead of schedule. These cruisers may help make up Germany's cruiser losses of the Norwegian campaign.

Concerning the destroyers of the Le Hardi class of 1,770 tons, 37 knots, armed with six 5.1 inch guns, eight antiaircraft guns, and seven torpedo tubes, six new ones probably already are with the French fleet, but six others are in various stages of construction. When completed they will replace some of Germany's destroyers that lie at the bottom of Narvik fjord.

14 Torpedo Boats.

In torpedo boats, France was building 14 Agile class ships of just under 1,000 tons, each mounting four 3.9 inch guns, with four antiaircraft guns, four torpedo tubes, and a speed of 34 knots. The first four of these must be almost ready to put to sea and the remaining 10 in advanced stages of construction.

In submarines, France has been building five of the Morillot class of 1,600 tons, and 15 smaller 893 ton craft of the Aurore class, which two may have been completed.

Since the armistice terms call for France to hand over intact all armaments, it is likely Germany will be able to include many of these ships in her fleet. While battleships and cruisers would be welcome to Germany, torpedo boats and submarines would probably prove of greatest immediate value because they could be rapidly completed to assist in the blockade of the British Isles.

Five Naval Bases Seized.

The Germans already have secured all five French naval bases and shipbuilding yards on the Atlantic coast, together with machinery and armament works, and these, added to their seizures in Holland, Denmark, and Norway, will build ships for the German navy.

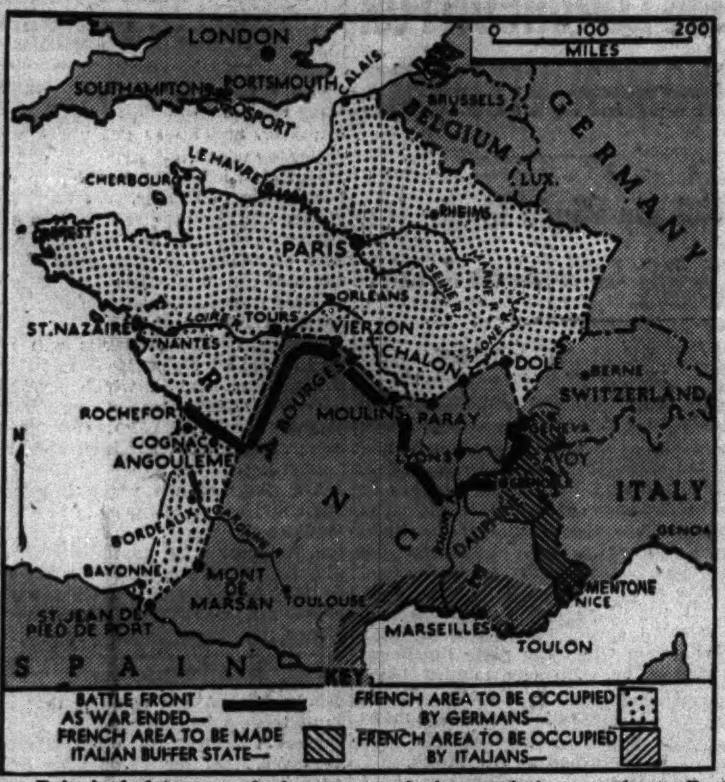
Experience indicates that virtually all workers can be forced or persuaded to work for a conqueror in order to get food and other necessities. Many Germans now under arms worked during the allied occupation of Germany after the world war to produce goods to pay reparations.

ITALIAN LINER TO PASS CANAL; MAY DASH HOME

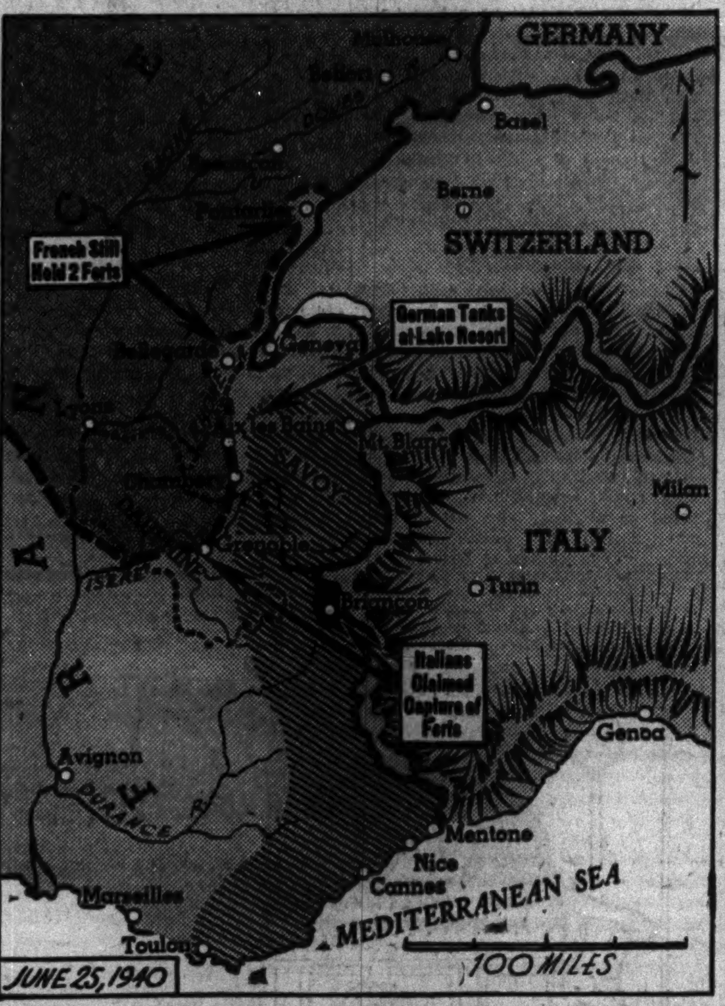
BALBAO, C. Z., June 24 (AP).—The 25,000 ton Italian liner Conte Biancamano, under attachment in an admiralty libel suit, tomorrow will move thru the Panama canal to the Atlantic side for what might be a dash toward home. She was under heavy guard when she was moved to a dock to prepare for the transit. The liner took refuge at the Pacific entrance to the canal when Italy entered the war, and official sources said today she was "in the way." Attachment proceedings were started last week when the British-owned Asiatic Petroleum corporation filed a libel charging nonpayment for fuel oil deliveries amounting to $91,843.

France at the End of the Fighting

(Stories on page 1 and in adjoining column.)



Principal features of the terms of the armistice as they affect France, according to British sources. Germany and Italy are to announce official terms of the armistice tomorrow.



The heavy black broken line indicates battle front in Alpine region as it was fixed when order to cease firing was given. The diagonal lines mark corridor in which French Alpine army was battling German forces on north and west and Italian forces on east.

GERMANS TAUGHT HOW TO SAY IT WHEN IN BRITAIN

Special School Aids Invasion Plans.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—German efficiency in preparations for an invasion includes a special school in English for German troops, according to London authorities. They claim they have a copy of a book containing phrases that are being taught to soldiers and parachutists to facilitate work in England.

Familiar phrases usually found in "easy conversation" books for tourists, such as "I have a cat at home which plays in my garden," are omitted in the book.

In their stead are such phrases, London authorities say, as "If you lie you will be shot," "You are not telling the truth." "Is that really true?", "If you tell everything you have nothing to fear," "You will remain here as a hostage," and "I want a guide who knows the country well."

Mayors Face Inquisition.

A special third degree inquisition is planned for mayors, the book indicates. "Are you the mayor?" "Where is the cash?" "How much money is there?", and "Write it down here" are among the phrases being taught, it is said.

These supposedly are followed by "I confiscate all the money," "You are answerable for it with your life," and a warning to the mayor that he must not approach a railway, send telegrams, or otherwise try to signal the presence of Germans in the area.

That the invaders hope to enlist Britons in their task is said to be indicated by such phrases as "I want you to build a ramp here," and "Place a bucket of water over there." Questions such as "Is the water good?" and "I have pains in the stomach; give me opium for diarrhea" suggest that even the detailed wants of the parachutists have been anticipated.

An Aid for Laundry.

Further use of Britishers is suggested by the phrase, "Wash this for me," and the admonition, "Drivers who intentionally go the wrong way will be shot."

An intimation that the Germans intend to use horses is given in the phrase, "I want hay and oats."

FRENCH ALPINIST TROOPS RACE TO ESCAPE BY SEA

Defend 50 Mile Corridor Until the Last.

CHANCY, Swiss-French Frontier, June 25, Tuesday (AP).—Down a 50 mile wide corridor thru Savoy, scattered French troops were reported racing for the Mediterranean today in the hope of finding transportation to North Africa to continue their fight against the Rome-Berlin axis armies.

The cease firing order 35 minutes after midnight gave them their first chance to drop back from fighting lines and try the dash to the sea.

Until the last few hours of the battle of southeast France they were hard beset by Italian attacks thru Alpine passes and by German mechanized columns from their north flank and rear.

To most of the hard pressed mountain garrisons near the Swiss-French frontier the cease firing order brought welcome relief after exhausting hours and days of unceasing attack.

Many surrounded garrisons, and their attackers, stopped fighting hours before the actual order.

One Fort Holds Out.

There was no immediate word from the fiercely defended fort, L'Ecluse, east of Bellegarde, where a large force of French foreign legionnaires held out grimly, day after day.

Peasants had said the defenders told them they would keep right on battling—armistice or no armistice.

Guns of the fort which held off a heavy German attack yesterday remained silent during the night.

Another weary force of Frenchmen crossed the border last night and surrendered their arms to Swiss troops after nearly a week of steady fighting against overwhelming German man power and equipment. The troops carried their wounded in trucks.

The last to cross the border, behind his men, was Gen. Marcel Huet.

Neutral sources estimated that the Italian land forces, engaged in their first and only major offensive thru the mountain passes, outnumbered the French five to one.

Knew Fight Was Hopeless.

Altho encircled, outnumbered, and discouraged by the knowledge that surrender was inevitable, the French Alpine forces had held a 50 mile corridor from the Swiss frontier and Mont Blanc to the Riviera region and Toulon. They were believed to be about 150,000 strong, including Foreign Legionnaires.

German advance units had pushed to Chambery and along the Isere river just west of Grenoble. The Italian high command said the headwaters of the Isere in the Alps were in possession of its troops.

Italians Claim Successes.

ROME, June 24 (AP).—"Despite strong enemy fortifications in high mountains and strong enemy resistance as well as bad weather conditions, our offensive could not be held by the enemy and our troops gained notable successes," the communique said. It continued:

"A series of forts were taken: Briançon, Isere, Tiriere, and others.

"In the southern part of the Tyrrhenian sea an enemy submarine was sunk by our submarine chasers.

"Italian aviation carried out intense activity despite unfavorable atmospheric conditions.

"The bases of Malta and the arsenal of Bizerte were bombed. Two Italian planes failed to return.

"In North Africa the bases of Mersa and Matruh were attacked and British formations of troops and tanks were bombed. All our planes returned to their bases.

"In East Africa the bases of Djibouti and Berbera and enemy troops at Kenya were successfully attacked. Enemy raids on Massaua, Assab and Diredawa were driven off."

TWO LIFE MAGAZINE MEN TOLD BY ITALY TO LEAVE COUNTRY

ROME, June 24 (AP).—M. Fillmore Calhoun, a foreign correspondent of Life magazine, and Thomas D. McAvoy, a staff photographer for the magazine, were asked today by the ministry of popular culture to leave Italy as soon as possible.

The ministry said an article published in Life last week on Marshal Rodolfo Graziani was unfavorable.

The Americans are here on a three month special assignment. Calhoun is accompanied by his wife.

[There was no comment at the magazine's New York headquarters.]

SPAIN CLOSES BORDER TO HER OLD REPUBLICANS

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, June 24 (AP).—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's guards on the Pyrenees frontier are keeping the passes back to Spain closed tight to the Spanish Republicans who fled to France after the civil war. They intimate that such refugees no longer are considered Spanish.

[Originally 500,000, the number of Spanish refugees in France was estimated at 140,000 last December.]

Among refugees who entered Spain today were members of the Rothschild family, famous bankers.

Seventy-five Americans, most of them members of the United States embassy in Paris, crossed the frontier into Spain just before midnight. Some 45 more Americans were expected here early tomorrow.

BRITISH AVIATORS BOMB AIRPORTS AND RAILROADS

Germany and Holland Raided by Planes.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The British air ministry tonight announced new attacks on railway junctions and airdromes in Holland and Germany.

"Yesterday daylight attacks were made by our bombers on railway junctions and airdromes in Holland and Germany," a communique said. "Three of our aircraft are missing.

"Last night attacks were continued on military objectives in Germany. These included munitions factories, marshalling yards and railway junctions in Mecklenburg, the Ruhr, and the Rhineland. Heavy damage was done. Our aircraft returned safely."

Italian Submarine Sunk.

At the same time the British admiralty announced that an Italian submarine had been destroyed.

The submarine was destroyed by British naval forces east of Suez, it was said. [This would mean in the Red sea or the Indian ocean.]

Seven Italian submarines now have been "disposed of," the communique said.

The admiralty announced that the British naval yacht Campeador had been sunk by a mine. It said 20 men are believed lost.

Charges Prison Camp Bombed.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).—DNB, German news agency, said today British bombers killed three French prisoners of war and wounded three other inmates of a prison camp near Hamburg last night.

The high command's communique, issued earlier, said that "several bombs fell on a prisoners' camp on the Baltic coast, killing and injuring a number of Frenchmen."

It was not clear whether the two incidents were the same.

DNB asserted that British bombers, in a daylight attack June 21, destroyed the vacated Netherlands naval hospital at Den Helder. The agency said numerous civilians were injured and one workman was killed by the bombs. All patients had been removed from the hospital a short time before the attack, DNB said.

MYRON TAYLOR MOVED TO ROME FOR OPERATION

ROME, June 24 (AP).—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican who has been seriously ill in Florence, was brought to Rome today for an operation. He was taken to the private clinic of Prof. Raffaele Bastianellis, one of Italy's most famous surgeons. Dr. Allen O. Whipple, New York surgeon who came here by plane with Mrs. Taylor, will operate at the clinic tomorrow. The character of the operation was not revealed.

Expected to Resign Soon.

Washington, D. C., June 24 [Special].—Myron C. Taylor soon will resign as the President's personal representative to the Vatican because of ill health, it was reported here today. The reports, while generally credited, lacked official confirmation. It also was reported no successor would be appointed if Taylor resigns. His appointment has stirred continued protests from church and other groups. It has been charged the appointment violates the American tradition of separation of church and state.

JAP BOMBS RAZE U. S. AND BRITISH BIBLE BUILDING

CHUNGKING, China, June 24 (AP).—The building occupied by the joint American-British Bible society and the French consulate were demolished in a raid carried out by nearly 100 Japanese bombers attacking in waves. The British embassy and British consulate were extensively damaged and seven Chinese employés of the British and French consulates were killed. There were no foreign casualties.

The heaviest damage was in the vicinity of the institutional church, which itself escaped with only minor hits from bomb fragments.

FOOD SHORTAGE ACUTE IN PARIS; AND SO IS CASH

Small Change Vanishes in Finance Panic.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 24.—Perhaps it is just as well that Parisians still have learned practically nothing about the fate of their armies and the country. They are having plenty of trouble of their own.

The shortage of essential commodities is becoming acute. Vegetables, fruit, fresh meats and milk are not obtainable. There also is a shortage of small change.

Practically no one can or wants to change a 1,000 franc bill. The shortage of money is ascribed to the destruction by the Bank of France during the panic of June 14 of millions of small notes ranging from 10 to 100 francs.

Refuse to Handle Notes.

An attempt is being made to relieve the situation by the use of German notes—the little five mark notes being worth 100 francs—but the average tradesman in Paris refuses to handle them. If they are imposed on him by a German soldier he waits until another German comes along and tries to get rid of the marks. The financial panic is increased by a persistent rumor that the Germans intend to abolish French currency and substitute the mark for the franc.

Marks are common in hotels and cafés in the center of Paris which are filled with Germans, but they are rare in the quarters which have remained almost exclusively French.

The Germans are helping the city recover its normal aspects by removing sandbags placed around the monuments of Paris as a protection against bombs.

Uncover "The Damned."

So far they have uncovered the sculptural group of "The Damned," at the base of the triumphal Napoleon column in the Place Vendôme. For months the column has been a melancholy sight. Part of the sandbags fell down in an avalanche which broke thru the iron railings at the base of the column where they were left by Paris municipal authorities.

The city now has three newspapers, La Matin, La Histoire and a new one called the Latest News of Paris. They publish official German communiques, the fast multiplying municipal ordinances concerning automobiles and foodstuffs and brief editorials.

GERMANY MAY EXILE EX-KING LEOPOLD TO SAN SEBASTIAN, SPAIN

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, June 25, Tuesday, (AP).—It was reported here today that this north Spain summer resort might become a new Doorn—home of King Leopold III. of Belgium by agreement with Germany.

Since his surrender when German armies overran his country, Leopold, disowned by his own government, has been living in a castle in Belgium under German supervision.

His three children came to Spain, and it was learned that arrangements have been made for them to remain here.

THIS IS BUICK'S BIGGEST YEAR
So this one must be good!

WE'RE not telling you this 1940 Buick is the best we've ever built—you're telling us!

Never in our history have we built so many cars as we have this model year—not even in the flush days of the twenties.

Now why is that? Because of the big Dynaflash engine that's the only power plant balanced after assembly? Because of the soft-and-easy BuiCoil Springing ride?

Because of size? Because of style?

Because of features—appointments—ruggedness—value?

We'll let you decide. But there's food for thought in prices* that begin as low as .... $895 for the business coupe, delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation, based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories are extra—but that still adds up to delivered prices that are mighty low for the best Buick we ever built.

ARMISTICE ENDS ITALY'S 14 DAY WAR ON FRANCE

French Agree to Terms After Four Hour Parley.

ROME, June 24 (AP).—Italy triumphantly ended her war with beaten France today—just two weeks after Premier Benito Mussolini plunged into the European conflict on the side of his powerful Rome-Berlin axis partner, Adolf Hitler.

The armistice, terms of which were to be made public in 48 hours, was signed at 7:15 p. m. [12:15 p. m. Chicago daylight time], 15 minutes under a full day after they were presented to the four French delegates who on Saturday had agreed to Hitler's terms in Compiegne forest, France.

Germany is Informed.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister and Mussolini's son-in-law, informed the German government of the signing 20 minutes later. As a consequence hostilities were to cease at 1:35 a. m., Tuesday [6:35 p. m. Monday, Chicago time], in accordance with the provision of the German-French terms that firing cease six hours after their notification of the conclusion of the Italo-French armistice. [The French gave the "cease firing" order at the time prescribed.]

[In Geneva, Switzerland, Fascist sources said they understood Italy had demanded the right to military occupation of France's entire Mediterranean coast for the duration of the war with England and later a semi-independent buffer state would be formed of Nice, Savoy, and part of Dauphine.]

Mussolini, who only 14 days ago stood on a balcony of his Palazzo Venezia to tell his nation that "We have decided to take the risks and sacrifices of war," was not present when the armistice was signed in the 17th century Villa Incisa, 12 miles from Rome, in the village of Olgiata.

Meet for Four Hours.

Presumably he had not even seen the four French delegates at any time since they arrived by German plane from Munich yesterday afternoon to open the negotiations. The terms were presented yesterday in 20 minutes, and discussions lasted nearly four hours today in a large salon on the ground floor of the villa.

In the end Gen. Charles Huntziger, leader of the French delegation, and Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the Italian general staff, signed the documents.

The discussions had been carried on in French around a long table. During this time automobiles arrived and departed, carrying naval officers from Rome and others who presumably were called into consultation or were the bearers of messages.

Representatives of Two Sides.

The Italian representatives besides Marshal Badoglio were Admiral Domencio Cavagnari, naval chief of staff; Gen. Francisco Pricoli, chief of the air force, and Gen. Mario Roatta, army assistant chief of staff.

The French delegates besides Gen. Huntziger were Leon Noel, former ambassador to Poland; Rear Admiral Maurice le Luc, and Aviation General Jean Bergeret.

The Villa Incisa presumably was chosen as the site of the armistice negotiations because it lies near Rome but is sufficiently isolated to discourage curiosity seekers.

The princely Massimo family, richest of Roman nobles in the 16th century, built the villa. It then passed to the equally famous Chigi family, whose old palace in Rome is now the Italian foreign ministry building. The Villa Incisa now is owned by the Marchese Incisa de Roberti.

The Italian government has taken over the beautiful 16th century Villa Medici, French property in Rome which has housed the French art academy since 1803, a reliable source disclosed.

MORE FOOD THAN EVER IN BRITAIN, MINISTER CLAIMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 24.—Lord Woolton, minister of foods, today denied German reports that a serious lack of food exists in England. "Some of our stocks—those most vital—are greater than at any time in our history," he asserted.

Woolton said he assumed the seas would remain open and said that whenever he felt the situation required, he would impose fresh restrictions. He described food stocks as secondary to ammunition supplies and therefore he was not informing the enemy of what food supplies there are here, whence they come or how they reach England. If any one was disturbed all he had to do was ask his "village grocer," Woolton said.

He also disclosed that air raids were increasing the tea consumption, some one having calculated that nearly all of the 2,500,000 persons who dashed to shelters during recent alarms had made themselves a cup of tea afterward. "I understand the need for a cup of tea after an air raid," he said, "but I would be glad if the public, at other times, would go slow on tea as consumption has increased heavily."

Cats and Dogs Roam Cities; French Told to Kill Them

Paris, June 24 (AP).—The prefect of police today advised citizens to kill the many dogs and cats roaming thru French cities. The animals were left behind when refugees fled. If they are not killed and buried, the prefect said, there may be an outbreak of rabies. Pets kept at home or on leash will be spared.

FRANCE ORDERS MOURNING TODAY AS FIGHT CEASES

Drapes Flags; Plans to Move Capital.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BORDEAUX, France, June 25, Tuesday.—Today began as a national day of mourning for France.

The signing of the armistice with Italy was followed six hours later—at 12:35 a. m. French time [6:35 p. m. Monday, Chicago daylight time]—by the French order to cease firing on all fronts.

"Today France must be silent, but she will forge a new hope," Minister of Interior Charles Pomaret said in a broadcast, announcing the end of hostilities with Italy and Germany.

He announced that prayers would be said for France in all churches and members of the government would attend a special mass for the war dead. All amusement houses, cafés, and business houses except food stores are to be closed.

A Minute of Silence.

A minute of silence will be observed thruout the nation at 11 a. m. in memory of the dead of the world war and of the present war. Flags will be draped with crêpe and lowered to half staff. Soldiers will be consigned to their quarters. The men and women of France will cease their ordinary occupations.

Sometime during the day Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain will broadcast an armistice day message to the nation.

"On Wednesday," Pomaret announced, "Every Frenchman must return to his task. Wednesday will be the day when the nation returns to its daily tasks to labor for its daily bread and work for the France of the future."

France at peace finds more than half her devastated soil occupied by German and Italian invaders, millions of her people homeless, untold numbers of her manhood dead or wounded, and her government a virtual prisoner in Bordeaux—tho it was announced that the government would move to headquarters elsewhere, in territory not to be occupied by the Germans or Italians.

Await Final Peace.

The armistices signed with Germany and Italy—their terms are to be announced officially 48 hours from the time of the "cease fire" order—ended the fighting, but a more enduring peace must await the outcome of the continuing struggle between the Rome-Berlin axis and Great Britain, France's erstwhile ally.

In its last communique, while the fighting still was in progress yesterday, the French command related that the Germans were making slight progress, but had reached Angouleme, 65 miles northeast of Bordeaux, and Aix-les-Bains, a Savoy resort 40 miles south of Geneva.

Italian attacks in the Alps continued Monday, the communique said, but made little progress except for a slight advance past Lanslebourg and the occupation of Mentone on the Riviera, just inside the French border.

The cabinet's decision to sign the armistice ending the 14 day war with Italy came late yesterday after a series of meetings presided over by President Albert Lebrun. At its final meeting at 5:30 p. m. the cabinet directed Gen. Charles Huntziger, ranking envoy for the four man French delegation meeting with the Italians near Rome, to sign the agreement.

Defend French Action.

In the midst of their final capitulation, the French stoutly defended the French-German agreement against criticism of their erstwhile British allies.

The French, pleading for an American understanding, also declared they arrived at their decision to ask Hitler for an armistice "in complete independence."

A tri-partite commission—French, German and Italian—is to be named to determine the methods for applying the various clauses of the armistices. The first job of the commission will be to draw up a new set of traffic regulations for France. It is hinted that circulation within France is to be restricted by the troops of occupation.

The Petain government plans to draw up comprehensive measures for the continuation of the general life of the country in view of the new situation. This will include measures to get the 6,000,000 French people and Belgians who took to the road and have been wandering about southern France for a period of six weeks, returned to their homes in central France and the north.

Nearly 2 Billions in Gold May Be Nazi Booty in Paris

New York, June 24 (AP).—Authoritative sources estimated today that Germany may have captured as much as $1,850,000,000 in gold in the conquest of France—and the whole treasure may be under water. The estimate was based on the assumption that France did not have Poland's success in spiriting gold out of reach of invadors.

The most recent reports available to banking circles were that France held $1,250,000,000 in gold in the rocky labyrinths under the Bank of France in Paris.

May Get Some Belgium Gold.

To that store was said to have been added $600,000,000 in gold hastily moved from Belgium when Germany invaded that country.

The storage vaults are some 80 feet below the surface of Paris' rock foundation and well below the waters of an underground stream which, Bank of France officials said years ago, could be diverted into the vaults at the touch of a button.

The builders of the vault planned that, in case Paris ever were captured, the vaults would be flooded. Then, they said, it would require months at least to locate the source of the river, dam it, and reënter the underground storehouse.

Some Stored in America.

Of course, no one has announced how much, if any, of the French gold stock was removed before Paris was captured. Nor are there exact figures on how much of the total French gold reserve was stored, under "earmark," in United States Federal Reserve bank vaults. Undisclosed millions of French gold also have been used in buying munitions in America.

The Bank of France, in its statement of May 31, reported a gold reserve of 84,616,000,000 francs—then about $1,693,000,000. The difference between this figure and local estimates indicates about one-half billion dollars in gold stored outside France.

Among the items of war booty which Germany apparently will obtain in whole or in part are 1,570 American made airplanes known to have been delivered to France in the last 18 months.

The deliveries were 200 Douglas bombers, 600 Curtiss pursuits, 280 Martin bombers, 40 Vought-Sikorsky bombers, 450 North American Aviation trainers.

WOMEN WEARING MEN'S TROUSERS WARNED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, June 24.—Notices being displayed conspicuously on the main entrances of apartment houses in Berlin's fashionable west end assert:

"Residents of this apartment house are requested to note the addresses of those women who in spite of the seriousness of the time run about in men's trousers. Whoever in these days favors such degenerate mad excesses of fashion will be the first to be called up when the law is decreed for the conscription of female labor."

The notices were signed by members of the local group headquarters of the National Socialist [Nazi] party. They conflict with the definition of individual freedom propounded by Reich Labor Leader Robert Ley last April. "Man is free," Ley said at the time, "when he can eat, drink, dress and live as and where he pleases or finds it necessary."

RUMANIAN JEWS LOSE RIGHTS BY PRO-NAZI RULES

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 24 (AP).—Rumania's 1,000,000 Jews automatically lose the right to hold public office, to serve as heads of private industries and in professional organizations under a new decree published today. When King Carol's new Nazi-patterned totalitarian party was formed last week a royal decree was issued limiting all such posts to party members. Today's decree went further and forbids all Jews from joining the party, altho other minorities will be admitted in special categories.

CANADA BOOSTS TAXES TO RAISE FUNDS FOR WAR

New Budget Asks Income of 760 Millions.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 24.—Canadians learned today that their war on Germany will cost them the highest taxation in their history.

Drastic new taxes designed to raise $110,000,000 and bring the nation's revenue up to $760,000,000, were disclosed by Finance Minister J. L. Ralston when he put Canada's wartime budget before the house of commons.

Expenditures for the fiscal year, which ends March 31, 1941, were estimated by Ralston at $1,148,000,000 with the total deficit running between $550,000,000 and $600,000,000. The finance minister said that about $700,000,000 would be spent in carrying on the war.

All Wage Earners Hit.

Virtually every wage earner will be hit by the new income tax schedules which double and in some cases triple the present rates. In addition, a new national defense tax starting at 2 per cent on salaries of $600 was added.

The graduated scale of income taxation has been substantially increased. Instead of paying 3 per cent on the first $250 of taxable income, Canadians hereafter will pay 6 per cent. On the next $750 the rate will be 8 per cent, and on the next $1,000 it will be 12 per cent. The increase on incomes of over $10,000 will not be as sharp. A single man earning $1,500 would pay $100 under the new tax. He now pays only $18.

A new automobile levy starting at 10 per cent on values up to $700 and increasing to 80 per cent on cars priced at $1,200 or over also was included.

A new 10 per cent levy was imposed on phonographs, cameras, radios, radio tubes and raw leaf tobacco. Excess profits taxes were boosted to 75 per cent. A ten per cent tax was put on imports, except under the British preferential tariff.

Raise Cigaret Tax.

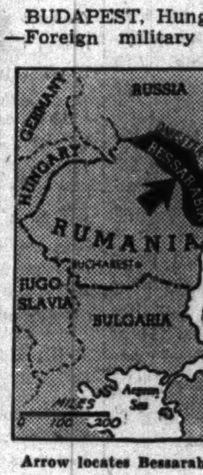
The tax on automobile tires and tubes was raised to 5 cents a pound and the cigaret tax increased from $5 to $6 per 1,000. The manufactured tobacco tax was boosted from 25 cents to 35 cents a pound and the tax on cigaret papers and tubes increased from 2 cents to 5 cents a hundred.

The assessment put on smokers was estimated to yield $11,000,000 of the anticipated total.

The deficit for the year ending last March 31 was put at $118,000,000, which was the exact amount spent for war purposes during the period. Total revenues were $562,000,000, which represented an all-time Canadian high.

Rumanian Soldiers Clash with Russians, Hungary Hears

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 24 (AP).—Foreign military and diplomatic quarters were informed late tonight from Bucharest that Rumanian and Russian troops have clashed at several points along the Dniester river.



Arrow locates Bessarabia.

More than 100 planes of the Red air force were reported to have made reconnaissance flights over Bessarabia, Rumanian province formerly held by Russia.

Bessarabia was Russian territory for many years, but after the world war, when Russia became communistic, the territory voted thru representatives to join Rumania.

Russia never has recognized the validity of the transfer of sovereignty.

Tanks Reported Massed.

Reports that have been arriving here for some time told of large concentrations of Red army troops, tanks and airplanes along the Russian-Rumanian frontier.

Advices from Zagreb, Jugoslavia, stated that Italian troops have been arriving for three days at Scutari, near the Jugoslav-Albanian frontier, and that Scutari has been declared a military zone.

Foreign observers speculated whether there was any connection between the Russian and Italian moves. At any rate, this activity sharply awakened new concern over possible moves by the two powers to realize territorial ambitions in the Balkans.

Rumania Is Silent.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 24 (AP).—Rumanian officials tonight refused to confirm or deny reports reaching Budapest that Rumanian and Russian forces have had numerous clashes along the Dneister river.

Bulgaria Mobilizes Labor.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 24.—In an attempt to break a strike of four-fifths of the nation's tobacco workers, the government today put men and women in all industrial establishments under mobilization orders.

A decree explained that the move was forced upon the government when 50,000 workers in the tobacco industry, supported by textile and other laborers, stopped work.

The government feared a general strike was imminent. Communist provocateurs taking their orders from outside the country were said to be behind the strike, the aim being to show that the internal life of Bulgaria is unstable.

The government measure allows the mobilized men and women to receive the same salaries they were receiving June 15, and provides heavy penalties for infringements of its provisions.

Demands Britain Mass Army in Ulster to Stop Nazi Grab

LONDON, June 25, Tuesday (AP).—The News-Chronicle demanded today that the British government forestall possible German plans for invasion of Ireland by providing "sufficient" forces in northern Ireland. The newspaper, saying it was bad enough to have to explain why the Nazis got Norway first, declared it would tax ingenuity and patience "to the breaking point" if the government some day had to explain why the Germans had reached Ireland first.

RELIEFER FINED ON WIFE'S CHARGES.

William Judge, 46 years old, 3337 Ogden avenue, was fined $200 and costs for disorderly conduct yesterday by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green after Judge's wife testified that Judge, who has been on relief for seven years, frequently came home intoxicated and beat her and their five children.

DECLARES IRISH MUST NAME SIDE, BRITISH OR NAZIS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, June 24 (AP).—A member of the British house of commons, the Rev. James Little, asserted today it was only a matter of days until Ireland "would be compelled by the course of events to declare itself whether for Britain or Germany."

The moment Ireland declared for Britain, he said, Northern Ireland [Ulster] "must be ready for the duration of the war to clasp Ireland's outstretched hand."

The Rev. Mr. Little in his statement disclosed that "it was put up to me if it were not possible for the two Irelands to come together for the duration of the war and unite their forces against a common enemy." He said he replied he was "prepared to stand by any man who was willing to unite with me in defending the land of my faith and love against Nazi domination."

GUESS WHERE THE STUDEBAKERS "GAS"!

These snappy performers are seen more often at the Standard pumps than at any other! When an independent research organization asked 1401 Studebaker owners "What gasoline did you purchase last time?", 348 of them named Standard, while the closest competitor was mentioned by only 141.

REPUBLICANS FOR PEACE.

More important even than the choice of the candidate at this Republican convention will be the writing of the platform; and by all odds the most important planks in the platform will be those dealing with the foreign relations of the United States. That is why this year the delegates at Philadelphia are giving quite as much attention to measures as to men.

Under Mr. Roosevelt this country has been heading toward war. If there were any doubt about his purposes, that doubt has been removed by his latest appointments to the cabinet of two men who have stood for intervention, and whose selection can be attributed only to the fact that they have been Republicans and are interventionists.

Mr. Roosevelt may have deluded easily deluded persons with the notion that he can pursue his present course without getting into the war but he hasn't fooled any one else. Given a victory at the polls in November, he can be expected to throw off all concealment. The fact that he hasn't said in so many words that he favors war is scarcely important. President Wilson ran for reëlection by promising to keep the country out of war, with results which are familiar. Mr. Roosevelt was an ardent Wilsonian and a member of Mr. Wilson's inner circle. Mr. Roosevelt himself went thru the 1936 campaign without intimating that he was in favor of packing the Supreme court. If he had been candid about it he would have been defeated by an alarmed country. Almost as soon as he had been reëlected he demanded the packing of the court. Congress balked him there but this time he doesn't have to depend wholly on congressional approval; if he can't carry congress with him he still may goad Germany and Japan to declare war upon us. He has already provided grounds for war by the sale of the army's guns and the navy's ships in direct violation not only of our own statutes but of international law.

That is the situation as it confronts the Republican convention. The Republican party and only the Republican party can spare this country the loss of life, and the social, economic, and political devastation of war.

Some people take a fatalistic attitude toward the conflict in Europe and have assumed that nothing we may do can keep us out. The Philadelphia convention has it in its power to give these people and all Americans new hope and confidence. The people need not be helpless victims of circumstance. They can control their destiny. If the Republican platform takes a stand definitely against intervention, an opportunity will have been given to the people to express their will. If they want to stay out of the war, they will have their chance to say so and to elect men to office who will make it stick.

The sentiment in this country is overwhelmingly against participation. If the Republicans have the courage and the sound political sense to declare unequivocally against intervention, they will start the campaign with a tremendous advantage. The Democratic strategists thought they had made a shrewd move when they postponed their convention until mid-July. In fact, they have played into the hands of the Republicans. The better part of a month must elapse before Mr. Roosevelt's party can write a platform. Even if Mr. Roosevelt lets his followers take a stand against intervention the country will have had weeks in which to remember, to observe, and to reflect. The Democratic conversion to peace will be seen as a deperate last minute effort to get right with the voters and its sincerity will be questioned. The Republican peace plank will be the real thing and the Democratic a dishonest imitation.

America need not be dragged into the ghastly catastrophe in Europe. America need not make the mistake of sending its young men, unprepared, into the fighting. We can stay out of the war provided the Philadelphia convention seizes the opportunity which lies before it.

HYPOCRISY THAT FAILED.

Considering that the boys in the back room were running it, it is surprising that the Democratic state convention at Springfield was not better rehearsed. The convention could not avoid hypocrisy, but if the various speakers and the platform builders had compared notes in advance the hypocrisy might have been less blatant.

Here was a convention packed with Democratic placeholders, including the Illinois senators and congressmen who have been backing President Roosevelt's every warlike move with their votes. By what words could such men convince the voters that the Democratic party is not, as the Illinois Republicans have charged, the party of internationalism and war?

The convention put in its platform the declaration that it does not favor sending American boys to fight on European soil. How much faith can be put in such a declaration, coming as it did from the same assembly that applauded references to the President's inclusion in his cabinet of the two leading ex-Republican war mongers?

Senator Lucas and his colleague, Strongbox Slattery, could in particular have done with a little more rehearsing. Senator Lucas said that he would not vote to send Americans to fight in Europe. Senator Slattery, in a plea to racial groups, charged that the Republicans were cold to the agony of their kindred abroad. What solace can Senator Slattery offer these groups, aside from the chance to be drafted to fight abroad? Senator Lucas said he would not vote for such a measure, but both he and Slattery have voted for all of President Roosevelt's measures that lead logically to intervention. Are voters to believe their words, which conflict, or their votes, which tell a clear story?

The convention called for a third term for President Roosevelt. Such action was to be expected of an assemblage of jobholders and coattail riders. They are not free agents. They have to put over a third term or go back to work.

But by their indorsement of the third term the Democrats nullified any disclaimer they may offer to the title of war party. This country knows where President Roosevelt stands. It is on the road to war. It also knows, since 1933, how lightly he regards the pledges of his party platform. With such a candidate, platforms are meaningless.

THE REUNION IN COMPIEGNE.

Even a lesser dramatist than Herr Hitler would have conducted the armistice proceedings with the French in the reminiscent detail with which the Nazi leader staged the proceedings at Compiegne. The return to Compiegne symbolized to the ruler of Germany and of nearly all of continental Europe the causes which had created him. It also proclaimed the triumph of a career constructed from the forces set in motion in 1918 on that spot.

Herr Hitler is the creation of other peoples' mistakes. The scene in the forest where the terms of Nazi Germany were stated to defeated France illustrated how people may be brought to destruction by the lack of wisdom in their rulers. The folly which can be embodied in government is incredible even when the consequences of it are laid bare. The transition from the France which dictated armistice terms to Germany in 1918 to the France which accepted dictation in June, 1940, is a dive from the top to the bottom in circumstances for which no defensible explanations appear.

Apparently all the governments which undertook to oppose the spread of Naziism over the continent well deceived themselves as to the nature of the problems before them. Altho they had access to the facts and could have been informed, they apparently lived in an atmosphere of complete illusion and not only endeavored to keep their peoples in an inviolably confident state of mind but chose to delude themselves until it was too late to save anything.

Mr. Chamberlain justified the proceedings at Munich by the intimation that the crisis Hitler had precipitated found his chief opponents unprepared to resist him. Mr. Chamberlain chose peace at that time, not because the price to be paid was a small one but because the price of a war would be worse. He has been much condemned for this, but the censure, it would now seem, should be attached not so much to the acts he indorsed at Munich as to the subsequent acts of the various governments which, being given time for deliberation, for decision, and for precautions, did not make use of that grant of time either to decide wisely or to prepare well.

The world certainly has had opportunity and good reason to learn within the last few years that governments are not endowed with wisdom and, indeed, are remarkable if they demonstrate that they are moved by good intentions. Continental Europe today is a monument dedicated to the work of evil men, of foolish men, and of men incompetent to guide the destinies of the people who had to trust them.

The plight of France under the terms of the armistice is not easily comprehended. The prostration has been too rapid, its consequences too staggering, and the future too ominous to permit a full perception of it. With the collapse of the French resistance such neutral nations as Rumania and Jugo-Slavia and other now frantic countries have made haste to throw themselves into the German sphere. Nearly all of Europe is a Nazi domain. The effect upon the future of the world economically, politically, and socially is incalculable and it would seem to be beyond reasonable hope to contemplate any development of human good in any short view. Great movements as they affect world populations are not always of unadulterated or unmodified evil, but the savagery of idea in the new reorganization of Europe gives faint hope that there is an ultimate good in the dominance of the Nazi idea.

The future development of the war, with France occupied and disarmed, evades even the imagination. What does become clear is that the United States—insofar as it has kept the peace—has thus far pursued the only course which was open to it.

Editorial of the Day

WHY ROOSEVELT WON'T DO.

[Logan (Ia.) Observer.]

President Roosevelt is not qualified to lead the nation in war or in preparations for a possible war, because:

He is temperamentally unfitted for such responsibility.

He is incapable of delegating authority or sharing credit.

He places in position of command anonymous theorists, accountable only to the executive.

He has no respect for campaign promises or party pledges.

He has brought the nation to the brink of bankruptcy thru mismanagement of federal finances.

He is responsible for paralyzing private investment.

He has instituted burocratic control of business that has prevented industrial recovery and reëmployment.

He has distributed billions in subsidies in vain attempts to circumvent natural economic laws.

He has created destructive class antagonisms thru general indictments for crimes of the few.

He has more than doubled the cost of government.

He has more than doubled the public debt.

He has established a chronic budget deficit of nearly four billion dollars.

He has expended seven billion dollars for national defense and the nation is almost wholly unprepared.

He now proposes with the expenditure of a few more billions to make the nation secure.

He must be fully aware that the sum asked for defense is but a drop in the bucket; many billions will be required if the army and navy are to be thoroly equipped.

He conceals the fact, but must assuredly know, that he is heading the nation into a federal budget of 15 billion dollars or more.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

MENAGERIE OF POLITICS.

The Republican elephant and the Democratic donkey are symbols which originated in the political cartoons of Thomas Nast. He also added the Tammany tiger to the menagerie.

* * *

The donkey was born in a cartoon in Harper's Weekly, Jan. 15, 1870. This drawing depicted Edwin M. Stanton, the Republican statesman who had died a few weeks before, as a dead lion over which a donkey labeled "Copperhead Papers" was brandishing its heels. The caption was, "A live jackass kicking a dead lion! And such a lion! And such a jackass!" Thereafter Nast used this donkey as a symbol for the Democratic party.

* * *

The elephant made his début four years later. [Note that the elephant is an old symbol, of oriental origin, for temperance, good luck, wisdom, eternity, and sovereignty.] On Nov. 7, 1874, Harper's Weekly published a cartoon by Nast in which numerous animals, representing various states, newspapers, and political issues, were being frightened by a donkey in a lion's skin, labeled "Cæsarism." An elephant, called "Republican Vote," was running toward a pitfall covered with deceptive planks. . . . In this cartoon the Democratic party was not represented by the disguised donkey, but by a fox with the face of Samuel J. Tilden, candidate for President.

* * *

The rooster, nonsatirical symbol of the Democratic party, came upon the political scene much earlier. It may have been adapted from the Gallic cock, but credit for its origin is usually attributed, in a long-winded story, to George Pattison, editor of the Indianapolis Constitution.

On June 12, 1840, he wrote a letter which contained the expressions, "See Chapman . . . he must crow . . . we have much to crow over." This was satirized by an opposition newspaper. The Democrats of Indiana took up the crowing theme, and when the Indiana State Sentinel, a Democratic paper, was launched in Indianapolis on July 21, 1841, its front page carried a large cut of a rooster, and the slogan, "Crow, Chapman, Crow."

AGAINST THE NIGHT.

The coastwise lights are darkened now, and night
Falls unrelieved upon the lovely land,
But over England now the stars burn bright,
And steady at their posts the watches stand.

O land of Shakespeare; land of Chaucer's gay
And pious pilgrims; land where free men bought
All free men's rights upon a splendid day
Past seven hundred years ago, and wrought

That charter that should pledge their liberty
To live, and breathe free air, to dream their dreams,
Build shining towers to soar divinely free
Above their cities, towns, and woods and streams.

O little land so distant and so dear
Whose songs have been our blessing and our prayer,
We watch with you, our hearts are very near;
Against the night of terror we declare

Your faith invincible, your courage high,
Your pride refined by the inevitable flame;
We know that day must dawn, the night pass by,
And bring you victory in Freedom's name.

For the Archives of the "Bureau."

Newcomer's article [June 18] regarding the City News bureau awakens memories. The first local news bureau, then known as the City Press association, was owned by Wright & Russell prior to 1889. The undersigned "covered" west side police; I. J. Bryan, afterward Board of Trade editor for THE TRIBUNE, handled north side police; Charlie Almy, later editor of the Daily Globe, covered central police; Harry Saylor, city hall, and Archie Leckie, the courts. It was in 1890 that Victor Lawson organized the present City News bureau to serve all the dailies, and the old staff were retained in their jobs, with Saylor and Leckie in charge as managers. H. D. [One of the old bosses, either Saylor or Leckie, was an expert on pirate lore, and had the biggest library of buccaneer literature and history in the middle west.]

Last Word on "Juke Box."

To clear up the mystery of the origin of the term "juke box": The old fashioned music boxes and other tinkle-tinkle novelties such as candy boxes, powder boxes, etc., were manufactured by Julius Juke & Söhne of Switzerland. I found the name of this firm on an old music box in Savannah.

HORMONES AND SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

AMONG women about the most annoying cosmetic blemish is superfluous hair. Looked upon as somewhat of a masculine characteristic, no damsel relishes the development of sideburns or dark bristles on the upper lip or the chin. While electrolysis has been found to be the best method of removal—destroying each individual root—the suggestion has been offered that help may be obtained thru certain glandular secretions [hormones], the use of which is designed to bring about a normal balance of these essential chemicals.

Investigators in this field have been experimenting—particularly with estrone by injection or by administration in ointments which are absorbed via the skin. In other words, an attempt has been made to supply ovarian products in order to neutralize the possible effects of adrenal glands that are too industrious. In addition, other means [emmenin by mouth] have been employed to stimulate the output of the ovaries.

Several recent cases reported by Dorff point the way to what may become a useful plan of treatment. One patient, aged 23, who was substantially overweight, was placed on a reducing diet with generous hormone medication. Within two months the face was smooth and—in addition—sizable regions on the back of each thigh were completely free. The girl was in buoyant spirits, more energetic, and felt immeasurably better. How much of this was due to the decrease in poundage cannot be stated positively.

Still another victim, 17 years of age, showed extensive downy areas on cheeks, upper lips, forearms, and legs. Of normal weight, she would gain rapidly if she ate what every one else did. Careful attention, therefore, to her calories kept her within average range. Here the ointment was tried first. With no improvement, injections were resorted to for a brief period. Subsequent to stopping all treatment, hair on the cheeks began to thin out. About this time pituitary extract and thyroid gland substance were substituted and—within a month—the fuzz could be loosened without difficulty. The effect, however, was not permanent, altho the new crop was plucked easily and did not require tweezing. There was a marked accentuation of normal feminine contours.

A 22 year old young lady who complained of excess fat, mental sluggishness, and hairiness stated that her mother and sister displayed these same manifestations—but not so extensively. First of all, a dietary régime was instituted—with much benefit. After three months of glandular therapy the hairs—as she put it, "seemed to fall out." She lowered her weight by 27 pounds, felt better, and her figure became more attractive. The growth that reappeared following the stoppage of the injections was not as coarse and could be taken off with the fingers.

We may assume that obesity is an important factor and—in those who present this condition—the hormone plus a slimming program apparently offers some relief. Estrone by the ointment route alone was not effective, altho when emmenin was prescribed for the purpose of stimulating the ovaries the decrease in the "plumage" was more rapid.

It may be that the basic fault lies in overactivity of the outer cells of the adrenal glands. When this is coupled with a lessening in the secretion from the ovaries the tendency is for the girl to exhibit some male traits. We may conclude that hair plays a significant diagnostic rôle in the recognition of an out of balance glandular system.

All in all Dorff cited eight cases with similar findings in each. While we cannot hold out the promise that the hirsute excess will abate, nevertheless, it is clear that regrowth was dislodged with ease.

Attention should be called to the fact that these examples were all young women. We can rely upon the electric needle for those who are older—not quite so likely to respond to these special gland compounds.

HEART SURGERY.

B. K. writes: Can one be operated for coronary thrombosis?

REPLY.

A surgical remedy thus far has not been developed. Thrombi [clots], however, may be removed easily from some of the large vessels—for example, the femoral in the thigh.

REMOVING BIRTHMARK.

E. L. writes: Is it possible to have a birthmark on the arm removed?

REPLY.

A skilled surgeon can aid you. If the area is extensive a skin graft may be required. Small lesions will yield to other methods.

CLUBFOOT.

L. K. writes: Is it possible for clubfoot to be corrected at the age of 29?

REPLY.

A difficult procedure but the outlook is hopeful when a skilled orthopedic surgeon is in charge.

MELANCHOLIA.

S. P. writes: Is melancholia a definite form of insanity or merely an emotional instability?

REPLY.

The latter strictly.

PAY OF SOLDIERS AND CCC.

Geneva, Ill., June 20.—I call to your attention the possibility of more rapid recruiting for the army if privates in the army were paid an amount equal to that paid to the CCC boys.

The CCC boys get $30 a month, of which, of course, a portion is sent directly to their families, while a private in the army receives only $22 a month, with the privilege of making an allotment to his family or not, as he may determine.

However, the fact remains that there is no justification for paying a CCC boy $30 a month and a private only $22. If this discrepancy were rectified it is my opinion [confirmed by several army officers] that recruiting for the regular army as well as the National Guard would increase. C. M. BURGESS.

PARK YOUR CAR, SIR?

Chicago, June 21.—There is a new racket in the vicinity of Berwyn avenue and Sheridan road, which is very annoying. When there is anything special going on at the Edgewater Beach hotel three or four fellows stop every car passing and yell "parking here." They keep that up until after 11 p. m. and charge people a quarter or 35 cents for parking in front of the houses, in the alley and on the curb. The other night the parking space on the corner was practically empty but these fellows would stop the cars and get them to park in the street.

Am wondering why they are allowed to do that, charge for street and alley parking, thus filling up the alley, which should be left open, in case of fire, etc.

There are two convalescent homes on the corner and they park on their curb, back of them, and all over the street.

C. E.

AS HE DARN PLEASES.

Chicago, June 20.—Churchill in his latest speech tells the British people how well they will be able to withstand invasion from Germany and Italy. He talks like a man that has guts. England has only 45 million people and is situated only a few miles from the enemy.

Our war mongers would have us—a nation of 130 million or three times the population of England—believe that if England loses the war we will be unable to defend ourselves against Hitler and Mussolini! And we are 3,000 miles from the enemy. Such talk! "Government of the people, by the people," phooey! Roosevelt is doing as he darn pleases. He is not respecting the wishes of the American people. We should impeach him and the war mongering congressmen. J. K.

DON QUIXOTE PREPARED.

Chicago, June 21.—Many years ago I read a story of an old Spaniard who in his dotage conceived the idea that he was destined to correct the evils of the world. He got out the old armor and shined it the best he could. He sharpened up the spear, tried to reduce Sancho Panza's waistline, and hang some fat on Rozinante's bones so that he could tell whether the rattle was in the chassis or the body. In other words, he knew the foes he had to fight were real and he made all the preparation he could. He didn't go out to start a blitzkrieg against the windmills with nothing to back him up but a college education. J. G. L.

BICYCLE STEALING.

Chicago, June 17.—Cannot something be done to arouse public indignation against bicycle thieves?

My boy of 15 needs a bicycle in order to earn a little money so he can continue in school. I am a widow and earn only enough to keep us off relief, yet we have had two bicycles stolen. They were bought by working hard selling newspapers.

The police apparently are quite unable or unwilling to do anything in the matter. We are unable to obtain another machine. If any reader has an old used bicycle to discard it will mean my boy keeping his job. I. O.

THE JOBHOLDERS MIGHT OBJECT.

Chicago, June 20.—Now that the old age pension act permits an increase to $40 a month for old people who, employers say, are no longer qualified to earn a living, the administrator of the act announces that the law will not materially increase the amount of the average pension, which is about $20 a month. The only exception, he says, will be in the case of individuals who "actually need more."

Since the said administrator draws out of the fund a salary of more than 25 times $20 a month, it would seem that if he has any sense of humor he may laugh himself to death.

Why can't a rule be adopted limiting the pay of people employed at this work to the average amount paid out for old age assistance, plus, say, $20 a month? And further, if only qualified pensioners were employed in all assistance departments the cost of administration might be enough less than at present to enable the state to pay pensioners $40 a month whether they "need" it or not, with very little increase in taxation. The same idea could be employed in the relief work. Careful investigation will reveal that enough people qualified to do the required work can be found among those receiving assistance. Why not give them a chance to earn better living conditions since they are the ones for whom the setup was created? OBSERVER.

TOO MUCH TAXICAB RULE.

Chicago, June 18.—Could some one tell me by what right—divine or aldermanic—the taxicab gentry have preëmpted traffic lanes on the north, east, and south sides of Field's?

I'm aware that they're at work making an honest living, and that, to that end, it's wise to be where fares are most likely to be found. However, it seems to me that this does not give them the right to take command, to wave other drivers on or to wave them back, to block other traffic away from the entrances, to barely move or to not move at all and complacently snarl up and confuse traffic on what are bad streets at best. E. D. W.

THE VOICE OF THE FARMER.

Rushville, Ill., June 13.—It is the utmost desire of the American farmer that we mind our own business and cease meddling in the affairs of Europe. Our experience in the last war should be a splendid lesson to let those debt defaulters alone. They have no interest in America, only as a source to secure credit which they seemingly never expect to repay.

We farmers believe this country should develop a strong military machine for the defense of continental United States, and its possessions only, and should be alert against any "fifth column" activities operating in our midst.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 25, 1798

First of the alien and sedition acts adopted. The first act raised from 5 to 14 the number of years of residence required for naturalization. Subsequent acts gave the President power to arrest any alien whom he considered dangerous to the country. As many anti-Federalist leaders and editors were not naturalized, it was regarded as a political move and caused widespread unpopularity of both President Adams and the Federalist party.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Riverside, Ill., June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been married to my husband two years. I was a widow and he a widower. We have a small country place of five acres valued at about $9,000, with a $2,700 mortgage on it. My husband has no children—only one sister living.

Our property has a title guarantee policy with [1] a joint tenancy deed still in his and his first wife's name.

2. What would be the procedure, also cost, of dropping his first wife's name and adding mine?

3. Is this necessary?

4. If this change has not taken place before his death what difficulty and expense would I have? In his will I am given everything and also made executrix. How soon after my husband's death could the property be sold? K. E.

1. He would have a good title as surviving joint tenant. No probate would be necessary.

2. He should convey to a third party and the third party should reconvey to the two of you, using the joint tenancy deed.

3. Depends on the sense in which you are using the word.

4. In such case, probate would be necessary in order to give you clear title.

VALIDITY OF GIFT.

Chicago, June 13 [Legal Friend of the People].—My husband gave me a bond before he died, telling me it was for me so I would not be left without any money. After he died his will revealed that he had left all his property [which only consists of our small home] to me for my use and benefit as long as I live and what remains to go to his three grandchildren. The will says the home can be sold, but I have been informed that I myself cannot sell it, altho the will does not say this. The administrator can only sell it by first receiving an order from the court.

The administrator took this bond from me, and I would like to know if it is right, since my husband gave it to me before his death for him [the administrator] to file this bond with the probate.

A. K.

If you can prove the facts as to the gift, then we see no necessity for the bond to be included in the estate, but if the point should be contested, your own evidence would not be admissible and unless you have outside witnesses you might be unable to prove the gift. In general, creditors are allowed nine months in which to file their claims, and you should not expect to sell the home and appropriate the proceeds until that period has expired.

CHICAGO HAS BIG FIFTH COLUMN, SAYS REP. DIES

But 'WeHaveThemScared to Death,' He Adds.

Representative Martin Dies.

Congressman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities, asserted last night that Chicago has a serious fifth column problem.

He made the remark at the Blackstone hotel after an afternoon spent questioning four witnesses. Today, before leaving for Austin, Tex., he will question six more. He refused to reveal the names of the witnesses or where the examinations are being held.

The congressman's investigation yesterday was made between addresses in the forenoon before the Independent Bakers of America at the Edgewater Beach hotel and in the evening before an American Legion group in Elmhurst. In both talks he warned of fifth column dangers.

Many Under Scrutiny.

Concerning his investigations in Chicago Congressman Dies said that 10 organizations in particular and a great number of individuals are under scrutiny. He declined to identify them by group or otherwise.

"Some of these organizations are, we believe, connected with foreign governments," he said. "We think we have pretty good information on those representing the fifth column in Chicago.

"We have them pretty well spotted. Make no mistake about it. Chicago has a very serious problem, but one which can be handled.

"We have found tremendous activity in the spreading of Nazi, Fascist, and communist doctrines. There are foreign agents here, and they have been here a long time on account of the importance of Chicago as an industrial center."

Agents Busy Here.

Congressman Dies said that his committee has "more agents and informants working in Chicago" than the public realizes. Among the agents and informants, he mentioned, are members of some of the very organizations under investigation.

"As a result," the congressman added, "we know what is going on at every meeting. From some meetings we get the entire minutes as well as the names of the speakers and what they talked about. We are getting information all the time. We have them scared to death. The organizations don't know who among them are giving us the reports."

Safety Thru Secrecy.

Congressman Dies said that his investigations in Chicago have been going on for two years, and that only a little of the testimony obtained has been disclosed. This is a matter of safety, he said. The committee is working, he added, to prevent possible sabotage and illegal strikes.

Public hearings will be held in Chicago some time, he said. He could not say when. The hearings will last several weeks. More than 100 witnesses will be called.

Confirms A. C. A. Activities.

Congressman Dies confirmed reports of possible fifth column activities in the American Communications association, as indicated in a story from New York. [See column 7, this page.] The organization is an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, headed by John L. Lewis.

The A. C. A. is an "all Lewis" group, said Dies, and communists are "entrenched in its leadership." Dies pointed to testimony before his committee which related that A. C. A. operators on 150 ships "would have an easy task sending messages to Moscow or Berlin."

TAVERN OWNER SUES 7 FOR LOSS OF HIS LICENSE

Suit for $100,000 charging slander and libel was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Albert Ostro, owner of a tavern at 4235 Cottage Grove avenue, against Miss Jessie Binford, head of the Juvenile Protective association; Newton J. Farr, an executive of the Chicago Title and Trust company and head of the Oakland Business Men's association; Boydston Brothers, Inc., undertakers at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue, and four other persons.

Ostro asserted that last Oct. 31 the defendants filed a complaint charging him with infractions of the liquor law which resulted in revocation of his license by Mayor Kelly. On appeal to the license appeal commission, however, the license was reinstated. Ostro charged that the group conspired to bring false accusations against him.

A 200 pound St. Bernard dog which had gobbled half a case of dog food since Gresham police gave it shelter Saturday was returned, with considerable pleasure, to its owner by the police yesterday. The owner, Chen Fong, who operates a restaurant at 1034 West 95th street, said the dog comes in handy at the restaurant because it eats all the scraps.

REDS MAKE NEW LIST OF DEMANDS ON BALTIC LANDS

ImproveRelations with Soviet, Latvia Told.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 24.—The communist parties of the Baltic states, whose founders and early leaders were shot in the basement execution chambers of the Moscow G. P. U. [secret police] or are in soviet prison camps, today have new leaders who are presenting demands to the new Baltic governments which were sanctioned by soviet officials sent to them from Moscow.

The Latvian communist party whose membership a fortnight ago could be counted in tens and whose present membership is undisclosed today had its demands broadcast over the Latvian radio.

Demand New Election.

The chief points in its manifesto follow:

1. The Latvian government should establish more friendly and intimate relations with Russia.
2. Elect a new Latvian parliament by a free and secret election.
3. Owners of small farms and properties and homes should not be molested and should receive state assistance where necessary.
4. Place large factories and farms under state control [to a great extent this already has been done by the Latvian cabinet].
5. Disarm and prohibit the Latvian home guard organization and organize in its place an unspecified form of militia.
6. Bar unspecified traitors from voting.
7. Legalize the communist party.

Urge New Arrests.

The communists urged the arrest and punishment of persons spreading rumors about an imminent war between Russia and Germany and general mobilization in Latvia.

Kaunas, Lithuania, had its third communist demonstration in 14 years today when Red marchers pledged their loyalty to the new government. Demonstrations also were held in Tallinn, Estonia, and other smaller Baltic towns.

The Moscow radio made lengthy reports of these manifestations in a news broadcast tonight, commenting warmly upon the welcome given to the Red army at the towns occupied in the Baltic.

HEAR JAPS PLAN TO SEIZE DUTCH, FRENCH LANDS

'Protectorate' Move Seen by Tokio Sources.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, June 25, Tuesday (AP).—Japanese warships were dispatched to Haiphong, French Indo-China port, today to "observe the movements" of vessels suspected of carrying munitions and supplies to China, the admiralty announced.

TOKIO, June 25, Tuesday (AP).—Informed sources said today that the Japanese government may attempt to declare a "protectorate" over French and Netherlands territories in the orient.

Such a move, it was said, probably would follow discussions with Germany and Italy as to the future of such holdings of defeated European powers.

Responsible Japanese sources expressed concern at the chance the far eastern colonies of France and the Netherlands might pass into the hands of the victors in the European war. It was felt such a situation would be advantageous to Japan.

Authoritative quarters said the French colonial army in Indo-China is composed largely of natives and probably would retreat to the interior if attacked. Such direct action was not believed likely in view of the granting of Japanese demands thus far. Six French destroyers, a cruiser, and mine layers are reported on their way to bolster Indo-China's defenses.

New Demands on Britain.

Further evidence of a Japanese "strong hand" policy toward British-French possessions in the far east was seen in demands that Japanese inspectors be in Burma to check the arms traffic and that Hongkong trade with China be halted.

Immediately the Japanese backed up their demands with armed forces to block arms shipments. They reported uncontested landings by their naval forces at several key positions along the Pearl [Canton] river.

The demands, according to a neutral source, who said they had been communicated to the British, include:

1. Stationing of Japanese inspectors in Burma to enforce a ban on arms traffic to China.
2. Termination of trade between the British crown colony of Hongkong and the Chinese hinterland.
3. Withdrawal of British interests, including military forces, from the Shanghai international settlement.

Britain May Compromise.

Neutral diplomatic circles predicted Britain would reject the demands, but attempt to reach a compromise.

The way for immediate organization of a national party, a new political organization that may embrace all existing parties, was believed cleared by the resignation of Prince Fumimaro Konoye, former premier, as president of the privy council.

Chinese Plan Fight.

CHUNGKING, China, Tuesday, (AP).—Reliable Chinese quarters said today that Chinese preparations have been completed to oppose any Japanese military aggression in Indo-China as a result of the fall of France.

The foreign office announced that two strong protests have been lodged with the French government, demanding reopening of trade routes thru Indo-China, which have been closed as a result of Japanese pressure.

Nazis Take Port Facilities That Reparations Bought

Washington, D. C., June 24 (AP).—Many of the modern facilities in the French ports which Germany is taking over were provided by Germany herself. The National Geographic society reported today that "German reparations from the last war supplied, for example, floating cranes to Dunkirk, a dredger to Nantes, floating docks to Bordeaux and Le Havre."

Soviet and Jugo-Slavia Resume Normal Relations

MOSCOW, June 24 (AP).—The soviet government, following favorable conclusion of economic negotiations, resumed normal diplomatic relations today with Jugo-Slavia. It announced Victor Plotnikov as minister to Jugo-Slavia. Milan Gavrilovich is the new Jugo-Slav minister to Russia.

FOOD SURVEYED BY SWISS; SEE NO CRISIS UNTIL '42

May Restrict Cheese, Use Cows for Beef.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, June 24.—With the war in France ending tomorrow, Switzerland is turning attention to her economic problems.

This year's crops and the stocks of bread stores on hand will last more than a year, said a report issued today by the Farmers' association.

"Even in the worst circumstances, some imports will be possible and real want cannot be felt before 1942," the report said. "By then, it is hoped, new communications with world markets will be opened. Stocks and domestic production of forage probably will enable us to have enough fresh milk.

"The importation of a sufficient quantity of raw materials, especially tropic oils and oilseeds for the manufacture of cooking fats, hardly will be possible. Stocks on hand, however, will help us to hold out.

Use of Cheese to Be Cut.

"The production of butter instead of cheese is not contemplated. Consumption of cheese may have to be restricted somewhat so that we can export it in exchange for commodities which we have to import, coal in particular. Restricted consumption of cheese will be all the more bearable since a reduction in the number of cattle will mean excess meat. Meat will be put in cold storage or canned.

"Sufficient lard is estimated to have been produced. This year's potato crop will exceed our needs and excess production will be used for hogs.

"It is probable there will be plenty of fruit next fall. There will be enough apples for domestic consumption and the manufacture of cider, as well as for exportation. The demand for cider will be greater since the importation of malt from Germany and Bohemia for the beer factories is uncertain. No difficulties are expected for the transportation of wine.

Rely on Nazis for Sugar.

"Vegetables are grown in Switzerland and there will be no obstacle to their importation. Our supplies of sugar will have to come mainly from Germany and Bohemia.

"We hope that certain quantities of coffee, tea and other products can be imported. Further rationing of imported articles is anticipated. Importation of corn from the east will not be entirely stopped. Finally, we may say that Swiss agriculture is able to supply the majority of the country's supplies of food."

The press reports Italy and Switzerland have made a trade agreement providing for a considerable increase in imports and exports. Italy will export more vegetables, fruits, silk, rayon, sulphur, oils, and some industrial products, while Switzerland will export more industrial machinery which is especially needed in Italy now.

Form Trade Committee.

A permanent joint committee will be created to settle any trade difficulty.

Railroad service between Basel and Germany is expected to be resumed this week. Hundreds of workmen ar repairing the right-of-way which was destroyed by French bombardment.

Approximately 50,000 French, 18,000 Polish and 2,000 Czech soldiers have crossed into Switzerland. Their equipment includes 200 tanks and 156 heavy guns, which the Swiss government may hold until the refugee army's board bill is paid.

SHANGHAI DEFENSE SECTOR SURRENDERED TO JAPS BY FRENCH

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York News.]

SHANGHAI, June 24. — French authorities, without consulting Britons and Americans, turned over to the Japanese today a part of the defense sector of the International settlement and French concession. They gave up the so called Siccawei sector, adjoining the French concession, to the Japanese and to representatives of Wang Ching-Wei, Japan's puppet representative at Nanking.

British and American authorities expressed shock at the action. This area is considered an essential point in the defense of the foreign concessions at Shanghai and has been occupied by the French since August, 1937.

The French were obliged, under an agreement with the other powers, not to change the status quo without consultation with other defense forces.

RACINE PICKETS BATTLE POLICE; 7 ARE ARRESTED

Second Violent Outburst at Radiator Plant.

Racine, Wis., June 24 [Special].—Seven pickets at the strikebound Young Radiator company late today were arrested following a battle between 12 police officers and 35 pickets.

The seven men were taken to the office of District Attorney Richard G. Harvey Jr., where he warned them that charges of unlawful assembly would be pressed against them if there was any recurrence of violence on the picket lines.

Today's police battle was the second since the strike started June 3. Three labor leaders were arrested last week when they attempted to keep police from opening a way thru the picket lines. Charges against them have been held in abeyance pending a possible settlement of the labor controversy.

Disobey Prosecutor's Order.

The district attorney warned the pickets that any one who wishes to must be permitted to pass thru the picket lines, whether it be a workman, foreman, office clerk, or company executive.

Today's violence occurred when foremen attempted to enter the plant. Pickets resisted and a call was put in for police. Twelve policemen responded under the direction of Lieut. Earl Olson, acting police chief. One officer was knocked down. The uniforms of others were torn as they battled to open the entrance.

Three times the police rushed the pickets, and three times they succeeded in opening the door temporarily. Finally the foremen told police and pickets they would not enter if there was to be recurring violence.

Seven Are Arrested.

It was during the fracas that the seven were arrested. None of them attempted to resist arrest. Altho several suffered minor abrasions and bruises, no one in the battle required hospitalization.

The union is demanding a week's vacation with pay; the right to preview cases in which a worker is to be disciplined or discharged; a change in the seniority clause, and a conference with the company in regard to assigning work to other plants.

Negotiations were arranged twice by Mayor T. Gleason Morris, but were broken off each time when neither side would give in.

The company has contracts for naval equipment in the national defense program totaling $89,000.

MRS. TEGTMEYER FACES RETURN TO COUNTY JAIL

Daisy Tegtmeyer, long known as the forgotten woman of the county jail, faced a possible return to her cell yesterday. The Appellate court again affirmed a contempt order entered June 12, 1933, committing her to jail indefinitely for failure to explain what she had done with a $32,000 trust fund of which she had been trustee.

The court ruled that Mrs. Tegtmeyer has been confined to jail because she defied the court in refusing to answer questions concerning the fund. She has been at liberty on $1,000 bond since Oct. 23 pending the appeal. Prior to that date, with the exception of 10 months' liberty during a previous appeal in 1938, she had been in the county jail continuously since Jan. 14, 1934.

Her attorney, Charles Liebman, was given 10 days in which to ask a rehearing before the mandate is issued which will return her to jail.

C. I. O. Radio Strike Stirs Fears of Fifth Columnists

New York, June 24 [Special].—The American Communications association, affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, staged a picketing demonstration today outside the offices of the Radio Communications Corporation of America. A dispute between the union and the company has been going on since last Thursday.

According to the union, an organization that might conceivably have the power to upset communications vital to the national defense, 800 RCA employés in New York and 100 in San Francisco have been locked out. The company denies this and described the situation as a strike.

Today the trouble spread to Hawaii, where five radio operators walked off their jobs. Some saw in this evidence of how fifth columnists might be able to disrupt vital communications between the United States and its insular possessions and also with South America and Europe.

Link in C. I. O. Port Control.

The American Communications association is one of the links in what many see as John L. Lewis' C. I. O. control of the great port of New York. Radio telegraphers aboard ships and in the offices of communications companies make up its membership which is stated to be more than 150,000. Wireless operators on all American merchant ships belong to the C. I. O.

Company spokesmen have asserted that the transmission of all government messages between Europe and the United States is proceeding without delay because of the recruiting of a substitute force. They added, however, that the importance given to transoceanic communication because of the European war made the action of the C. I. O. operators reprehensible.

The union has claimed that the tieup of service has been 98 per cent effective at times, and RCA admitted that nongovernment service has been impeded.

President Labeled Communist.

Mervyn Rathborne, president of the A. C. A., has been labeled a communist on many occasions. Last April Fred Howe, an ousted A. C. A. official, testified before the Dies committee that Rathborne was a communist. He charged that in 1935 Rathborne and the communists "made a deal" and that Rathborne subsequently became president of the A. C. A.

Howe also told the committee that radio operators on American ships include 150 communists. He said that in the event of war these operators would help their party to set up a soviet system here.

He also pointed out the possibility of radio operators revealing the position of United States warcraft, and he added that the communists in Russia could send messages to party workers in the United States thru communist radio operators.

The C. I. O. controls the National Maritime union on whose leader, Joseph P. Curran, has been pinned the Red label. This organziation controls the personnel of the American merchant marine on the eastern seaboard.

Harry Bridges, the west coast radical, target of a congressional deportation bill, has been in New York attempting to organize the warehousemen, who now are affiliated with the A. F. of L. They form the only union holding out against C. I. O. domination of the waterfront. Lewis himself is said to be directing the drive to place all New York shipping under C. I. O. domination.

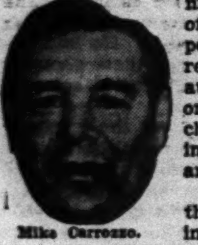
MIKE CARROZZO AND 9 INDICTED IN TRUST PROBE

Conspiracy in Concrete Work Is Charged.



Mike Carrozzo.

Mike Carrozzo, dictator of the city's street and construction laborers, and nine other union officials are expected to surrender to federal authorities today or tomorrow on charges of violating the Sherman antitrust act.

Carrozzo and the others were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to restrain the use of ready mixed concrete in the Chicago area. If convicted they face maximum sentences of one year in the county jail.

Officials Under Indictment.

Those indicted with Carrozzo, who is president of the International Hod Carriers' Building and Common Laborers' District council, are:

William E. Maloney, John I. Lynch, Rudolph Ganschow, John Tracy, Frank McGinnis, and Gale Murrin, officials of local 150, International Union of Operating Engineers; Anthony C. D'Andrea and Ciro F. Balzano, officials of the Hod Carriers' District council, and Vito Miroballi, president of local 1006 of the Hod Carriers' union. The indictment also named the hod carriers' union and the operating engineers' union.

The indictment charges that thru strikes and threats of strikes Carrozzo and the others forced paving contractors to accede to union demands that the same number of workmen be employed on a truck mixer as would be employed if the concrete were mixed in a stationary mixer at the scene of the job. A truck mixer is a truck on which concrete is mixed en route to the job.

Use Barred, U. S. Charges.

The indictment also charges that building contractors were prevented from using the truck mixers and that manufacturers and purchasers of them were warned that their use was barred in the Chicago area.

The use of ready mixed concrete thus was halted in this area, the indictment said, altho its use thruout the country has become widespread and has eliminated waste, saved labor costs, and resulted in better and more uniform quality of concrete. The grand jury found that Chicago is the only metropolitan area in the United States where ready mixed concrete can not be used.

The conspiracy among the defendants, the indictment said, "was not intended to increase wages, shorten hours of labor, better working conditions, or promote or effectuate any other legitimate or normal object of a labor union."

Three Actions Cited.

The indictment cites three alleged actions by the defendants as part of the conspiracy. It charged that:

1. In May, 1938, Carrozzo, D'Andrea, and Balzano sent letters to paving contractors in the Chicago area warning them that the use of truck mixers was forbidden.

2. In August, 1938, Ganschow called a strike of the operating engineers on the paving of Forest avenue between Golf and Longcommon streets in Riverside in order to compel the Peter J. Crowley company, if it used truck mixers, to hire the same number of men as would have been needed without the mixers.

3. In August, 1939, Lynch and Ganschow ordered a strike of operating engineers at the Ida B. Wells federal housing project, 37th street and South Park Way, to prevent the contractor from using truck mixers.

Costs Kept High.

Two months ago Chicago contractors said Carrozzo's ban on premixed concrete kept building prices 25 per cent above the level paid elsewhere. They said that a Chicagoan building a five room home was forced to pay at least $100 additional for concrete because Carrozzo refused to permit the use of premixed material.

A home builder in other cities, for example, can purchase premixed concrete, which is mixed en route to the homesite and dumped immediately into the construction forms. Under the method perpetuated by Carrozzo, however, there must be a separate mixer at each job, and a crew of men with wheelbarrows to haul and pour the concrete into the mixer. This boosts the labor costs and brings many more unions into the work.

In the few cases where Carrozzo did permit premixed concrete to be used, contractors charged, he and his co-defendants made it even more expensive than the old method by insisting on the use of an "engineer" and an "engineer's helper" for each mixer truck used. Their pay amounted to $20 daily, the contractors said, altho their services were not needed.

Strike Settled After 2 Months.

The strike at the Ida B. Wells housing project was settled in this manner after two months. The contractors agreed to hire an "engineer," who merely watched the mixing machine work.

The indictment is the result of an investigation begun three months ago when the government subpenaed the records of 20 firms dealing in premixed concrete and mobile mixing equipment. The case was prepared by Leo F. Tierney, special assistant United States attorney general, aided by Special Assistants R. P. Shanahan and Thomas H. Daly.

Tierney is reported to have received the information on which he based the requests for the subpenas from the late F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, who died in Springfield last March under mysterious circumstances. Smith supervised state highway construction, which involved the use of large amounts of concrete.

The government also is understood to be pursuing other investigations of Carrozzo. It is reported to be interested in his income tax payments of recent years, in charges that he levied contributions of labor and materials for his two Indiana estates, and in the reason for a mystery strike called against the city last April.

The strike was called by Carrozzo two hours after Oscar E. Hewitt, public works commissioner, had thrown out bids on an asphalt contract because the bids were too high. The low bidder would have been the Illinois Asphalt company. Samuel Kart, Carrozzo's attorney and right bower, was an incorporator and former president of this concern.

Carrozzo was named president of the city's white wings' union in 1919, when he was 29 years old. He came to this country from Italy in 1909 and is said to have been brought to Chicago by Timothy [Big Tim] Murphy in 1917 to act as bodyguard for Big Jim Colosimo, vice overlord.

Accused in Slaying.

Five months after Carrozzo's election to the presidency of the Street Laborers' union Maurice [Mossy] Enright, his opponent for the post, was slain. Carrozzo and Murphy were charged with the murder, but were freed four months later when the two principal witnesses against them disappeared.

Since then Carrozzo has come along almost without hindrance. He now controls 25 unions whose 15,000 members pay annual dues of about $240,000.

In several instances he has been accused of calling strikes for the purpose of forcing the use of a certain garbage dump, the hiring of trucks owned by friends, or the use of street supplies which he favored.

Cite Evidence of Rule.

Government spokesmen said further evidence of the hold which Carrozzo has over the paving industry and contractors is seen in the fact that a large contracting firm from another city has been trying for a long time to enter the Chicago field, but has been discouraged, it was said, by the following things:

The charge that most paving contracts are prearranged, with the successful bidder being assessed 6 per cent of his bid.

The charge that only certain bonding firms are permitted to handle the contractor's business.

The report that Carrozzo can delay and make costly any project he wishes by sending incompetent workmen to it. The government men said this has been done in cases where Carrozzo and certain contractors had disagreed.

Blocks Use of Reliefers.

In 1934 Carrozzo levied tribute of $1 monthly on Civil Works administration employés working on city streets, and once he blocked the city's efforts to use relief labor to clean the streets of snow.

In 1934 he bought a summer home in Long Beach, Ind., on Lake Michigan, paying a reported $75,000 for it, including extensive remodeling.

In 1938 he purchased an estate near Hobart, Ind., in Lake county. He was said to have paid between $100,000 and $400,000 for it.

Last month, after the city council turned down his request for pay raises for his street workers, Carrozzo summed up his opinion of the United States in a single angry sentence.

"What this country needs," he said, "is a Hitler or a Mussolini."

100 Mile Tour

A model park will be the traveling emissary of the Citizens' Anti-Litter committee this week. The park is on a special flat car provided by the Surface Lines for Anti-Litter week.

The observance started yesterday at State and Madison streets, where Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, stage and screen stars, performed pantomime acts and David B. Mayer Jr., president of the State Street council, spoke. The car then started on its 100 mile tour of the city. Ceremonies will be held thruout the week in many communities where the Anti-Litter car appears.

STREET CAR AND TRUCK COLLIDE; EIGHT INJURED

Eight passengers standing on the front platform of a street car were injured yesterday in a headon collision between the car and a truck in front of Comiskey park, at 35th street and Shields avenue. The street car, whose motorman was Fred C. Sohns, 50 years old, of 3557 South Rockwell street, was east-bound in 35th street. Richard Earley, 32, of 910 North Keystone avenue, driver of the truck, which was westbound, said an automobile swung west out of Shields avenue in front of him, causing him to skid on wet pavement into the front of the street car when he applied his brakes.

The injured, taken to People's hospital, were Mrs. Helen Neher, 25, of 7130 Champlain avenue; Miss Margaret Heinzl, 22, 5634 Princeton avenue; Mrs. June Johnson, 23, 705 East 80th street; Mrs. Elizabeth Franke, 49, 8105 Elizabeth street; Roy Tyler, 40, colored, of 3102 Cottage Grove avenue; Elgin Prichett, 37, colored, of 4031 Prairie avenue; De Witt Coney, 48, colored, of 3008 Calumet avenue, and Homer Childs, 29, colored, of 4502 Dearborn street. None was seriously injured.

BARTENDER UNION AGENT WINS IN COURT SKIRMISH

Plot to Divert Funds of Organization Charged.

George B. McLane.

George B. McLane, business agent of the Bartenders' and Beverage Dispensers' union, local No. 278, won the opening skirmish in his suit to rid the union of alleged gang domination yesterday before Judge Robert Jerome Dunne in the Circuit court.

Judge Dunne refused to grant a motion presented by Harold Levy and Grenville Beardsley, counsel for defendant officers of the union, seeking to have the union named a defendant to the suit.

McLane's lawyer, A. C. Lewis, said the defendant officers were seeking by means of the motion "to mulct the union by forcing it to assume the legal costs of the suit."

Nitti Named in Suit.

The principal defendants are Louis Romano, president of the union, and James Crowley, secretary-treasurer. Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Murray Humphreys, and other leaders of Nitti's streamlined version of the old Capone gang also are named defendants, but have not been served with subpenas and were not in court.

McLane's suit asks appointment of a receiver for the union, an accounting of funds, and direction that an election of officers be held under the supervision and protection of the court. The union has been enjoined from spending money except for salaries and legitimate expenses.

Beardsley presented a petition signed by 2,000 union bartenders to support his motion to have the union named a defendant in the suit. Lewis, however, replied that the signers had been coerced by the same means that McLane charges established Romano and Crowley as agents in charge of the union for the Nitti gang.

Attacks Agent's Suit.

After losing this phase of the fight, Beardsley began an attack on McLane's suit in an effort to obtain its dismissal. He charged that the suit contained scandalous and irrelevant charges designed to prejudice the interests of Romano and Crowley, whom he characterized as reputable citizens qualified by previous service as bartenders to hold office in the union.

McLane asserts in his suit that Romano is a former bodyguard of Al Capone and was installed as president of the union two years ago after McLane received directions from Nitti and Humphreys. McLane continues as business agent under an injunction he obtained when Romano was acting to oust him several weeks ago on charges that he had brought the union unfavorable publicity by exposing a scheme to assess its members $10 a year for hospitalization.

Beardsley asserted McLane had attempted to prejudice the court against Romano and Crowley by naming Nitti and his followers as defendants, altho, he said, they had no connection with union affairs. He said no real effort had been made to serve these gangsters with subpenas calling for their appearance in court.

UPHOLD BROWDER CONVICTION FOR PASSPORT FRAUD

Appeals Court Finds for Government.

New York, June 24 [Special].—The conviction of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party, for twice using an American passport obtained by fraudulent statements was unanimously upheld today by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Browder, the Communist party's candidate for president, was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,500 by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe. He was convicted Jan. 22.

The defense said Browder was being persecuted for his political views and that the alleged fraudulent statements were unimportant and harmed no one.

If the customary procedure is followed in Browder's case he will surrender within about 10 days and will be released at once in new bail or on cotinuance of his present bail of $7,500 pending the defense attempt to carry the case to the United States Supreme court.

Based on Passport Answer.

The defense argued that Browder's conviction was based on an answer he made in the application on which he obtained his passport. To a question about when he had obtained a previous passport, he answered "none," altho he had had three previous passports—under the name of Nicholas Dozenberg in 1921, under the name of George Morris in 1927, and under the name of Albert Henry Richards in 1931.

The government contended that by presenting the passport thus obtained to an immigration inspector as proof of American citizenship when he reentered the United States in 1937 and again in 1938, Browder had twice violated the statute prohibiting "use" of a passport obtained by means of fraudulent statements.

Browder argued, however, that such presentation of a passport was not "use" of the passport within the meaning of the statute because no American citizen can be denied the right of entry into the United States and that he did not have to show the passport to anybody in order to re-enter the country.

The passport was only for use abroad, he said, and he could have re-entered merely by having himself identified by, for instance, the reporters, who came down the bay to interview him.

Upholds Government Stand.

The Circuit court of Appeals opinion, written by Judge Robert P. Patterson and concurred in by Judge Thomas W. Swan and Judge Harrie B. Chase, upheld the government's interpretation of the word "use."

Judge Patterson pointed out in his opinion that the state department has frequently since 1930 urged American citizens to carry passports, even when going to countries where no passports are required, in order to facilitate establishment of American citizenship on re-entry. The opinion continued:

"It cannot be doubted, therefore, that in 1937 and 1938 the exhibition of a passport to an immigrant inspector as proof of the bearer's citizenship and right to enter the country from a vessel arriving in New York was a sanctioned and recognized use of a passport."

JURORS RELEASE 9 CHARGED WITH ANTI-U. S. PLOT

New York, June 24 (AP).—The federal government's first mass sedition case in many years—an 11 week trial of 14 men charged with conspiracy to overthrow the government and to steal federal property—ended late today with a jury acquitting nine defendants and disagreeing on the other five. J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, had accused the 14 of plotting to kill a dozen congressmen in a coup to set up an anti-Semitic dictatorship in this country.

The government did not indicate whether it will move for an early retrial of the five on whose guilt or innocence the jurors failed to agree.

Ravinia Music Festival Opens This Evening

BY JUDITH CASS.

"ANYTHING but rain!" must be the earnest prayer of those in charge of the Ravinia festival season, which opens tonight in beautiful Ravinia park. Four times a week for the next six weeks the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be heard there in concerts, led by distinguished guest conductors and augmented by guest artists famed the world over.

The park is in the pink of condition for the opening. Hundreds of petunias, the symbol of Ravinia, have been planted in a great circular bed just outside the pavilion. The band shell has had a fresh coat of aqua-green paint and the "crunchless" walks have had a white powder-fine sand added to them.

On Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons music lovers will gather by automobile, electric, or steam train. Tonight's concert will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Eugene Ormandy of the Philadelphia orchestra is conducting this week. Emanuel Feuermann, noted cellist, will appear on Thursday and Saturday nights.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein Giving Reception Tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Epstein are giving a reception at their home in Hubbard Woods after the concert for the trustees and officers of the Ravinia Festival association. New among the boxholders this year is Charles H. Morse. Others on the list are Mrs. Louis Eckstein, who so generously gives the park for the festival; Percy B. Eckhart, president of the association; Mrs. James Otis Hinkley, Stanley G. Harris, Donald R. McLennan, L. Lewis Cohen, and Frederick A. Preston.

As a rule, only boxholders are able to give dinner parties on the opening night. Other hosts would have to entertain large parties on the lawn, for reserved seats on this night are allotted a few to a person because of the heavy demand.

The sale of coupon books by a committee in charge of Mrs. Ernst von Ammon will continue until next Sunday. These $10 books provide Ravinia with its principal support and purchasers save $3.50 on the 18 general admittance coupons they contain.

George W. Blossoms Announce Daughters' Troths.

At a small tea at home in Lake Forest on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. announced the engagements of their daughters, Miss Louise and Miss Barbara. The former will become the bride of J. Dunham Reilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rice Reilly of Winnetka. The latter is to be married to G. Greeley Wells, son of Mrs. Thomas E. Wells and the late Mr. Wells of Lake Forest.

Miss Louise Blossom, who made her debut in the fall of 1936, is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and of Sarah Lawrence college. Mr. Reilly also was graduated from the Country Day school. He attended Harvard for two years and then was graduated from Annapolis two years ago.

Miss Barbara Blossom was graduated from the Putney school in Vermont in 1938 and made her debut last July. She has been teaching at the Hamilton school in New York for the last two years. Mr. Wells was graduated from the Choate school and now is attending Bard college, a branch of Columbia university. No date has been set for either wedding.

Helen Ruth Clayton Makes Debut Sept. 12.

A debutante of the season who has a particular interest in events taking place abroad is Miss Helen Ruth Clayton, whose brother, Hugh, has been studying for the last year and a half at the Ecole Libre des Sciences Politiques in Paris, the diplomatic school. Young Mr. Clayton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Clayton, received a letter from him written on June 5, the day after Paris first was bombed, assuring them of his safety. Since that time they have had no word, however, as there have been no trans-Atlantic calls and, apparently, no mail from Paris via Clipper ship. The young diplomat had planned to spend the summer in Portugal.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton will give a tea at their Winnetka home on the afternoon of Thursday, Sept. 12, to introduce their daughter. Miss Clayton was graduated at the North Shore Country Day school last year and has been attending Wells college, to which she will return in the fall. She has another older brother, J. Paul Jr., who is at home.

Miss Clayton and Miss Mary Adams, who is to make her debut at a tea-dance on Sept. 14, are departing today for New Orleans to spend two weeks with the former's aunt, Mrs. Thomas Alva Mottram of Evanston and New Orleans. Miss Adams, who was a classmate at North Shore of Miss Clayton, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams of Winnetka.

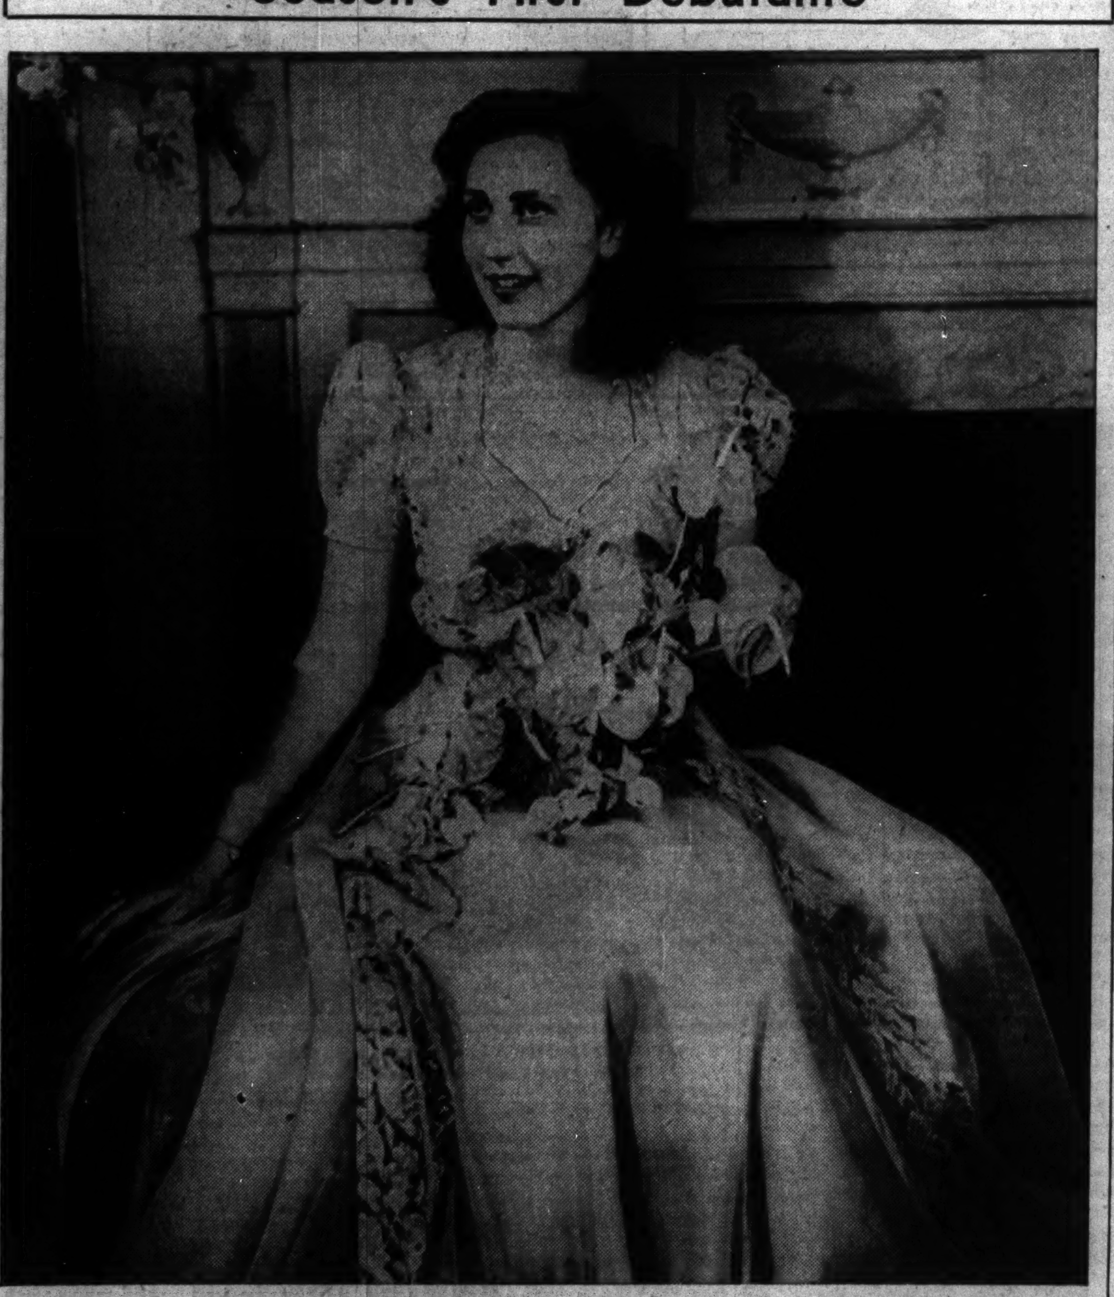
Garden Party Benefit.

Col. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris are opening their estate at Homewood for a garden party this afternoon at which the Daughters of France will be hostesses. The proceeds of the party will go to the American Volunteer Ambulance corps. Rene Weiller, French consul general, and Mme. Weiller will be especial guests.

Season's First Debutante



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The first debutante of the 1940 season was Miss Anne Strong, pictured above in the charming gown in which she was introduced to friends of her mother, Mrs. Walter A. Strong, last Saturday afternoon. After the tea, which was given at Mrs. Strong's home in Winnetka, about 125 of the bud's young friends were invited for dinner and dancing.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Passing Show.

Hollywood, Cal., June 24.—You see him at all of the parties with the movie celebs, at all, spare man with serious mien, and you are just about to conclude that you are gazing upon a scientist thinking deep thoughts on weighty matters when you realize that the tall, spare individual is Arthur Murray, who has been teaching dancing, man and boy, for a quarter of a century.

Mister Murray, or Mister Dance, as he is known to his intimates, wears a serious look because he is unhappy. He is unhappy because as he looks thru the country, he does not find every female dancing with a male, and until everybody in the country is dancing with somebody else, the tall terpsichorean Trilby will never be at peace with his conscience. I rarely have met any one so intent upon his self appointed mission in life as Mister Dance.

So insistent is he that you take a partner that he has taught dancing via every medium of instruction, starting with the days when he was a teacher in the Irene and Vernon Castle organization. You might not think, for instance, that dancing could be learned by mail, but he did it.

People who were living happy, sedentary lives on farms and ranches found themselves learning to dance by mail, and postmen on rural routes, already bent nearly double from carrying mail order catalogues, were scarcely able to walk straight when Murray mailed his dance instructions. After six 2 cent stamps, Mister Dance dared any farmer not to do the turkey trot, and for a special delivery stamp, you got the bunny hug and later the Charleston, and mayhap an attack of veins varicose.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, contrary to my belief, did not popularize dancing to any appreciable extent, according to Murray.

"When great professionals dance on the stage or in the movies," says Murray, "the ordinary person is not prompted to imitate them, because they are so superb."

It has been his experience that advertising is the only prod, advertising designed to make the ordinary taxpayer yearn to become the life of the party, to make the ordinary girl appreciate the glamorizing qualities of dancing excellence.

That is the approach he has employed and the success of his reasoning is to be found in the hundreds of thousands of Murray alumni who are bobbing up and down in ballrooms

Altho he was born in New York's east side, he is commonly associated with the deep south because he went to Georgia Tech and started his career in Atlanta and Asheville, N. C. Pupils in his first class at Atlanta included three youngsters who later were to grab headlines—Bobby Jones, Alexa Stirling, and "Bitsy" Grant, the tennis champ. Since then he has taught 1,500,000 other people to dance and a roster of his pupils would form a Who's Who of the world.

He had one experience with Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, that scared the life out of him. Quezon, when he was in this country, virtually lived at Murray's place and the Murrays often went out with him. On this one evening, at the Hotel Plaza, Arthur noticed that Quezon seemed to be unusually fidgety. He observed every stranger who approached their table with unrest. Next day the papers headlined the news that a band of killers was in New York seeking to assassinate Quezon. Murray couldn't look a fox trot in the face for several days.

Today he has perhaps 1,000 instructors operating out of his branch studios all over the country, and estimates gravely that he loses $30,000 a year because his instructresses get married. He explains this figure by pointing out that it costs him $500 to train an instructress, so when she one steps up an aisle to the strains of Lohengrin, he not only loses his original investment, but he estimates too that an instructress also loses $500 of business which she has developed. When she gets hitched, her pupils stop taking dancing lessons. The very thought of this is so distressing to Mister Dance that he gets off the subject as quickly as possible.

In 1921 his career was imperiled by an unusual feud. This was the year when blue blooded Nelson Doubleday authored and published a book on etiquette, and as Mr. Doubleday ate regularly with the upper classes, his advice was accepted eagerly by the lower classes who were uncertain as to which fork they should hoist when and if Mrs. Vanastorbilt invited them to a soirée. From that success, Doubleday decided to uplift human nature by also teaching the upper and lower classes how to dance. Murray went directly to Doubleday and protested this encroachment. "Suppose," supposed Murray, "that I published a book on etiquette." Doubleday dropped his dancing courses immediately.

Seek Different Beach Outfit? There's Black

BY REA SEEGER.

Perhaps as an antidote to all the blazing colors in the play clothes and beach collections some one thought of the dramatic value of a good dull black. Sun tanned beach loungers, and those who refuse even to freckle will acclaim these black accents.

Brand new, unpacked just in time for the first summer vacationists, the dull black slacks and shirts and separate short skirts are now on display. They look like a million dollars sharply defined against somewhat gaudy glories of high colors.

Slacks and shirts that can be worn over or under the belt line are sleek affairs with a definite air of sophistication. They're impeccably tailored, fit with smooth outlines and take inches off any streamline. The materials are the popular shag; a novelty fabric with a coarse linen texture, and the smooth finds of cotton gabardine.

Both fabrics have that desired smart dull finish. The shirts have long on short sleeves, plenty of pockets and convertible collars. If you want something different, wear an all-black outfit, compromise on a startling white sharkskin shirt with black slacks, or go black shirt with white sharkskin slacks.

The separate short skirt is especially good looking, for it's tailored with masculine precision, has a snappy flare to the cleverly cut outline and boasts the same slimming trick as the other dull blacks.

Opening Day at Arlington Like Old Home Week

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The Republicans and the weather combined made the opening of the season at Arlington park yesterday not quite as gala an occasion as Arlington stockholders and friends would have liked perhaps, but, just the same, it was jolly and interesting. The high wind made walking the short distance from the Post and Paddock club to the betting inclosure an adventure, something not to be undertaken lightly.

And trying to go upstairs to the boxes was such strenuous exercise that few wanted to brave the same stairs to go down again into the club. Two hands were not enough for any woman to hold her hat, her bag, her program, her "dope sheet," and her skirt, and believe me, she had to hang on to every one of them or lose them in the gale.

One of the largest luncheon parties in the Post and Paddock was given by the new president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, John Denby Allen, and Mrs. Allen. Their guests were Dr. and Mrs. John W. Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. James Bremner, Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher, Judge and Mrs. John O'Connell, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Reddy, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Walker, and the John McInerneys. Mrs. Allen was wearing a large white straw hat and a tan coat that almost covered a lovely white printed dress with a fuchsia background.

One of the two luncheon parties that braved the elements and ate on the terrace was composed of Mrs. Farwell Winston, Mrs. Charles DeLong, Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., Mrs. John E. Hughes, and Mrs. Orton Prime of Milwaukee. Mrs. Hughes was prepared for any kind of weather, for over her cloth coat she wore a stunning white raincoat. Several of the women wore plaid coats, the sort outsiders always consider race track clothes, but which seldom are seen at Arlington.

Mrs. Leona Hertz, who came on from New York to be here during the racing season, was wearing a smart beaver jacket. She was with her mother, Mrs. John D. Hertz, whose other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carruthers and Miss Theresa Finneran of Versailles, Ky. Near them sat Mrs. Warren Wright in a stunning short scarlet wool jacket and a hat of the same vivid color. Mrs. Harry H. Lobdell was in the next box in a reseda green outfit with sables.

Debutante Patricia Cathcart was with her mother and aunt and grandmother, Mrs. James C. Cathcart, Mrs. Wesley Dixon, and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn. Also in their box were Mrs. Edward K. Welles and Mrs. Thomas Tyler. Mrs. Dexter Cummings and Mrs. Henry Rowley had a group of youngsters with them, including Ruth and Joyce Cummings, and Henry and John Rowley.

Miss Carlotta Lagorio's wrap was a long coat of soft cocoa brown suede. With it she wore a grass green straw hat and a tan and white printed frock. Her mother, Mrs. Frank Lagorio, wore a navy blue dress, a silver fox cape and a polka dotted blue and red sailor hat. Mrs. Donald R. McLennan's guests were Mrs. William B. Brown, Miss Ruth Brown, Mrs. William P. Martin, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and Mrs. Percy Ames.

Mrs. Marjorie Letts was beaming all the afternoon for she had picked the winner for an across the board bet in the first race. Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall had a tiny vegetable garden on her smart little green straw hat.

A few of the others present were Laurance H. Armour, president of the Post and Paddock [Mrs. Armour was at home, ill]; Vaughan C. Spalding, John M. Hutchins, Miss Mary Louise Corley, Weymouth Kirkland Jr., Mrs. William A. Ryan, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Hurley; Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and her sister, Mrs. William M. Collins; Mrs. Allen M. Clement, Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Philip D. Armour IV., Miss Mary Gardner, Mrs. Alanson Donald, Mrs. Philip D. Block Jr., Mrs. Harvey Austrian, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lehmann, and Miss Jane Stude.

Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra, arrived in Chicago yesterday to begin preparation for the four concerts in which he will serve as guest director of the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Ravinia park. The concerts will be given tonight, Thursday and Saturday nights, and Sunday afternoon, and will constitute the first week of the 1940 Ravinia festival. Thursday and Saturday evenings Mr. Ormandy will present Emanuel Feuermann as cello soloist. Tschaikowsky's "Rococo" variations for cello and orchestra has been added to the previously released program for Saturday night.

Camp Season to Open Today at Algonquin

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Yesterday, on the eve of the opening of Camp Algonquin, Superintendent Joel D. Hunter of the United Charities sat at his desk, shaking his head over a report from the Council of Social Agencies. Philosophical and of a naturally cheery disposition is Mr. Hunter, and at camping time his associates look for the full effulgence of his smile. But the tabulations he contemplated were, in a manner of speaking, a snuffer that dimmed the brightness of Mr. Hunter's beaming.

There are in Chicago, the council's report revealed, 800,000 children from low income and relief families whose health is contingent upon a vacation period in the country. The council made a survey of charitable and nonprofit operating camps in this region. Its figures showed that less than 27,000 boys and girls will have their sorely needed outings.

A drop in the bucket—even Mr. Hunter's optimism could not see Camp Algonquin's hospitality in more favorable proportion when balanced against the needs of those thousands of boys and girls. At best, the budget promises two week vacations to 1,500 children and fewer than 500 mothers.

This season Algonquin enters upon its 31st year. In its three decades, largely thru the generosity of TRIBUNE readers, a total of 49,000 mothers and children have found health of body and refreshment of spirit in the small colony of green frame cottages, craft shops, and playgrounds nestled in the heart of a 43 acre woodland bordering on the Fox river.

If the aggregate number appeared large, Mr. Hunter pointed out, it did not approximate the need. The United Charities can give a two week vacation at Algonquin for $10. Mr. Hunter hoped, he said, that many more of Chicago's more fortunate citizens will invest this season in health and happiness for needy neighbors.

The Chicago Tribune Charities yesterday received a donation of $153.52 from the Chicago community trust of the Abbie E. Tyrrell fund for Algonquin. Another donor, signing himself "E. A. M." sent $2.

This afternoon the first of the season's campers, a party of 25 mothers and 135 children, will be sent to Algonquin, and a second contingent will go Thursday. Transportation to the campground is provided annually by the Chicago and Northwestern railway.

Mr. Fliday.

A friend back from a vacation in the Black Hills of South Dakota tells us the tale of John Fliday. John Fliday, Mrs. Fliday, and their two children, college graduates, live in the Black Hills. Fliday was a laundry man in the gold rush days of half a century ago. His name then was a typical Chinese name, but when miners came for their shirts his answer usually was "Come Fliday." They began calling him Fliday. It suited him, too, so he made it legal.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, a childless widow, has but a few months to live, so she sends for her nearest kin, her own niece, Leda, and her husband's nephews, Frank and Geoffry. Unbeknown to them she wants to select the most deserving heir, so she tells them she has to retrench financially and suggests they all live with her on her large estate. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin and an eavesdropping old maid, has been living with Madge for some time. Leda is married to Frank, but is having an affair with Geoffry, who is pretty unprincipled but has managed to become Madge's favorite thru his flattery. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage, and Shirley Westall, neighbor, is acting as the child's governess. Frank, miserable because he has suspicions of Leda and Geoffry, sees the sweetness of his first wife in Shirley and realizes he is falling in love with her. Geoffry, tiring of Leda, pays court to Shirley. Leda, in a rage at Betsy when the child publicly comments on Geoffry's neglect of her stepmother, knocks the child down, causing concussion. Shirley, devoted to Betsy, sympathizes with Frank and soon finds her sympathy turning to love. Madge begins to see Leda and Geoffry in their true light and decides to change her will, in which she has left most of her estate to Geoffry. Amelia eavesdrops on Madge and Barnes, the solicitor, and learns of Madge's illness and her plan to change her will. Amelia has always had a crush on Geoffry, so she tells him what she has overheard. He plays up to her in order to learn more. She succumbs to his flattery and becomes jealous of Leda. Knowing Leda and Geoffry always meet in a hut in the woods, she starts out there to eavesdrop on them. Leda shoots a whole thru her hat to scare her off and Amelia flees without knowing who fired the shot. Everybody seems to doubt Amelia's story.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

TENSION.

It seemed strange to Geoffry that Betsy's outspokenness had aroused no suspicion of Leda in anybody but himself and Amelia. Nobody even queried Leda's remark which suggested that she had not brought her deadly little weapon to Beechbourne.

By the time a week had passed, people, particularly the local constabulary as vested in P. C. Sawyer and Fred Gillespie, from over Marsh Green way, who was his relief man, began to discount Miss Pennyfather's adventure in the Beechbourne woods.

Miss Wilkins, who kept the general shop, was even heard to hint that perhaps Miss Pennyfather had punched that hole in her hat herself, just to give a little color to a tall story. The rumor reached Madge Darmeny and disturbed her almost as much as the victim's story had done. Madge had to admit that Amelia was getting to be something of a crackpot.

During this last week she had been creeping about as tho afraid of her shadow. O, there wasn't any doubt that poor Amelia believed her own story, but she didn't seem to be as anxious to talk about it now, altho there certainly was something lying heavy on her mind.

Her mouth would open like a gasping fish, but nothing came out of it. Always she seemed to be stopping herself when on the point of blurting out something tremendous.

In some way, both Leda and Geoffry seemed mixed up in this curious behavior of Amelia's, Madge thought. She would be almost her old self when neither of them happened to be around, but let one of them—especially Leda—appear and Amelia promptly began to look as tho she was sickening for something.

Madge put off her appointment with Alfred Barnes almost from day to day. It wasn't because she had changed her mind about her new will, but merely to give things a chance to settle down before having the session with Alfred.

He was rather busy, too, collecting and checking the formidable array of Geoffry's debts. Geoffry had to go up to London several times to furnish additional particulars. There had been no chance at all for him to cheat Alfred Barnes out of more than the exact total of his obligations. Each item was scrutinized as thru a microscope, affidavits sworn, and every single little thing, down to a chemist's account of 16 shillings 7 pence, had not only one checking but, when warranted, as many as seemed necessary.

Geoffry had expected, or at least hoped, to mention a lordly round sum, have a nice, fat check handed over to him and himself be left to deal with his creditors.

But now he realized how fatuous that hope had been, and he also got an eyeopener into the workings of an accountant's mind. Alfred Barnes had to deal with this calamity in such a way as not seriously to disrupt Mrs. Darmeny's estate. It wasn't just a question of drawing a nice, fat check and being done with it.

Geoffry, exasperated beyond endurance, and with the threat of that will hanging over him, had become a dangerous, desperate man.

Shirley was avoiding him, which perhaps was just as well, since Leda was not playing the game as she had agreed to do. Leda watched him like a cat. She was suspicious of every move he made.

He had sold her bracelet, but he had made no move to get rid of his car, the proceeds of which would have added much toward that sum in cash they needed for the elopement he had promised her.

When, trying hard to bring about a change of heart in Aunt Madge before it was too late, Geoffry had tried to rouse a sense of possessiveness in Leda by telling her he knew for a fact that Frank and Shirley Westall were strongly attracted to each other, Leda only laughed him to scorn.

What did she care about Frank? The Westall girl was welcome to him.

But she did not question Geoffry's motive in trying to turn her mind back to Frank. Indeed, she saw thru him.

"You only want to keep on Aunt Madge's good side. I really believe you'd throw me over if there was any danger of her suspecting us."

He had kept the secret he had with Amelia. Leda knew nothing about Madge's plans regarding a new will; she knew nothing about the eminent heart specialist's verdict.

But she did suspect that Madge Darmeny was in a precarious state of health.

She had forgotten that outrageous remark she had made to Frank coming back from Marta Shotts' party, but the unvoiced wish was still at the back of her mind.

If and when Aunt Madge died, they would all be free. Geoffry would have the money, of course—or most of it—and she, Leda, would share with him. In the days of his infatuation he had been generous with her; you might even say he had fairly squandered Aunt Madge's money on her behalf, and the same could never be said for Frank.

"I think she must be in rather a bad way," Leda told Geoffry. "That medicine she takes is awfully strong. 'Drops,' she calls them. I heard her tell Amelia to be careful about the dose."

Geoffry shrugged sulkily.

His mind worked the same way that Leda's did, but toward a different purpose.

He, too, would give a great deal for Aunt Madge's speedy demise, but there didn't seem to be much chance of it happening in time to benefit him. If only it did, how quickly he would get rid of them all! He felt he would gladly sell his soul for the privilege of kicking Frank out of Beechbourne.

If there wasn't any Aunt Madge, he would quickly dispose of Leda, too, and jolly well safeguard himself against any infernal idea of revenge she might have up her sleeve. He wouldn't stand any more nonsense from her.

And lately, somehow, his passion for Shirley Westall had begun to develop a savage element. He'd bring the minx to heel first, and then teach her something she'd never forget. He'd teach her who was the lord and master.

He fairly gloated over that moment when, in his imagination, Shirley would belong to him and he showed her that altho she had made him love her, he could be ruthless in his lovemaking and mingle a lot of hate with it.

One thing, so long as they both lived, he would never forgive her, and that was the look in her eyes and the way she had turned on him when he gibed her about Frank.

* * *

Everything passes. All that one needs is a little time. "A few more years shall roll."

Thus thought Madge Darmeny to herself, as it seemed to her that her difficult family was at last being adapted, or resigning itself, to its proper individual rôles.

Leda was being very sweet to Betsy, whose response was moderately polite, and the village gossip subsided, of course.

Geoffry was in almost daily consultation with Alfred Barnes, either over the telephone or personally, and outwardly wore a chastened air.

Frank, at his aunt's request, was familiarizing himself with the various duties at Beechbourne, in order to relieve her of some of the burden of the big estate. She explained that Geoffry hadn't time at the moment, but her real object was to test Frank out.

They had several conferences, and one afternoon she sounded him out pretty thoroly as to what, in his opinion, should be the future of a place like Beechbourne.

The house itself was so vast that quite a third of it was perpetually shut up. It had been a show place in her father's time. Now the stables, built to house 20 horses or more, were nearly empty. Some valuable paintings had been sold in the scheme of retrenchment and to cover Geoffry's extravagance.

The shooting and fishing rights were now let to rich city men, whose presence on her streams and in her coverts was an abomination to Madge Darmeny. But Frank had no time for those sports except at odd seasons, and Geoffry had no real taste for them, altho he put up a pretense.

Good morning!

"Flight Angels" are air stewardesses. Their male equivalents are pilots—and this film essays to show how SAFE one is in the air because of airline companies' precautions in connection with these young men and women. . . .

At the picture's start you find Stewardess Mary Norvell being entirely competent in the event of a premature birth aboard her plane. And note the ease and composure with which the two handsome pilots [Dennis Morgan and Wayne Morris] make a difficult landing in a fog.

From here on the film abounds in glimpses behind the scenes of life in and around an airport. . . . Quite interesting.

The introduction of a dumb dora stewardess who wouldn't know the difference between mayonnaise and butter or arsenic and bicarbonate of soda, rather dulls the argument made before that stewardesses are ever alert. And when Pilot Farber, grounded because of his eyes, steals a plane for a test flight, you DO wonder if ANY pilot, competent or otherwise, MIGHTN'T be able to put something over likewise, having the desire and given the opportunity. . . . [A bit snaggy, you see].

The cast is peopled with likable players. . . . Principal rôles are handled by Misses Bruce and Wyman and Messrs. Morgan, Morris and Bellamy.

"Flight Angels" is short. It hands you a few laughs and, here and there, a bit of suspense. But as for story—well, here let's draw a veil——.

See you soon.

Playing Is Not Waste of Time for Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Not so many years ago, younger children in school were provided with "busy work"—anything to keep them occupied. In ungraded classes, where a teacher had to teach several grades in rotation, it was necessary to have devices always ready to keep some children quiet while she taught others. "Busy work" was often no more than its name implies, often of little value in itself.

Many grownups today think of children's play in rather that way. Just something to keep them from being idle, to pass the hours of each day till they are ready for something really useful, like schoolwork or the earning of money.

Yet play is not that.

If you think at all about it, you know children actually need play. And if you think more deeply on the subject you can see some of the vital things it does for them as growing human beings. Play is practical and useful. For instance, no child can play with toys, dolls, sand, slides, swings, tools, books, balls, blocks, without acquiring some of these important things: Industry, independence, control of his big muscles, deftness or skill [the use of his smaller muscles], growth of his imagination; sharpening of his sense of touch, hearing, sight, and so forth; ability to make, originate, create; and ability to get along with other children.

These are only some of the ways in which a child really grows—that is, develops—thru play.

The Housewife

The refrigerator too often becomes a sort of proving ground for food odors. The strongest scent wins. The butter tastes of the canteloupe or the fish. To avoid all this the wise home manager puts a little square tin called an ice box conditioner on the top shelf of her refrigerator. The tin contains a substance which absorbs odors, for it prevents foods from tainting one another. And it is guaranteed to do so for four months. It's brand new on the market, inexpensive, and efficient.

Marriage Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Charles Schoenbaum of Milwaukee have issued invitations to the marriage reception of their daughter, Ethel Mabel, and Judge James Gordon Barber, at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night, June 29, in the ballroom of the Orrington hotel, Evanston.

Cookies made with a cookie press take a little longer to make than drop cookies, bars, and many rolled cookies, but they're lots of fun and have a professional look about them. Most cookie presses come with half a dozen or more different plates, so that with one batch of dough a cook can make as many patterns as she wishes.

You don't always need a special recipe to make cookie press cookies. Any fairly stiff dough will go thru the cookie press nicely, and usually dough for molded cookies may be used for rolled or icebox cookies, if it is chilled thoroly.

Don't grease the cookie sheet for cookie press cookies, and don't expect the dough to form neat shapes on a hot cookie sheet. Cool it thoroly after each baking, before pressing more dough from the barrel.

Africaines

[About 5 dozen small cookies]
½ cup butter, margarine, or vegetable shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup evaporated milk
2½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
8 squares chocolate, melted

Cream shortening and sugar together thoroly. Add egg and flavoring and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk to make a rather stiff dough. Add cooled melted chocolate. Press dough thru pastry bag or cookie press to make small cookies. Bake about 10 minutes in a 375 degree oven.

Butter Tea Cookies

[About 7 dozen tiny ones]
1 cup butter or margarine
⅔ cup sugar
1 beaten egg
2½ cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Flavorings
Colorings, if desired

Cream butter thoroly and gradually add sugar. Beat well together. Add egg and beat until light. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together, and mix into the creamed butter and sugar. Divide the dough into two or more parts to be colored and flavored as desired. If you wish four kinds of cookie dough, here's a suggestion: Add a small amount of yellow coloring and a fourth teaspoon lemon flavoring to one-fourth of the dough; to another fourth, left uncolored, add ¼ teaspoon vanilla; tint a third portion green and flavor with ¼ teaspoon almond; and add ¼ teaspoon black walnut flavoring to the fourth uncolored part. Put the dough thru the cookie press onto ungreased baking sheets, leaving an inch and a half of space between each two. Bake at 375 degrees. When baked, the walnut flavored cookies may be brushed with a simple confectioner's sugar icing [flavored with black walnut, too, perhaps] to distinguish them from the other uncolored cookies.

Voters' Schools' Leaders Go to Class Themselves

The Illinois League of Women Voters yesterday held an all day class for leaders preparatory to holding voters' schools thruout the state next fall. Mrs. W. W. Ramsey conducted the class at league headquarters, 225 North Michigan avenue. The 15 league leaders in attendance will conduct these nonpartisan voters' schools at the request of local Leagues of Women oVters or of other organizations. The schools, according to Mrs. Raymond S. Simons of Highland Park, press chairman, will be held not to give a great mass of information but to arouse in citizens the desire to increase their effectiveness as citizens.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

June 25, 1940.

Universal Day—Feelings get in the way of constructive thinking today. Be impersonal.

Year Ahead—By now those in a nine year must have felt that they were closing the last chapters of their own present autobiography, culminating a particular phase of their lives. Don't worry too much about the past. Finish up without regrets for you start on a brand new edition next year.

Names—If you are looking for a quiet companion don't pick one whose name begins with an E or has E for the first vowel. Such persons are restless and often erratic, but energetic and inventive. The short E is not as aggrasive, as in Henry. Some of the dual names are Eugene, Geoffrey, George, Eunice, Jean.

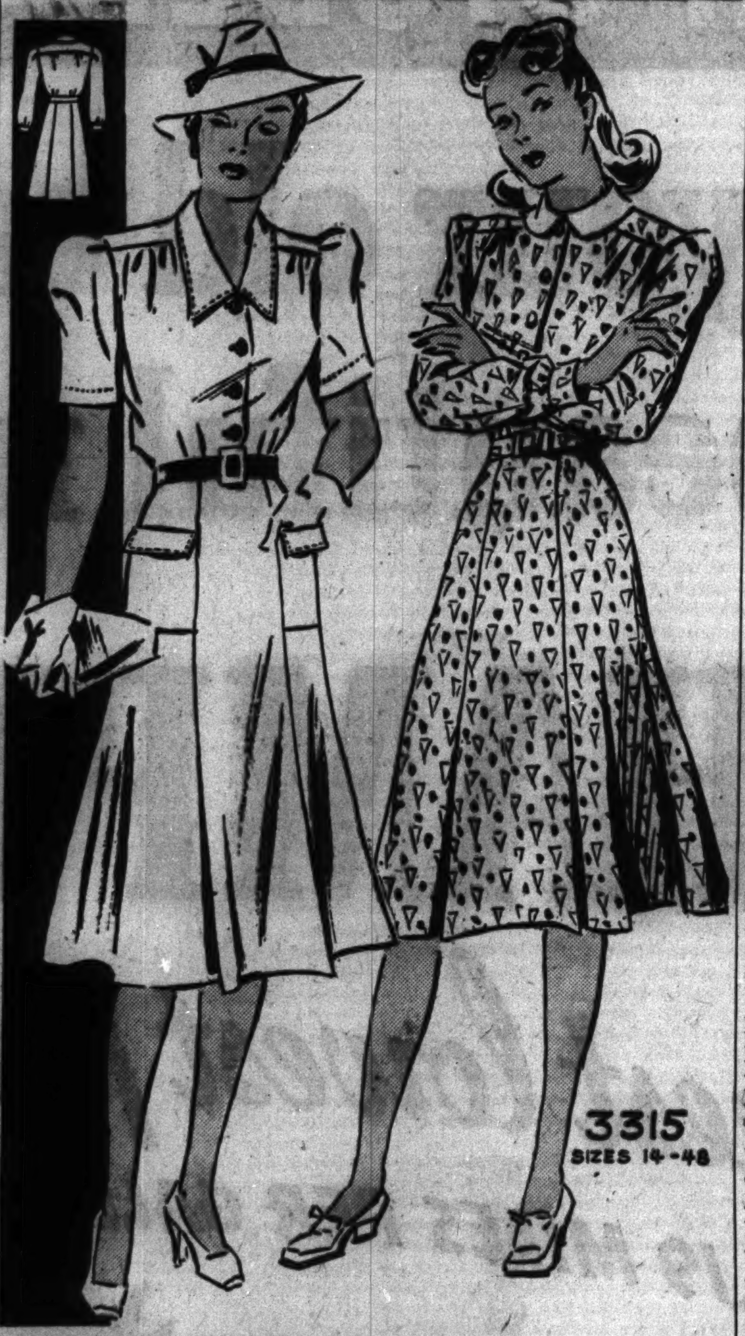
New Version of Shirtwaist



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A new version of the tried-and-true shirtwaist dress, favorite everywhere of busy women. The pattern provides for varied styling. Older women, especially, will like the version at the left, with its pointed collar on V neckline, its short puffed sleeves, and its patch pockets. The original, contrasted only with red buttons and belt, is of pale blue cotton.

The other design is more youthful, with its contrasting Peter Pan collar on high, round neckline, its long, full sleeves which are captured by snug wrist bands, and its pocketless, paneled skirt. The original is delightful in a cotton with conventional printed design.

Style No. 3315 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material for dress with pockets, 4⅛ yards with ¼ yard of contrasting for long sleeved design.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Most bridge players know that a finesse has a 50 per cent chance of success, for there are only two possibilities; one opponent or the other has the missing high card—and, in the absence of any illuminating bidding or play, one opponent is just as likely as the other to hold it. But very few players know what chance there is that two out of three finesses will succeed.

How often you will hear a player exclaim: "Imagine making a game on that hand! We certainly couldn't bid it. Why, we needed two finesses out of three!"

But actually the two cases are precisely the same. You have exactly an even chance to win two finesses out of three. A perfect analogy may be found in tossing a coin, two out of three heads or tails to decide the winner—obviously an even money bet. Therefore it is not only logical to bid a game in such a case, but even a slam is a fair bet.

A hand which illustrated this point was dealt in a duplicate game and only one player had a clear enough idea of his prospects to bid the slam.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
6 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was excellent from start to finish. South had only four possible losing cards and over six and one-half honor tricks, so his two-bid was amply warranted.

North's response was peculiarly enlightening. This bid, in the Culbertson system, is used to show a very weak hand which contains, nevertheless, good trump support. The requirements are: four trumps to the queen, or any five trumps; and no singleton, void, king, or ace in the hand. In other words, the bid means, "Partner, I like your suit, but can furnish absolutely no other help for a slam."

South knew what North's response meant, but properly disregarded its note of warning. He could be sure of being able to enter North's hand at least three times with low hearts. That meant that he would be able to take all three finesses. Since this would give him a 50 per cent chance for a slam [with the added advantage that any opening lead but a heart would give him], he bid six at once. Since it was duplicate bridge he properly bid the slam in no trump to take advantage of the extra value of the no trump trick score.

West carefully avoided the pitfalls of the opening lead by beginning with the nine of hearts. But South took all three finesses and made his slam without any trouble.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Our first reaction when we heard that one house was turning out lipsticks and cheek rouges and even eye shadows that are in a sense, custom made for various climates was amusement and a certain degree of admiration for what is at least an original idea.

But, come to find out about it, it's a sounder idea than it seemed at a quick glance. There must be thousands of women whose lips puff up from the sun. This stick, with a special sun screen ingredient, is just exactly what they've been looking for. And, for those of us who don't have this reaction, it's still a good stick because what prevents searing from the sun most certainly fosters lip softness.

The lipstick is a smooth one, it clings well, and it comes in beautiful colors. Also, it is one of those pearls of little price. The house that makes it has a good reputation for fine quality at low cost to the consumer.

In shades, you can pretty well write your own ticket. There's a wide range of wearable ones in several red tones, including all the fashionable ones.

The cheek rouge, with the same sun screen ingredient, is in cream form; it comes in shades that match the lipsticks. There's a dry rouge, too, if you prefer.

This is a lipstick well worth a trial at any time; and, at the moment, with the sun warming up, it's a particularly good thought.

Illinois Symphony Presents Its Final Concert of Season

BY CECIL SMITH.

With the loud approbation of an audience of nearly capacity proportions, the Illinois Symphony orchestra closed its indoor season at the Studebaker theater last night. Next Tuesday the orchestra begins its varied schedule of al fresco concerts with a program at the Morgan Park Military academy. Later in July two further series will begin, in the Wilmette amphitheater and at the University of Chicago.

For his last appearance before a considerable round of summer guest conductorships in the east, Izler Solomon presented a popular request program. The works selected were the Overture to "Egmont" and the fifth symphony by Beethoven; "Romeo and Juliet" and the waltz from the Serenade for Strings, by Tschaikowsky, and Enesco's first Rumanian Rhapsody.

Mr. Solomon had never conducted the Beethoven symphony in Chicago before. The performance was characterized by good judgment in tempi, excellent accentuation, and an unfailing feeling for the forward march of the music. For the most part the orchestra played well, tho the scherzo at times suffered from bad intonation and lack of precision.

The passionate "Romeo and Juliet" music, one of the staples of Mr. Solomon's repertory, was unusually exciting. The agitated second theme moved at headlong speed, yet was articulated clearly. The popular love music was presented with great warmth and fervor, but it was kept within a discreet musical frame.

The fourth season of the Illinois Symphony orchestra has been valuable and distinctive. The list of new works included five world premieres, two first performances in America, and 20 first performances in Chicago. The orchestra played 30 concerts in Chicago and 11 out of town.

12,000 SEE TECHNICIAN WIN AT ARLINGTON

M'NEILL, MARBLE TAKE NATIONAL CLAY COURT TITLES

MISS WHEELER, RIGGS BEATEN AT RIVER FOREST

Ranking Men's Star Loses in 4 Sets.

The nation's king of amateur tennis failed in the finals of the National Clay Courts tournament at River Forest yesterday, but the queen rules on. Bobby Riggs of Chicago fell before the onslaught of Don McNeill, 22-year old Irish lad from Oklahoma City. Alice Marble, however, easily turned back the challenge of Gracyn Wheeler, Santa Monica, Cal., miss as the 10 day tournament came to an end.

An aggressive attack which continued with only intermittent breaks gave McNeill, recent graduate of Kenyon college, Gambier, O., a four-set triumph over Riggs. The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3.

Miss Marble Wins Easily.

Miss Marble disposed of her opponent in two sets, the scores being 7-5 and 6-0. The match was held up when rain fell on the River Forest Tennis club's courts as the rivals were tied, 4-4, in the first set. But when play was resumed the champion from San Francisco took command and brought matters to a quick conclusion.

She thus became the first woman champion in the history of the tournament that began in 1910, this being the first year for competition other than among the men.

McNeill Begins with a Rush.

McNeill and Riggs engaged in a terrific cross court battle during the first set, but the Chicagoan was held to 15 points. The Oklahoman's placement shots frequently caught Riggs out of position. In the second set, McNeill scored 36 points to Riggs' 27. Then the nation's No. 1 player rallied in the third set just when defeat seemed immiment. Each won his first three services, rain delaying the match during this period for half an hour. When they returned to action, the collegian took a 5-3 lead and here Riggs tried a new tack. He started volleying and McNeill's errors enabled Riggs to pull even and go on to win the set.

The Oklahoman was back on his game in the fourth set. He won five straight games with the loss of only five points. Riggs took the next three games, then McNeill broke thru his foe's service to end the battle.

Sox and Cubs Rained Out; Both Try Luck Under Lights Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Monday and weather did a lot of erasing of the major league baseball schedules yesterday, including postponement of the scheduled opener of the White Sox-Washington Senators series. That made it four rained out games in a row for the White Sox.

John Rigney.

The Sox and the Senators tonight will play the second after supper game in Comiskey park, if there aren't some more showers on the tarpaulinless acreage in the south side baseball palace.

Eddie Smith and Walter Masterson, who were to have pitched yesterday, will not be carried over for the night game. John Rigney will pitch for the Sox, and Sid Hudson, the tall rookie from Class D, Sanford, Fla., who stopped a six game winning streak under the bulbs last week when he held the St. Louis Browns to a ninth inning hit for a 1 to 0 Washington victory, will pitch for the visitors.

Hudson's a Cousin [?]

Hudson was the losing pitcher in the first home victory for the Sox, a game won, 5 to 4, by Rigney on May 20 after the Sox had dropped their first nine home encounters. On that occasion Sid lasted only two innings, in which the Sox made four of their five runs.

The Sox have high hopes of sweeping the two game series unless Dutch Leonard pitches out of turn. The Sox have won five out of eight from the Washington lads, and Leonard has pitched the three Washington victories.

Here's the Record.

Just in case you're rainbound, too, we give you the scores of the Washington-Sox season series to date.

May 8—Sox, 6; Senators, 3. Winning pitcher, Smith; loser, Chase.

May 9—Senators, 8; Sox, 4. Winning pitcher, Leonard; loser, Lee.

May 19—Senators, 12; Sox, 10. Winning pitcher, Leonard; loser, Lyons.

May 20—[First home victory after nine losses]—Sox, 5; Senators, 4. Winning pitcher, Rigney; loser, Hudson.

May 21—Sox, 9; Senators, 8. Winning pitcher, Brown; loser, Carrasquel.

June 7—Senators, 3; Sox, 1. Winning pitcher, Leonard; loser, Knott.

June 8—Sox, 12; Senators, 6. Winning pitcher, Dietrich; loser, Chase.

June 9—Sox, 4; Senators, 3. Winning pitcher, Rigney; loser, Hayes.

The next business for the White Sox after the Senators go back east will be a three game series with the league leading Cleveland Indians. The Indians will play a single game Saturday and a double header Sunday.

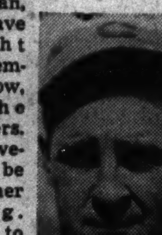
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 24.—The Cubs were excused from work today, thanks to the weather man, and they'll have more daylight hours to themselves tomorrow, thanks to the schedule makers. But in the evening it will be different, weather permitting. They'll have to go over to Brooklyn, where anything can and does happen, to play the highly publicized Dodgers.



Larry French.

Between what the weather did today and what the date makers arranged, the Cubs face a screwy schedule between now and next Sunday evening. Out of respect for their night labors tomorrow they'll have another vacation on Wednesday, playing the final with the Dodgers the next afternoon. Then they'll go to Cincinnati for a night battle Friday, a single Saturday afternoon and a double header on Sunday.

Leiber Loses His Punch.

Hank Leiber, in theory the Cubs' cleanup hitter, is going back to the bench at least for a few more days unless a left handed enemy pitcher should turn up in the interval. Big Hank doesn't seem able to shake off the effects of the throat trouble to which he surrendered after fanning twice in the game of June 4. Since then he has been given intermittent assignments in his right field berth, the last in yesterday's first battle at Philadelphia, but at no time has he produced evidence of power.

The outfield layout for tomorrow night will be Bill Nicholson in right, Dominic Dallessandro in left, and Jim Gleeson in center. Nicholson, altho an easy mark for most of the smart pitchers in the pinches, has been a life saver for a team shy on batting power. So has Gleeson, who wasn't in the regular setup at the start of the season.

French to Pitch Tonight.

Larry French, the Cubs' leading pitcher, will be their master of ceremonies in tomorrow night's game. His opponent will be Hugh Casey. Either Vern [Lefty] Olsen or Claude Passeau will be summoned for the last of the series there on Thursday. This arrangement will make Jake Mooty, whose debut was a night victory over the Giants last Tuesday and who hung up another success in Philadelphia yesterday, available for the evening match Friday in Cincinnati.

The Cubs' record for the trip thus far is six victories against five defeats, but they still face six games with the two ranking clubs.

MINNESOTA STAR LEADS IN COLLEGE GOLF WITH A 70

Four Trail Croonquist by Stroke in Vermont.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Manchester, Vt., June 24.—Neil Croonquist, a young Minnesotan whose dad is a conductor on the Soo Line back home, today piloted a golf ball around the venerable links of the Ekwanok Country club on a personal trip. At the end of the run, Croonquist checked in with a 70, even par for Ekwanok, and the first round lead in the qualifying play for the 43d golf championship of the National Collegiate Athletic association.

Croonquist, a slender blond who has just been graduated from the University of Minnesota and who is retiring as president of the Undergraduate Golfers' National association, is no stranger to this best of all college fairway shows, which gradually threatens the National amateur's prestige and certainly matches it in talent. Last year, in a second round match, Neil went out and fired a 68, best round of the tournament, in eliminating Bill Cordingley, the husky Des Moines kid who captained the Harvard team this year.

Four Tied with 71.

Oddly enough, the match followed their joint election as president and secretary, respectively, of their league. Before the N. C. A. A. took over the tournament, the president and secretary of the college kids were lucky to get to the first tee, let alone qualify, so busy were they trying to get their colleagues started and scored. Now, thanks to the help of such men as Chick Evans, Ted Payseur, L. C. Bowles, Ben Thomson, and Eddie Twiggs, everybody, including the officers, can enjoy the tournament. That was proven in the N. C. A. A.'s debut last year, when President Sid Richardson of Northwestern won the medal and Secretary Vincent D'Antoni of Tulane won the individual championship.

Secretary Cordingley, by the way, also had fun today in the manufacture of a 71 that left him just a shot behind Croonquist. Tied with William were Johnny Burke, the Rhode Island red head from Georgetown, who won the title as a sophomore in 1938; Warren Berl, who led Stanford to the 1939 team title and then went to the individual final, and W. G. Clarke of Dartmouth.

Tied at 72 were Frank Newell, sole

ADVOCATOR 2D IN INAUGURAL, 2 LENGTHS BACK

JoeSchenckFinishes Third.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Technician, who had been sulking in his barn between lackadaisical efforts in recent weeks, felt the stir of returning ambition as the Arlington Park meeting opened yesterday. He showed spirit as they saddled him for the $2,500 Inaugural Handicap, he was alert as he lined up beside six rivals in the starting gate and he sprang out like a jack in the box when he got the signal.

What was even more important, he ran like a genuine thoroughbred all the way, finishing more than two lengths ahead of the 9 to 5 favorite, Charles S. Howard's Advocator. Technician's Woolford Farm stablemate, Joe Schenck, was third.

The Woolford entry was second choice at 5 to 2, but most of these in the crowd of 12,000 who wagered on this pair were pinning their hopes on Joe Schenck, who had won a six furlong stake event recently at Lincoln Fields while Technician was running last in the same race.

He Does Right Well.

Considering the condition of the track, which had been soaked with rain over the week-end and doused again by an early afternoon shower yesterday, Technician's time of 1:24 for the seven furlongs was an excellent effort.

The Calumet farm's Easy Mon and John Marsch's Kings Blue offered Technician most of his competition during the run down the backstretch. Joe Schenck moved up fast approaching the far turn. Advocator was quite a way back in the earlier stages, but he began closing ground on the bend.

As they came into the stretch, Technician held a lead of half a length over Kings Blue and Joe Schenck, who were racing head and head. Easy Mon was still running well. Advocator lost ground by going fairly wide, but came on boldly when straightened out. He swept by his rivals one by one in the last sixteenth, but he couldn't get to the winner.

Roman Has a Time.

Joseph E. Widener's Roman was forced to call on all of his reserve in winning the Barrington purse, a six furlong sprint in which he was established as the 4 to 5 favorite against a field of seven other high grade three year olds several of which are eligible for the Classic. He beat the Shady Brook farm's Connaught, a 14 to 1 shot, by a head while the Milky Way farm's Valtite was getting in third, five lengths farther back.

Roman, who is accustomed to taking the lead with a rush and holding it for at least three quarters of a mile regardless of what kind of company he's racing against, was under a continuous challenge from start to finish.

Displayer Turns Rascal.

Those who backed Roman so confidently collected $3.60, $3.20, and $2.60. Place and show tickets on Connaught were worth $8.20 and $4.60. Valtite returned $3.60 to show.

The race was preceded by an unfortunate incident which cost the betters $913 without a run for their money. That sum was bet on Displayer. During the parade to the post this horse threw his jockey, bolted thru the gate leading to the barns and bruised himself enough to warrant his withdrawal. Under a rule which defines a starter as a horse which has left the paddock on the way to the post, no money was refunded.

Inscoelda and Loque Take Tests for Matron.

Five good middle distance runners have been entered in the Park Ridge purse, the mile feature at Arlington Park today. Two of them, Superior farm's South American Loque and Woolford farm's Inscoelda, will receive their final tests for engagements in the Arlington Matron handicap, most important race for fillies and mares at the meeting, which will be the stake feature on Saturday.

Loque and Inscoelda also are nominated for the $15,000 gross Stars and Stripes handicap, the July 4 headliner. Joseph E. Widener's Bucking and Walmac farm's Chi are two other Stars and Stripes hopes, with Sir Jim James rounding out the field.

GALE, SHOWERS RUN UP SCORES IN JUNIOR GOLF

Three Deadlocked at 80 for Qualifying Round.

A trio of 'teen aged golfers fought wind and showers to tie for co-medalist honors in the Chicago open junior golf championship at the Itasca Country club yesterday. They are Edward Harrington of Flossmoor, 42—38—80; Walter Durham of Elgin, 41—39—80, and Peter Mazzetta of New Trier, 39—41—80.

Sixty-four of an original field of 115 qualified for the match play rounds, the start of which will be delayed until tomorrow because of a tournament previously scheduled for today. Two 18 hole rounds of match play will be held Wednesday and Thursday with the 36 hole final scheduled for Friday.

Pasquale Petti Shoots 81.

One stroke behind the leaders was Pasquale Petti of Indian Hill, who posted a 42—39—81. Three tied for third place with 82. They were Herb Chambers, Sunset Valley, 42—40—82; Jack Krejci, Edgewood Valley, 43—39—82, and Gordon Sibley, Skokie, 41—41—82.

Harrington, a six foot Thornton High school student, qualified in last year's tournament, but lost in the first round of match play. He was one of those caught in one of the numerous rain flurries that swept the course. He scored a deuce at the 191 yard 10th hole.

GIANT BEN MOROZ DEFEATS MARTIN ON SPLIT DECISION

Ben Moroz, giant Philadelphia boxer, was awarded a split decision over Selman Martin of the south side in a hard eight round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

Moroz, who is 6 feet 10 inches tall and weighed 286½ pounds, had to fight at top speed all the way for the victory. Referee Johnny Behr called the match a draw, but Judges William O'Connell and George Kenny each voted for big Ben. Some of the 1,426 spectators booed in the belief Martin, who carried 202 pounds, should have received a draw. Moroz, however, showed promise of developing into a contender. Gross receipts were $1,622.

Johnny Pleasant, last year's Chicago Golden Gloves lightweight champion, knocked out Pat Thomas of Detroit in the first round. A blow to the body which ended the encounter was called low by fans who were not aware the no foul rule is enforced in this state. Thomas, who recovered without any apparent ill effects was a substitute for Sammy Musco of Omaha. Dr. Frank A. Lagorio of the Illinois boxing commission rejected Musco because of impaired vision.

Jimmy Bivins, a talented gent from Cleveland, pounded out a verdict in eight rounds over Frankie Hughes, Clinton, Ind., middleweight.

Floyd Hagen, St. Paul lightweight, scored a disputed triumph over Gene Ward in eight rounds. It was the most exciting fight on the card.

Amateur boxing shows will be held tonight in Legion stadium, 6440 North Western avenue; White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, and Savoy arena, 47th street and South Park avenue. Joe Dupont, city Golden Gloves featherweight champion, will meet Thorsten Ahlbeck in a five round windup in Legion stadium. Lou Angelucci and Jack Wittinghill, Bloomington, Ill., middleweight, will clash in a five round co-feature.

Cardinals Sign Andy Chisick, Rookie Center

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Andrew Chisick, known as Handy Andy around Philadelphia, where he has been the star center on Villanova's football team for the last three years, was signed by the Chicago Cardinals yesterday.

Center has been one of the positions that needed more attention than the Cardinals could give it the last few years. Ki Aldrich, the All-Star from Texas Christian, helped the situation last fall, but the Cardinals continued to have trouble there because they lacked adequate relief for Aldrich.

Chisick is expected to provide this relief. A native of Newark, N. J., Chisick has a wide reputation in the east as an all round athlete. He captained Villanova's basketball team in 1937 and has been an iron man in the varsity football line for the last three seasons.

He weighs 210 pounds and stands six feet one inch. Eastern scouts report he is especially fast and thru his basketball has developed coördination that would make him an outstanding back field candidate on any college squad. He is 22 years old.

Chisick will report to the Cardinals on Aug. 9, when Coach Jimmy Conzelman assembles the squad at Morgan Park Military academy for preseason training.

The ninth annual golf party of the engineering division of the Greater Chicago Safety Council will be held tomorrow at the Cog Hill Golf and Country club. E. S. Beaumont is chairman of the committee. Prizes will be given in each of six groups.

Approximately 1,000 Knights of Columbus and their guests will compete in the 13th annual all-state K. of C. golf tournament tomorrow at Olympia Fields Country club.

Thomas D. Griffin, chairman of the Illinois State K. of C. athletic commission, under whose supervision the event is held, reports a long list of trophies has been provided. Tom Sheehan Jr., winner of the championship last year, will have to contend with Johnny Banks, the 1938 champion, who was out of competition last year; Sid Smith, who finished second with 74 in the 1939 tourney; Fritz Jordan, 1938 runnerup; Johnny Krutilla and many others. Sheehan's 1939 score of 68 was four under par for the Olympia course and set a new record low for amateur golfers there.

In a special match between the Chicago police and fire departments, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, the police foursome will be seeking its third consecutive victory to take permanent possession of the Judge John F. O'Connell trophy. Frank McNamara, winner of the third low gross last year, led the police squad to a 319 to 343 victory over the firemen.

WEHRLE ENTERS ILLINOIS STATE GOLF TOURNEY

Danville, Ill., June 24 (AP).—Wilford Wehrle, formerly of Racine, Wis., will make his first bid for the Illinois state amateur golf championship this week, a fact that comes under the head of bad news for other contenders.

Wehrle, who recently changed his residence to Chicago, has been recognized for the last few years as one of the country's steadiest and most versatile shotmakers. He rates as a top flight title possibility in the annual tournament beginning here Wednesday.

MINNESOTA STAR LEADS IN COLLEGE GOLF WITH A 70

tournament representative of University of California at Los Angeles; Bert McDowell of Louisiana State, and Jack Selby of Princeton. A stroke behind them were Warren Tansey, Michigan State graduate; Henry Castillo of Louisiana State, and Jack Emery of the University of Michigan.

Down among the 78 shooters, and faced with the prospect of a good day's work in tomorrow's second and final 18 holes of the medal play phase of the tournament, were such able lads as Skip Alexander of Duke, Billy Hall of Iowa State, a 1939 semi-finalist, and Bill Gilbert, Ohio State's Western conference champion.

The strangest round of the day was submitted by one of Alexander's partners, Buck Luce of Texas. Buck, holder of the Southwest conference title, came down with a "Sam Snead" 8 at the first hole, a par four, but fought back for a fine 74.

Late Showers a Handicap.

The early starters set out under gray skies, but by mid-afternoon the later ones played thru showers and the field was nearly home before the mist riding the ridges of Mount Aeolus and Mount Equinox fled. The scores mounted in keeping with the drizzle, which made pitch-holding a difficult trick.

Croonquist had the best out nine of the day with his 33, a performance duplicated on the back nine by McDowell, the young man who was twice runner-up in the Western junior and who now holds the Southern Intercollegiate crown. Berl, who led Stanford to the team championship last year, made a final rally after teeing off with bogey fives on the first two holes. Two Holy Cross football players, Ed Foy and John Kellar, also did right well with a 75 and a 76, respectively. Burke, the 1938 winner, who just finished capturing the Metropolitan amateur, hit only three greens in a rather hectic round, but required just 22 putts.

Finish Qualifying Today.

The qualifying round will be concluded with tomorrow's 18 holes. The low 64 scorers for these 36 holes will qualify for the match play bracket, which opens Wednesday with the two 18 hole rounds and repeats that procedure Thursday. Friday's semi-finals and Saturday's championship match will be at 36 holes.

The team championship also will be determined by tomorrow night. The low four scorers from any university or college will be awarded possession of the Maxwell trophy for one year. Louisiana State took the lead today with a 36 hole aggregate of 294.

In the 18 hole standings L. S. U. was followed by Princeton, 303; Stanford, 304; Georgetown, 305; Illinois, 306; Duke, 307; Iowa State, 308, and Ohio State and Texas, 311.

Aside from Croonquist, Tansey and Emery, the best of the central states scorers were Johnny Holmstrom of Illinois, with a 75, which might well have been a 72 except for a 5-6 finish, and Burleigh Jacobs of Wisconsin, with 75. The 76 detail included Herb Patton of Illinois, Stanley Kowal of Michigan State, and Charles Evans and Gene Durant of Ohio State. Chet Bland, Northwestern captain, and Alex Welsh of Illinois, had 77s.

75 LEADERS BACK C. Y. O.-HAWAIIAN BOXING MATCHES

Meet with Bishop Sheil to Plan Anniversary.

A group of 75 prominent Chicagoans met with Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the Catholic Youth organization, at a luncheon in the Palmer House yesterday to discuss observance of the 10th anniversary of the founding of the C. Y. O.

The principal topic was the C. Y. O. amateur boxing show in Soldier's field Wednesday night, July 10, before an expected attendance of 40,000. A Hawaiian team will meet the undefeated C. Y. O. boxers. Included in the Hawaiian delegation are two boys who won National A. A. U. titles in Boston recently.

Tickets for the event are on sale at the C. Y. O. headquarters, 31 East Congress street.

Kennelly Named Chairman.

Martin H. Kennelly was appointed chairman of the executive committee which is promoting the sale and distribution of tickets for the July 10 event. Chairmen of subcommittees and district committees will assist.

A proclamation designating July 10 as C. Y. O. day was issued by Mayor Edward J. Kelly yesterday. The proclamation acclaims warmly the community service by the C. Y. O. and commends the work that Bishop Sheil and the C. Y. O. have accomplished in behalf of the boys and girls of the city. It adds:

"In its 10 years of constructive activities, the C. Y. O. has made great contributions to our community by building finer characters, developing stronger and healthier bodies, promoting real citizenship and, in general, helping to make the community of Chicago sound and stable."

Program Far Reaching.

Founded at the outset of the depression to alleviate the suffering of needy youth and to provide boys and girls with educational and recreational opportunities, the C. Y. O. has since become one of the greatest youth agencies in the United States.

Under the personal direction of its founder who has been given the title of "Apostle of Youth," the C. Y. O. program of religion, recreation, education, and social service has influenced tens of thousands of boys and girls, particularly in cities where similar programs have been established under the direction of local C. Y. O.'s.

You can prevent baldness by heeding these warnings and ridding your scalp of the local causes of hair-loss.

More than a quarter-million persons have avoided baldness by permitting The Thomas' to rid their scalps of local scalp ills. Thomas treatment is based on the sound principle of first determining the exact cause of hair loss and then overcoming that specific cause. Your scalp itch soon ceases, dandruff disappears, abnormal hair-fall stops, and new hair grows on thin and bald spots.

Consult (in private, of course) with a Thomas expert today. He'll examine your scalp—without charge or obligation—and tell you exactly what can be done to help you have a good head of healthy hair.

PENN SUPERROAD POINTS WAY FOR CHICAGO PROJECT

Cost Affords Bargain in Life Saving.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., June 24.—America's first long distance superhighway—the Pennsylvania turnpike, extending 160 miles between here and Pittsburgh—represents safety and convenience approaching its cost of $70,050,000, which was met by federal financing.

A survey indicates, however, that the same amount of money spent for superhighways in Chicago would accommodate three times as much traffic and save three times as many lives and limbs.

In life saving and in travel facility, Chicago superhighways would be a triple bargain if the Public Works administration is satisfied with its donation of $29,250,000 to the cost of the turnpike. The Reconstruction Finance corporation, which underwrote $40,800,000 in bonds to cover the balance of the cost, could have learned of this comparison in benefits by consulting the United States bureau of public roads.

Removes Mountain Barrier.

The Pennsylvania turnpike, to be opened in August, will remove the Appalachian mountains as a barrier to fast and safe travel between the Mississippi valley and the Atlantic coast. After riding the new right of way and also covering the old U. S. 30 and U. S. 11 routes, this reporter is of no disposition to discount the value of the improvement here. But the facts favor Chicago as a site for a profitable investment of superhighway money.

For $70,050,000 in Chicago superhighways could be built from the outer drive in Grant park west beyond Maywood and northwest beyond the intersection of Higgins road, Bryn Mawr, and Harlem avenues. These are two locations most actively advocated for Chicago.

Those improvements in Chicago would subtract 34 deaths and 1,020 personal injuries from the city's motor massacre. These figures are an arithmetical calculation. They are based upon estimates of the volumes of superhighway traffic and upon the record of the outer drives in handling ten times as much travel per accident over their safety designs as is handled on conventional city thorofares per accident.

Old Routes Perilous.

The risks on the Lincoln highway, U. S. 30, thru the Pennsylvania mountains—hazards that can be avoided by paying a toll on the new road after next August—are indeed appreciable. Sharp curves, blind hill crests, steep grades, large trucks, and village main streets are among the perils.

Not as apparent but no less real, however, are the dangers in traveling the thorofares of Chicago's thru streets and boulevards on the west and the northwest sides, which could be escaped by superhighway construction. Accident records verify this impression that pedestrians, cross traffic, parkers, and stop and go lights are as risky as the bumpy, twisting, rising, dipping U. S. 30 trail thru the mountains—and just as wasteful of travel time.

A difference in volumes of usage, therefore, accounts for the contrast between the benefits of $70,050,000 spent on the Pennsylvania turnpike and a theoretical $70,050,000 spent on Chicago superhighways. The turnpike commission, interested in the sale of bonds to be retired by tolls, estimated that its superhighway will have a daily traffic of 3,350 motor vehicles. Traffic volumes on Chicago superhighways are reckoned as high as 90,000 cars a day.

Car Travel Compared.

With an average volume of 3,350 vehicles, there would be 536,000 vehicle miles of travel daily on the turnpike. The toll is to be approximately 1 cent a mile for passenger cars and 2 to 5 cents a mile for trucks, depending upon their size. On 28 miles of Chicago superhighway, costing $2,500,000 a mile, there would be 1,750,000 car miles of travel daily if the average volume were 70,000 cars a day, which is 22 per cent less than is passing thru Grant park.

Aside from political considerations, the toll explains why the RFC backed a $40,800,000 loan for the turnpike. Cook county, it was suggested here, might obtain a superhighway loan to be retired with its gasoline tax revenue rather than with tolls. The RFC support and the PWA grant were obtained by Walter A. Jones, president of the turnpike commission and a prominent Democrat, in 1937 when the New Deal futilely fought a return of Pennsylvania to the G. O. P. ranks.

[In a future article The Tribune's automobile editor will discuss design characteristics of this revolutionary turnpike, engineering features worthy of emulation in realizing the death-proof roadways advocated in The Tribune's editorial platform for Illinois and the midwest.]

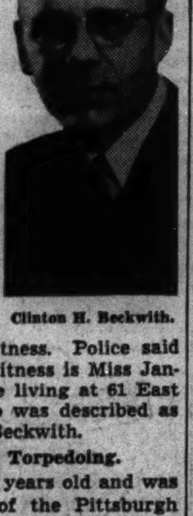
WORLD WAR HERO IS FOUND DEAD; INQUIRY ORDERED

Body Is Discovered by Daughter.

The coroner's office ordered an investigation last night into the death of Clinton H. Beckwith, business executive and world war hero.



Clinton H. Beckwith.

He was found dead in bed in his apartment at 5125 Kenwood avenue yesterday by his daughter, Gail, a summer student at the University of Chicago.

An inquest will be held today in the undertaking rooms at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Miss Beckwith is expected to be a witness. Police said another possible witness is Miss Janith Thulin, a nurse living at 61 East Goethe street, who was described as a close friend of Beckwith.

Hero of Ship Torpedoing.

Beckwith was 43 years old and was general manager of the Pittsburgh Pipe company. He was an ensign on the transport President Lincoln when it was torpedoed by a German submarine in June, 1918, and was credited with helping to save many lives.

Police said Beckwith moved from his home at 716 Shady avenue, Geneva, to the Kenwood avenue apartment a week ago so his daughter would be near her classrooms at the university.

Sunday night, police said, he told his daughter he had taken sedatives and was ill. Physicians were summoned, but his illness was not considered serious. Beckwith retired at dawn. At 9 a. m. yesterday his daughter found him dead.

Nurse in Apartment.

Police were notified. When they arrived they found Miss Thulin and Miss Beckwith in the apartment and listed them as possible witnesses. The police report indicated that Beckwith may have taken an overdose of sedatives.

Beckwith was the son of Arthur C. Beckwith, 4318 Greenwood avenue, a retired business man. The younger Beckwith served thruout the war, emerging with the rank of lieutenant. On Oct. 11, 1918, he married Frances Olmstead, a New York chorus girl. They were divorced. She died in 1923. Beckwith is survived by his widow, the former Dorothy Hough, daughter of a former auditor for the Pullman company, two sons, and a daughter.

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it.

Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.

If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.

Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

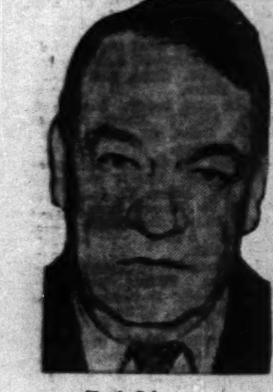
INDUSTRY WAR'S BACKBONE, SAYS HUGH JOHNSON

Terms Us Helpless; Rips Foreign Policy.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator, last night lashed into the "boneheaded blundering of England and France" and the "utter nonsense" of the Roosevelt administration's foreign policy.



Hugh Johnson.

He spoke before more than 1,000 delegates to the 36th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America at a banquet at the Hotel Sherman. His audience at times stopped him with cheers and applause.

"Industry is war and war is industry," Gen. Johnson said.

"Only 3 Rich Enough For War."

"Only three countries really ever had the wealth to make war—England, Germany and the United States. Of these three, ours is immeasurably stronger, much stronger than all the rest put together.

"Yes, ours is the richest galleon that ever sailed a pirate-infested sea.

"Yet, like a fat and inverted porcupine ready to be scooped out by any eager predatory talons, we lie here almost helpless in spite of our essential, insurmountable strength."

Hitler rose to power in 1933—almost to the day Roosevelt "was given to us," Gen. Johnson recalled—and announced his intentions to rearm and mobilize Germany.

Says France Waited Too Long.

"It was in 1935 that Hitler marched into the Saar and began to scrap the treaty of Versailles and the artificial structure of European alliances that had been strung on haywire and stuck together with spit to make the world safe for democracy," Gen. Johnson said. "At that time France, with her superiority and alliances and Hitler's weakness, could have cut thru Germany like a hot knife thru butter. She did nothing."

The slogan "They are fighting our wars" was characterized by Gen. Johnson as "sloganeering sophistry that is wholly untrue and deadly dangerous."

Large scale spending by the New Deal "to rake dead leaves over and over again until they fell apart" was assailed by Gen. Johnson. He deplored the talk of a third term and classed those who favor it as "third termites in the furniture of the White House."

Foreign Policy Assailed.

Discussing foreign policy, he said "the attitude of our government surely encouraged England to pull the trigger in this war."

Gen. Johnson recalled the steps taken to equip this country for war in 1917.

'Are we doing the same thing now?" he asked. "On your life we are not. We're stumbling along with an advisory commission to a council of national defense—which has no authority."

Advertising and the American way of life from the standpoint of the advertiser, the consumer and industry were discussed earlier in the opening speeches of the convention.

Mason Britton, chairman of the board of the federation, presented the keynote address before a major part of the 1,500 delegates who registered for the convention. Other speakers included Richard H. Grant, vice president of General Motors corporation; Paul Hollister, vice president of R. H. Macy, New York; and Dr. Alice Keliher, director of the Progressive Education association.

Cites Role of Advertising.

Advertising has played an important part in shaping the American way of life, Britton said.

"What is this American way of life?" Britton asked. "Here it is all about us. It is now, and always has been, made up of two parts: material things and our ideas and ideals.

"These ideas and ideals have always marched before, and material things, whatever they are, came marching or limping after. The trouble is, of course, that things have been so fascinating to us that some times our ideals have been forgotten.

"After a decade of disillusionment we stand beside the social, economic and political machinery that we put together, recognizing that parts of it are worn out and parts of it never should have been there—had we thought more about people and less about things."

He said self reliance must be a States and of business men in relation to their problems.

"Earned by Discipline."

"American business and advertising," Britton said, "have grown out of this fundamental of the American way of life: freedom for the individual earned by the disciplined self-reliance of the individual."

The viewpoint of industry was expressed by Grant.

"No other question concerns us in America so much as the defense of our institutions," he declared. "That defense no longer stops with production of military weapons.

"It is what is done in the first, second, third, fourth, and, if you

Effects of New Mail Pay Is Air Line Study

United Air Lines Transport corporation, which carries more mail than any other domestic airline, yesterday sent two representatives to Washington to study the effects of the recent order of the Civil Aeronautics authority concerning rates of airmail pay for the company.

Officials said that because of the complicated structure of the arrangements for handling the mail they were unable to determine immediately whether the new rates would result in increased revenue as it appeared on the surface.

Base Rates Increased.

The company yesterday received first word of the order in which a substantial increase retroactive to Oct. 27, 1938, in rates of airmail pay on three of its mail routes was reported. The order is also believed to set a new basis of rates on all four of the company's routes, effective July 1, which would materially increase the line's mail revenue.

According to the report, retroactive base rates have been set at 31 cents an airplane mile for the New York to Chicago to San Francisco route, 33 cents for the Seattle to San Diego run, 36 cents for the Salt Lake City to Seattle route, and 37 cents for the Cheyenne to Denver route.

Present rates, according to the report, are listed at 31 cents, 27 cents, 33 1-3 cents, and 29 cents respectively. Base rates to become effective July 1 appear to be somewhat reduced.

Number of Trips a Factor.

These two sets of rates, however, do not reflect the actual situation, officials explained, because of two factors.

The order, it was explained, does not make clear for how many trips the air line will be paid. The company now flies regularly several credit trips—those with mail for which they are not reimbursed. The order is understood to abolish credit trips.

The other factor is the difference between the base rates quoted and the actual load rates. The company is paid extra for mail loads weighing more than 300 pounds. Thus, the actual rate paid frequently differs from the base rate.

The retroactive rates are to apply to July 1 from Oct. 27, 1938, when the air line applied for a redetermination of the mail charges.

OPERATING RATE AT STEEL MILLS CUT THIS WEEK

American steel mills will pare their operating schedules 1.2 points to 86.5 per cent of theoretical capacity this week—the first drop in nine weeks—the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday.

The setback was largely the result of suspension of French steel orders in the independent mills, steel men indicated. They said the slack probably will be taken up soon by domestic defense orders.

Since the week of April 22, when operations reached a low point of 60 per cent after a tumble from near capacity levels late in 1939, the rate had risen steadily to 87.7 per cent last week. A month ago the rate was 76.9 per cent and a year ago 54.3 per cent.

Steel men said the larger companies, including the subsidiaries of United States Steel corporation, probably will show little change in operating schedules this week.

General Motors Contract with C. I. O. Union Signed

Detroit, Mich., June 24 [Special].—The new agreement between the United Automobile Workers of America [C. I. O.] and General Motors corporation was signed here today. The action made the contract effective. R. J. Thomas, president of U. A. W. A., said the signing followed approval of the terms by all except one of the locals represented in the 54 plants covered by the agreement. That local, which Thomas did not name, has delayed action for a week. Thomas said meetings which approved the agreement were attended by about 90,000 of the 140,000 workers affected.

Centralia, Ill., June 24 (AP).—An official of the Gulf Refining company announced today that Gulf's No. 5 Felton, a well in the Centralia field flowed 12,003 barrels of oil in 24 hours, the largest initial production in Illinois oil history.

AIR LINES' PASSENGER TRAFFIC IN MAY SETS PEAK FOR ANY MONTH

Revenue passenger miles flown by the air lines of the United States in May established an all-time record for any month, increasing 13.49 per cent over April and 57.93 per cent over May, 1939, Edgar S. Gorrell, president of the Air Transportation Association of America, reported yesterday.

The gain in the first five months of 1940 over the corresponding period of 1939 was 63.85 per cent. The total for May was 90,662,538 passenger miles; for April, 79,885,146, and for May, 1939, 57,407,080. April was the former record month in air line passenger business.

A comparison of revenue passenger miles by months follows:

MONOPOLY SUIT FILED IN BUILDING MATERIALS CASE

The United States department of justice filed a 46 page complaint in the federal district court here yesterday, instituting antitrust action against eight building material companies.

All of the companies, engaged in the mineral wool industry, are charged with misusing patent privileges to circumvent the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts by attempting to acquire a monopoly in mineral wool, establishing price fixing schemes for unpatented products, and restricting their use.

The eight companies involved are the United States Gypsum company, Chicago; Slayter & Co., Chicago; Johns-Manville corporation, New York; Johns-Manville Sales corporation, New York; Eagle-Picher Lead company, Cincinnati; Eagle-Picher Sales company, Cincinnati; General Insulating and Manufacturing company, St. Louis, and the Barrett company, New York.

FTC CHARGES 30 LIQUOR GROUPS CONTROL PRICES

Washington, D. C., June 24 (AP).—The federal trade commission announced tonight that it had issued a price-fixing complaint against the National Retail Liquor Package Stores Association, Inc., of New York, its officials and members including 29 state or sectional trade associations. They were given 20 days to reply.

The complaint charges, the commission said, that under a threat of boycott the respondents combined to fix prices, compelling manufacturers, importers, and wholesalers not to sell to retailers who cut prices, and "spied upon" cut-rate dealers, reporting them to the wholesalers.

"Among alleged results of these practices," the commission said, "are prevention of price competition, increase of prices to the public, and creation of a monopoly."

SEC Denies Middle West Plea to Postpone Hearing

Washington, D. C., June 24 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission today denied a motion by the Middle West corporation to postpone until July 29 the hearing scheduled under the "death sentence" clause of the holding company act regarding the company and its subsidiaries. The hearing will be held on Friday, as previously scheduled.

Britain Seeks 250 Carloads of Dry Milk

The British purchasing commission has offered to buy 250 cars of dry skimmed milk from United States producers, the Chicago Mercantile exchange said yesterday. The offer was confirmed by the marketing news service of the department of agriculture.

The purchase will be in addition to the 1,500,000 cases of evaporated milk which England is seeking in this country as reported in THE TRIBUNE Saturday. The commission also bought 20,000,000 pounds of lard from Chicago packers last week in a straight cash transaction.

Funds Already on Deposit.

According to authorities in the evaporated and dry milk industries, British funds have been deposited with the Chase National Bank in New York to pay for the milk.

Dried milk is used principally by food manufacturers such as bakeries, confectioneries, sausage manufacturers and the ice cream industry. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation purchased large quantities this spring for relief distribution in the south.

Like the evaporated milk and the lard, much of the dried milk will be supplied from the Chicago area. The American Dried Milk institute stated yesterday that Wisconsin, New York and Washington were the leading producers.

Equals 10 Million Pounds.

According to the institute, 250 car loads are equivalent to about 10,000,000 pounds of dried milk. For domestic shipment, the milk is packed in barrels weighing 200 pounds and are shipped 200 barrels to the car. Prices at present are about $18 to $20 per barrel.

Chicago authorities said Britain may find it difficult to buy 250 cars of dried milk in this country as the industry suffered a shortage of supplies in November. Production has just passed the peak this season and stocks are slightly above last year. Annual production totals about 410,000,000 pounds, monthly consumption this year has averaged above 30,000,000 pounds.

HARRISON STAYS IN RESERVE BANK POST UNTIL JAN. 1

New York, June 24 (AP).—Alfred L. Aiken, chairman of the board of New York Life Insurance company, today announced that directors of that institution had deferred until Jan. 1, 1941, the effective date of the appointment of George L. Harrison to the presidency of the company.

Harrison, who is now president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, was to have become president of the life insurance company July 1. The effective date of the appointment was postponed, Aiken said, at the request of the board of directors of the reserve bank with the concurrence of the board of governors of the federal reserve system, because of the international situation.

DEBATE FRENCH FUNDS' STATUS IN NEW TANGLE

Title Hinges on U. S. Recognition Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Confused over the apparent existence of two French governments, administration officials are studying the status of approximately 1 billion dollars in French funds frozen in this country. They also are considering suggestions that the United States take possession of the French merchant marine, fleet, or island possessions in this hemisphere in payment on the French war debt.

The White House announced today that the state department is considering hundreds of unofficial suggestions that French property be taken over as part settlement of the French debt of more than 4 billion dollars hanging over from the world war.

Sent to State Department.

"These suggestions arrived after the French collapse," Stephen Early, the President's secretary said. "All have been referred to the state department." He said that he knew nothing about reports that the federal government may file a libel against the French luxury liner Normandie, tied up in New York since the outbreak of the war. Such a libel would prevent the liner's recall to France, where she would fall into German hands.

The question whether the United States will continue to recognize the government of Marshal Petain or will transfer recognition to the provisional government set up in London must also be decided. The status of French government funds impounded by presidential order to prevent seizure by the Nazis depends on the recognition accorded by the United States.

Still Licensing Payments.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today that the treasury still was licensing the payment of French funds on previous commitments made in the United States and that each transaction was subjected to close scrutiny to ascertain that the rightful owner had authorized the release without duress. As for future action on government funds, this depends upon the state department decision on recognition.

On questions about the likelihood of taking over French possessions in payment on the debts, Morgenthau replied: "I don't care to comment."

Reports Cable Service to Holland Is Restored

Curtiss to Double Propeller Plant; Other Industries Busy

News from industry yesterday included announcement that Curtiss-Wright corporation will double the manufacturing facilities of its propeller division before the end of September.

Guy W. Vaughan.

A one story factory of steel, brick, and glass will be constructed near the Curtiss-Wright field at Caldwell, N. J. It will have 230,000 square feet of floor space. About 1,500 skilled workmen will be employed at the plant after it is completed.

The addition will more than match the total floor space of 220,000 square feet of the company's propeller plants at Clifton, N. J., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Will Aid Mass Production.

Guy W. Vaughan, president of Curtiss-Wright, said the addition will permit the company to keep pace with the increasing trend toward mass production of aircraft engines and planes for the nation's defense program.

Inland Steel company, Chicago, confirmed a report that it has been offered an order for 22,500 tons of rails and accessories by the Rio Grande do Sul railway in Brazil.

"Final execution of the contract is contingent on settlement of details," a statement issued by Inland said. "One of the vice presidents of the company is en route to Rio de Janeiro by plane to discuss these matters with Brazilian officials."

Federal Financing Involved.

It is understood that the sale, if consummated, will be financed in part by the Export-Import bank of Washington, D. C.

The Chesapeake and Ohio and the Nickel Plate railroads announced allocation of orders for 46,000 tons of rail. Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation was awarded 25,650 tons of the order, Inland Steel, 14,880 tons, and Bethlehem Steel, 5,470. C. & O. is taking 35,000 tons of 131 pound rail and Nickel Plate 11,000 tons of 112 pound rail, including 3,800 tons announced last week.

Railroad circles said that Mitsui & Co. of Japan has ordered six locomotives from the American Locomotive company for service in Korea. The reports were not amplified.

Republic to Acquire Furnace.

Republic Steel is arranging to take over a blast furnace at Troy, N. Y., under an agreement with the Hudson Valley Fuel corporation, according to reports. The furnace, with a daily capacity of 500 tons of pig iron, will give Republic smelting facilities near the source of ores from their New York properties.

Contracts for clothing and blankets totaling $2,997,000 were signed by the war department yesterday.

TRAINING LAGS IN INDUSTRIES, STUDY REVEALS

Chicago Commerce Group Asks Action.

A survey by the Chicago Association of Commerce, completed at a time when the United States is facing a shortage of skilled labor in developing its huge armament program, disclosed yesterday that only a relatively few Chicago enterprises have any well defined systems of vocational training for employés.

William Bachrach suggested methods.

Officials said, however, that work already done by the association, which has offered to help member companies institute training programs adapted to their requirements, has influenced several companies to undertake new "in service" educational programs.

Situation Termed "Alarming."

"Our skilled workers are steadily growing older," the association's report said, "and, to alarming extent, the young men just out of high school are receiving little or no preparations for taking their places as productive, useful, and self supporting members of the community."

A tendency among many companies to ease up on their employé training methods, especially since the slump of 1929, was noted by the survey. This drift, in turn, has led in some cases to a decline in the quality of workmanship, a lessened feeling of responsibility, and a weakened morale, the report said.

Urges More Attention to Youth.

The association declared it is a responsibility of business to help to make the community a better place in which to live, work, and grow. It said there is a need for devoting more attention to the 1,700,000 American youths who enter the labor market each year to be adjusted to the 18,000 different occupations.

The principal reason for the lack of attention on the part of so many companies to provide "in service" training was found to be a failure to appreciate the possibilities of effective training.

A second reason was the cost, along with the obvious difficulty of directly measuring results against expenditures for training. A third cause was

Traders Bet on Willkie and Buy Utilities

Utilities stocks outdistanced the rest of the stock market yesterday as trading activity in them increased. Market observers attributed the gain to a possibility that Wendell L. Willkie, a utility company president and leading critic of the New Deal TVA program, would be nominated the Republican presidential candidate.

Wall Street betting on Willkie was reported to have swung favorably his way as even money was wagered late in the day. Earlier odds were said to have been 2 to 2.4 that he would be nominated.

The Dow Jones average for 15 utilities stocks rose 1.10 points compared with a gain of only 0.15 point for 20 railroad shares and 0.93 point for 30 industrials. Ordinarily a quiet section of the market, utilities have aroused more than usual trading activity. In the stocks used for the Dow Jones averages, 115,600 shares were traded among the utilities against 53,800 in the industrials and 17,300 in the rails.

The unexpected interest in utilities was also evident Saturday. Trading volume in the utilities stocks comprising the averages was 33,100 shares against 22,300 in the industrials and 7,600 in the rails.

The Willkie "boom" was interpreted by market traders as indicating that investors and speculators expect that Willkie's nomination and election as President would modify the government's attitude toward utilities. Willkie is known as a vigorous opponent of government power competition and especially of the Tennessee Valley authority.

FIRST BIG FINANCING SINCE EARLY IN MAY IS PLACED ON MARKET

In the first large corporate financing move since early last May a $38,000,000 issue of Jersey Central Power and Light company 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds was offered yesterday by a syndicate headed by First Boston corporation, E. H. Rollins & Sons, and Halsey, Stuart & Co. The bonds, due in 1965, were priced at 102½, plus interest.

Proceeds of the sale of the bonds, together with bank loans of $5,300,000 and other company funds, will be used to redeem $42,225,000 of outstanding first mortgage bonds bearing higher interest rates.

Despite the Jersey Central issue, however, bond men said new financing in June was expected to be the smallest for any month since last October.

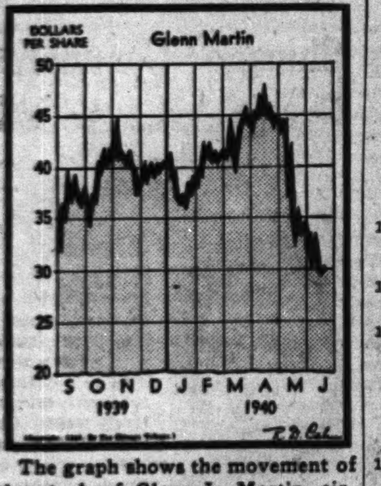
New York Stocks.

New York, June 24 (AP).—Buying, concentrated principally in utilities, propped the stock market today in the face of adverse war news. Uncertainty over trends of political sentiment at the opening of the Republican national convention slowed trading some.

Volume increased near the finish as the power group turned relatively active. Altho many leaders closed with small declines, gains of fractions to more than a point were in the majority. Transfers totaled 471,990 shares.

Steel shares generally held even or slightly up notwithstanding an estimated dip in this week's mill operations, first in nine weeks. Air transports pointed higher as earnings forecasts for the aerial carriers were revised upward. Motors were higher, altho production of new cars was believed approaching a sizable letdown.

Some pessimism was engendered by the reported terms of the German-French armistice and word the French had signed terms set forth by Italy. All of this, to some quarters, spelled further heavy export losses by the United States.



The graph shows the movement of the stock of Glenn L. Martin, airplane maker, since the start of the war.

New York Bonds.

New York, June 24 (AP).—All divisions of the bond market registered price gains today.

Corporate issues advanced as much as 5 points in isolated cases. United States government obligations closed 21-32 point higher to 8-32 lower, and a lift in German, Italian, and Latin American bonds put the foreign list average ahead.

Ahead by a point or more at the close were Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s at 120⅝, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 48, Remington Rang 4¼s at 95¼, Western Union 5s at 62, International Mercantile Marine 6s at 55, Chicago Great Western 4s at 26¾, and Nickel Plate 5½s at 60¼.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading continued light on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but active issues closed mostly higher. A total of 14,000 shares was sold. Of the 58 issues in which transactions were recorded, 30 advanced, 13 declined, and 15 were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust shares rose 5 points in Chicago bank stock trading yesterday. American National, Chicago Title and First National each gained 2 points. City National was up a point and Continental Illinois ½ point. Harris Trust was unchanged.

START HEARINGS ON NEW PLAN FOR NORTH WESTERN

Night Sessions Ordered on Reorganization.

Hearings on the Interstate Commerce commission's plan for reorganization of the Chicago and North Western railroad, which has been in reorganization since 1935, were begun yesterday. Federal Judge John P. Barnes ordered that evening sessions be held in order to speed the proceedings.

Attorneys among the more than a score representing various committees and interests estimated that about 30 hours will be required to submit the evidence to the court before the arguments on the plan are started. The court then set aside three full days, including the evening sessions lasting until 9:30 p. m., to hear the evidence. It is expected that the remainder of the week will be devoted to arguments.

Eliminates Stock Value.

The I. C. C. plan, reorganizing the railroad under Section 77 of the amended bankruptcy law, eliminates both common and preferred stockholders on the grounds that the value of the road is less than its mortgages. The plan was submitted to the court after rejection of two plans sponsored by the railroad which provided for some representation by the stockholders in the reorganized property. The rejections followed opposition by several classes of bondholders who charged that the road's assets are not sufficient to pay off the mortgages in full.

Shortly before the presentation of evidence was begun, Attorney Luther Walter, special counsel for the railroad, filed a motion to recommit the plan to the I. C. C. for further hearing on the grounds that the commission failed to set a value on the property. Judge Barnes said he would hear the motion after the evidence had been submitted. Walter also renewed his pleas for more time in which to prepare his case and asked that the railroad's general counsel be assigned to aid him in its presentation, but was overruled.

Calls Plan Unfair.

The railroad and the common and preferred stockholders are opposing the I. C. C. plan. The stockholders' equity which the plan proposes to eliminate has a par value of about $182,730,000.

Walter has charged that the stockholders were being deprived of their holdings unfairly by the plan. He asserted in previous petitions that the plan discriminates in favor of certain creditors and that the preferred and common stock should be found to have some value and the holders given purchase rights to buy new stock in view of the possibility that earnings will improve.

Walter has contended further that the capitalization of the reorganized road should be not less than $705,153,992, instead of the $449,974,309 approved in the I. C. C. plan.

Ohio Oil Wins 1930 Income Tax Refund of $448,455

Toledo, O., June 24 [Special].—In a settlement reached today in United States District court between the government and the Ohio Oil company, Findlay, O., the government this afternoon refunded $448,455 of the company's income taxes for 1930. The company started its suit two years ago, claiming excessive assessments thru wrong interpretations of the law covering such items as intangible development costs, depletion deductions, depreciation, and retirement losses.

Cuban Imports Top Year Ago, but Are Under 1938

Washington, D. C., June 24 [Special].—Cuban imports during the first four months of 1940 totaled $38,580,945, compared to $35,881,319 in the corresponding period of 1939 and $43,112,350 in the seame period of 1938.

Construction of Many Small Nitrogen Factories Is Urged

Asserting that bombardment of the United States cannot be regarded as impossible, Prof. J. Enrique Zanetti of Columbia university yesterday urged the United States to act immediately to build up adequate supplies of military nitrogen. The recommendation was made in a report to the American Chemical society in which he said the Nazi "blitzkreig" warfare with its large consumption of high explosives in airplane bombs may upset all previous estimates of nitrogen requirements.

"From the billions that are being appropriated for defense, a scant 80 million dollars would duplicate our existing capacity for nitrogen fixation," Prof. Zanetti said in his report, "Nitrogen and the New Preparedness." "Plants should be built in the interior and should be of not over 10,000 to 20,000 tons capacity, diminishing thereby the risks to the general supply from sabotage or bombardment."

German Supply Extensive.

He said that Germany, with an annual nitrogen capacity of over 1,500,000 metric tons, can afford to lose even its 850,000 metric ton Leuna plant, because it now controls Belgian, Dutch, and Norwegian plants with combined capacities of about 250,000 metric tons. He estimated Germany's safety factor in its fixed nitrogen reserves to be far above that of any other nation.

Reliance upon Muscle Shoals as a nitrogen reserve was termed "hardly justifiable" by Prof. Zanetti. He asserted that with an annual output of 40,000 tons, 160,000 tons of explosive could be produced, which would allow only 25 bombs per plane per year if 20 per cent of the proposed "50,000 airplanes" were bombers.

Called Suitable Substitute.

Prof. Zanetti said that with proper preparation for nitrogen fixation, a nation can rely on ammonium nitrate as an inexhaustible source of satisfactory high explosive regardless of its supply of toluene, the basis of TNT. Ammonium nitrate is cheaper, but is not considered quite as effective as TNT.

"The building of nitrogen fixation plants is not an overnight development," Prof. Zanetti said. "We found that out in the world war. The tragedy of attempted improvisation under high tension has been too apparent, and we must have the entirety of our probable requirement within the limits of the United States. Nitrogen should not be treated as just another commercial commodity, but should be surrounded with all the safety precautions demanded by our most treasured possession.

Mrs. Vincent won the award for her work in the wholesale grocery advertising field. Mason Britton, chairman of the federation, and Miss Helen C. Vance, retiring president of the Women's Advertising Club of Chicago, presented the trophy.

They were Barbara Daly Anderson, director of Consumer Service bureau of Parents' Magazine; Donna Newell Ames, advertising manager of the Bon Marche department store, Seattle, Wash., and Gussie O. Jones, advertising manager of the Atlanta Gas Light company, Atlanta, Ga.

The trophy is presented annually by the Chicago Women's Advertising club in memory of Josephine Snapp, former president of the club.

Truck Lines Report Fewer Accidents During April

A big decrease in the number of truck accidents during March and April was reported yesterday by the Greater Chicago Safety council. According to the report, the March accident rate was a decline of about 20 per cent from February, and the April rate was 10 per cent below that of March. In April, the 10,872 vehicles reporting to the council operated 11,640,601 miles with 451 accidents, or an average of 25,766 miles per accident. Seventy-one of the 120 truck fleets reporting operated the entire month without an accident.

New York, June 24 (AP).—Daily average sales of fluid milk in May totaled 6,514,060 quarts, a decrease of 2.41 per cent from 6,674,887 in May last year, the Milk Industry Foundation said today. The figures were based on reports from leading distributors in 136 markets.

McLEAN COUNTY EXPECTS TO USE 2,000 CORN BINS

Bloomington, Ill., June 24 [Special].—Two thousand more steel bins for storing shelled corn under the federal "ever normal" granuary program will be needed this fall in McLean county, O. V. Douglass, in charge of the granary program in this area, said today.

He based his estimate on prospects for a normal corn crop. Work will start at once on concrete foundations for 28 new type steel bins to be erected at Randolph soon after July 4.

Seven million bushels of corn now is sealed in farmers' cribs in McLean county as security for federal loans of 57 cents a bushel. Douglass said experience indicates that one million bushels of this will be resealed on farms and six million delivered to the Community Credit corporation in payment of the loans.

Elevators in the county will have room to store about one million bushels.

MERCURY OUTPUT CLIMBS AS WAR BOOSTS PRICES

Mercury production has increased and consumption has lagged in the United States during the first four months of 1940, the bureau of mines, department of the interior, reported yesterday.

Domestic production has been spurred by a rise in price, because of war demands for use in explosives, and the difficulty of getting supplies from Spain, formerly the principal source.

Output in April, according to the bureau of mines, totaled 2,700 flasks, compared with 2,500 in March, 2,200 in February, and 1,800 in January. Consumption was 1,900 flasks in April, 1,800 in March, 2,000 in February, and 2,300 in January.

In contrast with previous years when approximately half of the country's mercury was imported, only one flask was brought into the country in April, and 20 in March—all from Mexico.

Stockholders of the American Holding corporation, which controled the common stock of the American National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, yesterday voted dissolution of the corporation and immediate distribution of assets. The distribution will be made on the basis of one share of common bank stock for each eight shares of the holding corporation stock. A small cash distribution after taxes and expenses have been deducted is planned. The corporation held 6,250 of the 10,000 bank shares.

The report also disclosed a gift of 11,360 shares of Carnegie Metal company $1 par common stock by David R. Demaree of Pittsburgh on April 4. The beneficiary was not named. Demaree also gave away 160 shares on April 12, reducing his holding to 1,250 shares.

British, German Moneys Sag in Terms of Dollar

British, Canadian, and German currencies dropped in relation to the United States dollar in a thin market yesterday at New York. The British pound closed at $3.70 for a loss of 3½ cents. The Canadian dollar lost .37½ of a cent, finishing at 80.75 cents. The German mark was nominally quoted at 40.10 cents, down 0.05 of a cent.

BUTTER PRICES CLIMB TO NEW HIGH LEVEL FOR JUNE SINCE 1937

Butter prices in the Chicago wholesale market rose yesterday to the highest June levels since 1937. Altho production continued larger than a year ago, Chicago receipts showed a decline. Traders attributed the rise in prices to demand from the Pacific Coast for butter from the midwest. At the new level, butter was a full cent above the price at which the government had maintained the market.

The advance in the cash market boosted the November future price 1/10 cent a pound to 27¾ cents, the highest closing price since May 10. Reports that Britain is in the market for dried skim milk were a strengthening factor.

Trading in the October egg future continued slow with prices sagging 0.05 cent a dozen. The government's price maintenance program expires June 30, and traders held back awaiting clarification of policy.

LABOR SHORTAGE IN CITY LAUNDRY BUSINESS TOLD

A shortage of between 900 and 1,200 workers in Chicago's laundry business was revealed yesterday by James Donovan, office manager of local No. 46 of the Laundry Workers' International union. He said the shortage was so acute that the union had advertised for experienced workers as an accommodation to the Laundry Owners' association.

Donovan said he had received 400 responses, but that many candidates lacked sufficient experience. About 75, however, were placed during the day. They will be given 30 days' trial before being admitted as members of the union, paying $3 initiation fee and dues of 35 cents a week. Donovan estimated he could place from 15 to 20 workers a day for the next 60 days.

He said the present union scale, ranging from a minimum of 33 cents an hour to a maximum of 51 cents, went into effect last fall, representing an increase of 1 cent an hour. He said union members felt that the scale should be higher and that many recently had left laundry work to enter higher paid vocations, causing the present labor shortage.

BANKERS ASSURE PRESIDENT OF AID IN DEFENSE TASK

Washington, D. C., June 24.—President Roosevelt today received assurances that the nation's banks are alert to the financial problems involved in the national defense program and are ready to coöperate in solving them.

These assurances were given by Robert M. Hanes, president of the American Bankers association, and Harold V. Amberg, of Chicago, president of the Association of Reserve City Bankers, to Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, secretary to the President, during a call at the white house.

The banking officials informed President Roosevelt that private industry, including banking, "is better equipped to serve the nation in this emergency than it was in 1917" and expressed the hope "that they will be used to the fullest extent possible to the end that the fiscal requirements of the government will be correspondingly reduced."

Million Bushels of Corn and Rye Leaving Duluth

Duluth, Minn., June 24 (AP).—More than 1,000,000 bushels of corn and rye will leave the Duluth harbor within the next 24 hours for foreign consumption, most likely to feed the British Isles, it was reported today. Four vessels are in port today taking on 920,000 bushels of corn—one of the largest single day corn shipments in the history of the port—and 150,000 bushels of rye.

WHEAT WAVERS ON CONFLICTING NEWS OF CROPS

Needed Rains Offset Rust Damage Reports.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the July delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade:

	Yesterday	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.79¾	$0.79⅝	$0.69½
Corn	.61⅝	.62⅝	.47½
Oats	.31⅛	.32⅜	.30½
Rye	.42⅝	.42½	.44¾
Soy beans	.80½	.80	.93⅛

Wheat prices fluctuated yesterday within a range of about 1 cent a bushel. Fall of rain in parts of the drouth area in the Dakotas was offset by unwanted rains in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas and increasing reports of damage by black rust in parts of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

Closing trades in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Corn finished ¼ to 1 cent lower, July leading the decline. Oats declined ⅜ to ½ cent and rye was unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Soy beans finished ½ cent higher to ⅜ cent lower, the former on July.

Forecast Shortage in Europe.

An acute wheat shortage is expected in Europe during the coming crop year, according to reports received yesterday. Broomhall, an English authority, forecast that continental Europe, exclusive of Russia, would harvest much less than the normal yield. Last year's crop was 1,717,000,000 bushels, while the average of the last five years has been 1,640,000,000 bushels.

Rumania, normally one of the largest surplus producing countries in Europe, will have a crop of about 92,000,000 bushels this year and has a carryover of only 3,000,000 bushels from the 1939 crop, according to a report to the department of agriculture. This compares with average domestic requirements of 132,000,000 bushels. The 1939 crop aggregated 165,000,000 bushels.

Russian Crops are Poor.

The outlook for the wheat and rye crops in Russia is unfavorable, and there is nothing to indicate that the soviet can export in volume during the 1940-'41 season, the Canadian bureau of statistics says. Russian exports have averaged 27,000,000 bushels during the last three years. Italy is the only European country with definitely favorable crop prospects, the bureau said.

Small purchases of flour were said to have been made over the weekend by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation for relief purposes.

Total debits during the 13 weeks ended June 19 were $16,331,006,000 which is 11.6 per cent more than the $14,635,392,000 in the same period last year.

STAPLE MARKETS SAG AS TRADERS WATCH EUROPE

Tin and Rubber Lead List to Lower Ground.

Most commodity traders remained on the sidelines yesterday watching developments in Europe and hesitated to make definite commitments in speculative markets. Prices sagged on nearly all staples.

The price of tin slipped ⅛ cent a pound in the cash market on reports of weakness in London. There was no trading in futures.

Crude rubber futures tumbled 0.35 to 0.66 cent a pound while smoked ribbed declined to 22.75 cents a pound in the cash market, off ⅝ cent from Saturday.

Expect Federal Rubber Purchase.

Advices from London tended to confirm rumors in New York that the United States shortly will purchase 100,000 tons of rubber from Great Britain.

Sir John Hay, member of the International rubber regulation committee, is in Washington at present, and is understood to be representing rubber producers. It is reported the transaction likely will be a straight cash sale rather than a barter transaction.

The copper market continued weak with futures sagging 0.08 to 0.09 cent a pound. Week-end domestic sales of copper were moderate.

Sugar Trading Is Slow.

Issuance of notices of intention to deliver on the July domestic sugar contract fettered demand. Trade interests bought July and sold later months. Sales totaled 14,100 tons. World affairs continued to limit trading in the world contracts with prices down 0.025 to 0.045 cent a pound. The domestic contracts closed 0.02 to 0.03 cent a pound lower.

Coffee futures gave ground in thin trade. The Santos futures closed 0.01 to 0.02 cent a pound lower while the Rio contracts fell 0.07 to 0.18 cent a pound.

Hides were off 0.08 to 0.10 cent a pound, cocoa futures 0.13 to 0.17 cent, raw silk futures, 3½ to 5 cents, and wool top futures, 0.2 to 0.4 cent. Bleachable cottonseed oil futures were unchanged to 0.01 of a cent a pound lower.

Kearny, N. J., June 24 [Special].—A contract between the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company and the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America [C. I. O.] was signed here today. The one year agreement gives the union sole bargaining rights for all of the 7,000 production and maintenance employés. It provides an increase to 70 cents from 62½ cents in the minimum hourly wage of all employés excepting laborers. The increase is estimated at $600,000 a year. Demands for a closed shop and a one week paid vacation for one year employés were dropped by the union.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

Garden Crops Thrive.

THIS has been a good year for flowers and vegetables at the Du Page county farm. So far the garden crops have grown well, despite a late start in the retarded spring season. Most of the late planting has been finished and the gardeners are giving their attention mainly to cultivation of the growing crops.

Perennial borders and annuals planted in rows for cut flowers are cultivated once a week and after every rain. The same schedule is followed for vegetables, and will continue in both the flower and vegetable gardens thru July.

Only shallow cultivations will be given from now on thru the summer in order not to disturb the roots of the plants. The ground will be stirred just deep enough to break up the surface of the soil. Deeper cultivations were made earlier in the spring while the plants were small.

Soil Kept Open.

The gardeners say that summer cultivation is necessary to keep down weeds, conserve moisture, and keep the soil open so air may circulate around the roots of plants.

Stirring the surface soil helps hold moisture by decreasing the rate of evaporation, the gardeners say. It tends to make more plant food available for the roots of growing crops by allowing air to penetrate the soil. This induces development of bacteria that aid in breaking down plant foods into soluble forms that can be absorbed by plant roots, they explain.

The old flowering heads are being clipped off the peonies, now that the plants are about thru blooming for the year. The withered flowers are clipped off as soon as they fade to keep seeds from forming. None of the foliage is clipped and the plants will be cultivated on thru the summer.

Cutting Weakens Plants.

In cutting peony bouquets during the blossoming season the gardeners are careful not to cut too many flowers from any one plant because some foliage is removed with each bloom and they think it weakens the plants to cut away too much foliage.

Tulips in beds exposed to full sun will be dug up this week and the bulbs stored in a cellar where the temperature is about 60 degrees. They will be kept in the cellar until fall and then replanted. The gardeners have found that more tulips are ruined by hot summer weather than by exposure to the cold in winter.

The tulips will be left in the ground where the beds are in partial shade, but small rooting annuals, such as petunias, will be planted among the tulips to provide them additional protection from the heat during July and August.

The investigation into training methods has been under way for almost two years, with a group of faculty members of Armour Institute of Technology doing the actual survey work. These observers have been following methods suggested by William Bachrach, chairman of the association committee on education, and Stanley P. Farwell, chairman of its special committee on "in service" training.

Arranges Part Time Training.

Armour institute has been commended by officials of the Illinois Manufacturers association for its arrangement of part time training of students in plants as part of their regular studies.

Under this plan, some of the most promising students are given practical experience in industry, particularly in highly skilled lines where a knowledge of engineering principles is essential.

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the manufacturers association, has suggested that manufacturers and other technical institutions expand this type of arrangement to assist in the development of skilled labor.

TRUAX-TRAER.

I have intended for some time to purchase some Truax-Traer stock to provide additional diversification to my investments but have hesitated because of the bituminous coal act. How will the law affect this company's earnings? What were its profits in the last couple of years?—T. H.

Answer: Truax-Traer Coal company operates 11 bituminous coal mines in Illinois, West Virginia, and North Dakota from headquarters in Chicago. Most of the coal is sold to railroads, utilities, industrial plants, and to dealers in the middle west for domestic use.

Mining in the Illinois and North Dakota properties is accomplished by the strip method thru open pits. The West Virginia drift mines are driven into hillsides and the mining is done underground. Coal output in the fiscal year ended April 30, 1940, totaled 3,694,084 tons, compared with 3,622,606 tons in the preceding year. The company estimated its reserves will last at least 20 years at the present production rate.

Truax-Traer started operations in 1927 in the lignite coal fields of North Dakota. The company's capitalization consists of long-term bank loans of $600,000; 550 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock, and 4,790 shares of 5½ per cent preferred stock, both of $100 par value, and 441,278 shares of no par common stock.

Dividends on the preferred stock have been paid regularly. Payments on the common stock were started in 1929 and were made in each year except from 1932 thru 1935 and in 1939. A dividend of 25 cents a common share was paid last May 2.

Slightly higher coal prices boosted earnings in the 1939-'40 fiscal year. Consolidated net income, earnings per common share in recent fiscal years ending April 30, and dividends per common share in calendar years were as follows:

	Net income.	Earned per com. share.	†Divs. per com. share.
1936	$306,260	$1.09	$0.25
1937	540,490	1.26	.65
1938	303,722	.69	.20
1939	74,287	.10	...
1940	261,565	.52	*.25

*Thus far in 1940. †Calendar years.

The minimum prices which are expected to become effective Aug. 1 under the bituminous coal act will place a "tremendous burden" on the industry, the company's recent annual report asserted. The effect of the government's price regulation would be to raise coal prices and thus weaken the competitive position of coal as against other fuels, the company said.

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT PRICES.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 24 [Special].—Today's Benton Harbor fruit market prices were: Strawberries, 16 quart crates, best mostly $1.35 to $1.40; few $1.50; poorer $1 to $1.25.

INDUSTRY WAR'S BACKBONE, SAYS HUGH JOHNSON

Calls America Helpless; Lashes Foreign Policy.

please, fifth columns that gives a nation command in war or in peace.

"We do not want to change the rest of the world, but we do want to make America secure. Free industry is the only hope.

"Production Is Strength."

"In industry is production. In production is strength. In strength is preparedness. In preparedness is freedom. In freedom is opportunity, peace, democracy," he declared.

Advertising, to strengthen the American way of life, must show the public that institutions, as well as products, are necessary, Grant said.

"Industry is coming back into favor. Now that we need mass production, skilled workmanship and far sighted management, we regard as virtues the things that seemed so evil such a short time ago," Grant told his audience.

Says "Fat Days" Are Over.

Hollister, speaking from the standpoint of the advertiser, told his audience that the "fat years of the American way of life are ended."

"Whether or not the next years are to teach us how to live bravely and with a better understanding of what counts and what does not, is entirely up to the individuals who compose our nation," he said.

The United States is due for a rebirth, Hollister said, and advertising must play its part in that reawakening, "as a small but mighty arm of the American business machine."

Dr. Kelliher, speaking from the consumer's point of view, said that the American way of life is primarily and entirely concerned with the welfare of the people.

Opposes Arousing Fear.

Advertising is inextricably bound up with the welfare of the people, Dr. Kelliher said, and she criticized the type of advertising that arouses fear in the consumer.

"We are now in a period when the ultimate test of American institutions will be their selflessness in the cause of furthering the real American way of life, the way of effort, courage, and faith in the individual, Dr. Kelliher said. "Those institutions, be they advertising, education, religion, or any others, will find their common goals leading them into unexpected but congenial companionships in this venture of keeping our democracy alive."

RUSSIAN BUYING IN UNITED STATES IS MUCH REDUCED

New York, June 24 [Special].—Soviet Russia's purchases in the United States last month fell to $2,750,000 from a monthly average of close to $10,000,000 in midwinter, foreign traders in close touch with soviet business reported here today. The month's orders, which will not appear in official figures for several months, were confined to oil field equipment, some agricultural machinery, and a limited quantity of machine tool parts, it was said.

The inability of Russia to arrange transportation of the goods she buys here, rather than inclination to cut purchases, accounts for this dwindling volume, according to exporters. Russia has been compelled to use the trans-Pacific route on all shipments since last fall and send the supplies obtained here overland by rail from Vladivostok.

Terms War the Principal Factor in Farm Prices

War has been and will continue to be the principal factor influencing prices of farm products, G. L. Jordan, associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, asserted yesterday. Jordan pointed out that the prices of certain farm commodities have declined sharply in recent weeks because of the subsiding of "speculative enthusiasm" thru the altering of early opinions that the war would be slow to terminate.

William Knudsen, Henry and Edsel Ford Confer

Detroit, Mich., June 24 (AP).—William S. Knudsen, member of President Roosevelt's special defense commission, conferred today with Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, at the Ford Motor company plant. They were together for several hours, but no statement was made as to the subjects discussed. Presumably they talked over Ford's plan to produce aviation engines or finished airplanes.

Home Loan Bank Advances in May Highest of 23 Months

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago's largest volume of advances in 23 months was made in May, the bank reported yesterday to the federal board in Washington. The $2,197,980 advanced to savings, building and loan associations in Illinois and Wisconsin represented the fourth time in the bank's 7½ year history that it has reached the 2 million dollar mark in disbursements in a single month.

Design New Warplane That Will Fly Five Miles High

Pasadena, Cal., June 24 (AP).—A "flying pipe" airplane which will drive thru the air five miles high, above storms and antiaircraft fire, is being designed. W. L. Howland and Carl Beed, experimental engineers for the Lockheed Aircraft corporation, told the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences convention today of the ship.

BUSINESS LOANS OF BANKS CLIMB 3D WEEK IN ROW

Reserve Board Reports 10 Million Net Gain.

For the third consecutive week, commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans of the federal reserve system banks increased during the week ended last Wednesday, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

These loans gained $10,000,000 to a total of $4,387,000,000 in banks of 101 cities for the week, the board said. The total is $564,000,000 higher than that of a year ago.

In Chicago district banks alone the commercial, industrial, and agricultural loans increased $12,000,000 last week, but small decreases were recorded for some other areas.

Following are the principal assets and liabilities of the member banks of the federal reserve system in 101 leading cities of the United States as at the close of business Wednesday [last six ciphers omitted]:

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Despite slightly larger receipts, most classes of hogs sold strong to higher yesterday. Advances in all good stock over 180 pounds ranged from 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds.

Stronger prices prevailed for most steers and yearlings. Heifers, calves, and replacement stock held steady.

Mostly steady to strong prices were paid for lambs.

COTTON

Cotton was firm early, but weakened later in sympathy with Bombay, and liquidation by Indian traders. Aggregate trade was small. Closing trades were about the bottom with final sale .05 cent higher to .05 cent a pound lower. Mills were fair buyers on the way down.

Reports that Japan would be forced to curtail purchases of Brazilian cotton owing to inability to secure foreign exchange and might divert purchases to the United States, attracted some attention. It is estimated that Japan may take up to 240,000 bales of American cotton.

Germany is estimated to have secured 300,000 or more bales of cotton thru its conquest of France. The bulk of the supply was secured at Havre, where about 200,000 bales was held in warehouses.

Larger English government war orders were being placed with Manchester mills, it is reported. Export business in English textiles is now largely confined to the dominions and South America, it is said.

Spot cotton closed .05 cent higher to .03 cent lower with New York, 11.04 cents; New Orleans, 11.00 cents; Galveston, 10.47 cents, and Houston at 10.40 cents a pound. Prices follow:

ASSERTS RUBBER CAN BE GROWN IN UNITED STATES

Washington, D. C., June 24 (AP).—Representative John Z. Anderson [R., Cal.] urged Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace today to investigate development of the guayule plant as a source of domestic production of rubber. Congress has appropriated $500,000 for the department to survey the possibilities of rubber production in the western hemisphere.

Anderson said in a letter to Wallace that guayule rubber was being produced successfully in the vicinity of Salinas, Cal.

"I understand," he wrote, "that it can be grown commercially in other states where there is a nominal winter rainfall and a long, dry summer."

Anderson said 90 per cent of the United States' rubber supply came from the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya, which sources might be cut off entirely as a result of the war.

PREPARE TO SAVE BUILDING FROM SUBWAY HAZARD

The $200,000 job of safeguarding the foundations of the Monadnock building against hazards caused by construction of the Dearborn street subway was begun yesterday. Workmen for the Carroll Construction company, contractors, made preparations to sink 20 concrete caissons, four feet in diameter, 70 feet into the soil on the Dearborn street side to form a solid support for the building.

The cost of the work is being paid by trustees for the building, who have filed suit against the city for compensation. The city contends the expense should be paid by the building owners.

The building, bounded by Dearborn, Van Buren, and Federal streets and Jackson boulevard, is now on floating foundations—large concrete mats resting on clay. The subway tunnel will pass within four feet of these foundations.

Electrical Supply Concern Enjoined Under WagesLaw

A consent decree restraining the Capitol Electric Supply company, 3412 Ogden avenue, from violation of the fair labor standards act was issued yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe. The company also was ordered to make restitution of $1,126 to 19 employés, principally for overtime.

Business Failures Climb to 296 Total During Week

New York, June 24 (AP).—Business failures in the United States rose to 296 during the week ended June 20, highest in a month, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. This compared with 245 in the preceding week and 310 a year ago.

DICK TRACY—TEMPTATION
AH-HA-HA-HA! SO THEY THOUGHT I HAD APPENDICITIS, EH? AH-HA! HA! HA!
OH, WELL, I'VE GOT JUST ONE THING IN MIND NOW! I'M GOING TO FIND THAT LITTLE DOUBLE-CROSSER, JEROME! I'LL TEACH HIM TO LEAVE ME.
WHAT'S THIS? THEY'VE STOPPED! OH- THEY'RE GOING INTO A HAMBURGER STAND FOR SOME MIDNIGHT LUNCH, I GUESS.
CANDY BARS! A WHOLE COUNTER FULL OF CANDY BARS. I-I CAN'T STAND IT! I'VE GOT TO HAVE ONE. I'M STARVING. I- I'LL TAKE A CHANCE!
